TAYLOR'S DEATHBED STORY DEPICTS REIGN OF TERROR

HOUSE RETAINS AGE LIMIT OF 21 TO 44 IN DRAFT

Rejects Senate's 21 to 30 Provision.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—In a turbulent session devoted to military issues, the house of representatives refused today to change the age limits for compulsory military training from the range of 21 to 44 years, inclusive, previously set by its military affairs committee.

By a vote of 161 to 47, the house rejected the narrower age limit of 21 to 30, inclusive, which the senate placed in its version of the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill.

The legislators were even asked by Representative Edward H. Rees, [R., Kas.], to enlarge the registration limits to include men up to the age of 55. He contended men are just as fit at that age as at 45. His amendment was defeated by a voice vote.

Contrarily, Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] said the age limits should be fixed at 21 to 25, arguing: "I was a company commander in the war and I don't want anybody in there over 30 years old."

Rayburn Urges Higher Limit.

Democratic Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas joined the argument against changing the 21 to 44 age limits.

"The measure, in its present form, gives the older men a chance to serve as noncommissioned officers, as mechanics, and in similar capacities," he said. "Skilled mechanics and similar technical workers will be found in the older age group. These men should not be denied a chance to serve their country."

The chamber finally adjourned until tomorrow when Democratic leaders conceded the futility of obtaining passage of the Burke-Wadsworth bill at a night session.

Before the meeting finally broke up, the house had twice shied away from amendments which would have required members of congress to register for training. Several persons were ejected from the galleries for voicing their disapproval of the legislators' action.

Reject Congressional Service.

The house first defeated, by a narrow margin of 123 to 119, an amendment to require all members of congress under 65 to register, even tho they would not be liable for training. The measure calls for registration of members of congress up to the age of 45, altho they are exempt from call as members of a legislative body.

Later Representative W. M. Whittington [D., Miss.] proposed that all congressmen not only be required to register but to go to camp with other citizens for a year's training. This provoked a storm of controversy, but Whittington's amendment was finally defeated by a vote of 122 to 62.

"The purpose of this bill is equality for all," Whittington told members.

"Only congress can declare war. Only congress can provide for conscription. It would have a salutary effect upon the country if we voted to share in the military service period. Those who vote conscription should accept conscription."

Retain Exemption Provision.

After the Whittington amendment was defeated, a motion was made to strike out the entire section, exempting from service the vice-president and all members of the legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the government. This was beaten down overwhelmingly by a vote of 119 to 38.

The only important amendment adopted out of more than 30 offered during the day requires the government to certify that adequate housing and hospital facilities are available for the draftees before they can be inducted into service. It was approved by a vote of 115 to 95 after several members had told the house that they had information indicating the army is not prepared to house properly hundreds of thousands of newly drafted men.

At his press conference today President Roosevelt presumably forgot his rule about not commenting on pending legislation. He noted that time is flying and that quick passage of the conscription bill is essential to defense plans.

KILL SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS; FIRES STARTED

Planes Raid German Capital in Waves.

BERLIN, Sept. 7, Saturday (AP).—British bombing planes staged a three hour raid on Berlin early today, flying low over the capital to drop a hail of high explosives and incendiary bombs in the most spectacular attack of the war. At least two civilians and some soldiers were killed and others injured.

The British pilots obviously attempting to improve their bombing, made long shallow dives despite a furious barrage of antiaircraft fire and in defiance of Fuhrer Hitler's promise of retaliation made only Wednesday.

Fires were started in the center of the city and especially in the northern section. Blazes continued to brighten the skies long after the all clear signal, so that throngs lined the sidewalks, staring for the most part silently at a spectacle which gave Berlin its nearest similarity to a war zone in generations.

Railroad Station Damaged.

One railroad station in the industrial suburb of Tegel was damaged by an explosive bomb and a small warehouse in the center of the capital and a railroad yard were fired.

The attack on Berlin was part of a general raid on Germany in which the British bombers were said to have crossed the Netherlands border in waves, some going into the industrial Ruhr and others continuing eastward to Berlin.

They dropped numerous flares over Potsdam and Spandau as well as over Berlin. In Brandenburg, 37 miles southwest of Berlin, a searchlight battery was hit by a bomb. One light was smashed and several soldiers killed or injured.

Famous Courthouse Fired.

In Berlin barrage balloons [long an important part of the defense of London] were raised in some sections for the first time. German spokesmen said the British were surprised and confused and were forced to fly at a great height in these areas.

In the center of Berlin an incendiary bomb set fire to the old Moabit courthouse, scene of many a famous trial, including that of the Evangelical Lutheran pastor, Martin Niemoeller.

Prisoners awaiting investigation found safety in a cellar, but an officer was killed by a falling wall. A doctor and one other were injured.

This courthouse was just across the street from a barracks, while the struck warehouse was in the vicinity of a railway station. Both were hit by low flying planes.

BOMB LONDON DOCKS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—The Germans asserted today that Nazi air attacks are being concentrated on London and its environs with "ever increasing fury."

For the first time the German war communique reported that London proper was attacked. It said harbor facilities and docks in the eastern section of the city were bombed.

The communique said 50 British planes were shot down up until 10 o'clock tonight. The Germans admitted the loss of 14 planes.

A COFFEE CRISIS HITS FRANCE; CURB SALES AFTER 3 IN AFTERNOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

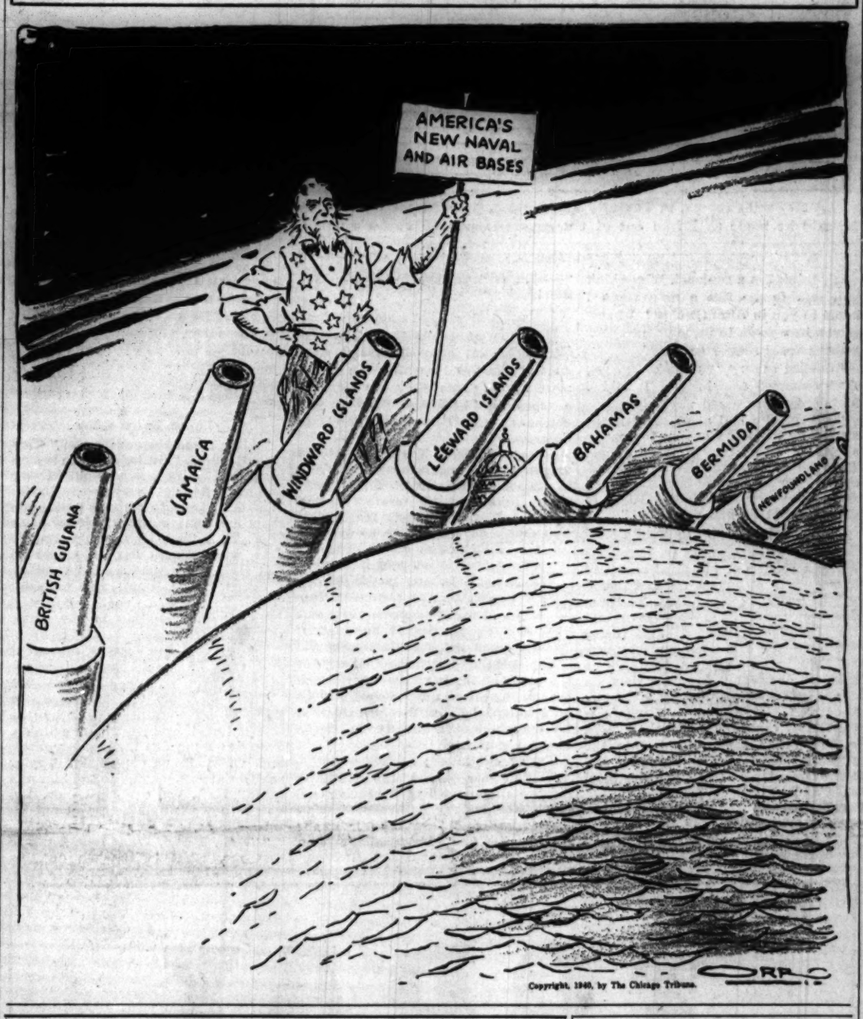
VICHY, France, Sept. 6.—The coffee crisis has struck the unoccupied portion of France on the heels of general food restrictions in preparation for a hard winter.

From now on, no coffee may be sold in restaurants, cafés, or public places after 3 o'clock in the afternoon, according to a new decree law. The law also establishes that a new mixture must be made which will be a third coffee and two-thirds burned beans, chicory, or other such products.

The sale of pure coffee is forbidden. The decree will hit the country hard, for the French always have been large consumers of coffee.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NATION

SEVEN NEW REASONS



Carol—A $60,000 a Year Exile

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 6 (AP).—King Carol II., undone by his enemies at last, was driven from the throne of Rumania today and cast into a dull pensioner's exile with the fading beauty, Magda Lupescu.

His 18 year old son, Prince Michael, took over the now empty title of monarch—a sovereign only in name, ruling by grace of Rumania's tough old military dictator, Gen. Ion Antonescu.

Carol, who for 10 years had made harsh, decisive use of the powers of a real king to live down his youthful reputation as a man more fond of parties than politics, abdicated at dawn and crept out of the country aboard his yacht, to which Madame Lupescu already was understood to have fled.

$60,000 a Year.

Where they would go none knew precisely—perhaps to Egypt, perhaps eventually to Switzerland or the United States. He was given an allowance in English pounds worth about $60,000 a year.

The young prince—invested immediately with the crown while old Antonescu took his hand and intoned "Sire, a prayer to God to help your majesty and me"—at once summoned his divorced mother, Princess Helen, to come and watch over him.

The Bucharest radio announced that Helen had arrived by plane from Dresden, Germany, but this was not confirmed from other sources. In Dresden a member of her staff said she had not been "in communication" with Rumania during the day.

A great tumult swept the streets of Bucharest for hours after Carol's abdication was announced. The celebrations were led by members of the pro-Nazi Iron Guard who, threatening revolution unless he yielded, had almost literally howled Carol from the throne.

They Didn't Forget.

Last year, after the assassination of his premier, Armand Calinescu, Carol had ordered the execution of thousands of the guardists—and they had not forgotten.

They roamed the streets, beating Jewish shopkeepers, acting as howling troops of disorder.

Arrests went forward right and left: Gen. Constantine Argetoianu, who was premier after Calinescu's death; Gen. George Mihail, chief of the Rumanian general staff; Mititza Constantinescu, a pro-British president of the national bank and former premier; dozens of other former leaders, perhaps hundreds of lesser lights.

Lest any of those wanted escape the police, Antonescu ordered a blanket cancellation of all Rumanian passports to halt flights from the country.

Surrender Telephone Exchange.

The demonstrations of the Iron Guard—which holds the new king in esteem—died down tonight and its members symbolically surrendered the telephone exchange at Brasov. This they had occupied since Tuesday night, the hour they began their uprising against Carol's régime.

But in front of the palace there were other demonstrations. Tens of thousands of Rumanians swarmed the grounds, shouting hysterically.

Last night Carol had sat all night in the palace while Antonescu urged him to abdicate. Outside, thousands of Iron Guardists threatened a general armed uprising.

His kingdom—already stripped of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina by Russia, of northern Transylvania by Hungary, and ready to be stripped of southern Dobruja by Bulgaria—seemed to be breaking up under his eyes.

At last the king agreed to be a king no longer. The decision actually was reached at 3 a. m., but it was made under the condition that nothing would be divulged until the monarch had had time to reach the royal yacht. Then, clearly in fear of his life, he packed hurriedly, left stealthily on a special train to Constanta, and there walked aboard the yacht.

FATHER AND SON DUEL WITH KNIFE AND A BLUDGEON

Norwalk, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP).—Father and son suffered injuries today in what John P. Slough, a sheriff's investigator, termed an apparently prearranged duel.

Slough said witnesses told him:

Bert H. Sherley, 59 years old, and his son, James, 35, drove to a nearby field in the same automobile, walked some distance apart and took facing positions.

They then ran together, the father wielding a knife, the son a bludgeon.

Officers found the elder Sherley crumpled on the ground, unconscious from a blow on the head, and the son bleeding from cuts on his arms, legs, and hands. They were taken to a hospital.

Slough said the cause of the altercation was not learned.

Convicted Pal of Huey Long Kills Himself

New Orleans, La., Sept. 6 [Special].—Monte E. Hart, a favorite of the Huey Long political machine and under a federal prison sentence of 30 months, killed himself in his home here today by firing a bullet into his head. Servants found the gun nearby.

Coroner C. Gaines Cole returned a verdict of suicide.

Hart was a wealthy and prominent contractor whose firm, Caldwell Brothers & Hart, had been awarded numerous lucrative state contracts during the time Kingfish Long and his crowd ruled Louisiana.

Under Several Indictments.

In addition to the prison sentence, Hart was under numerous indictments for alleged corruption in which the Long machine had mulcted the state of many thousands of dollars.

The sentence and a fine of $1,000 were imposed last September, when Hart and four others were convicted of using the mails to defraud. It was shown they had twice sold the furnishings of the Bienville hotel, of which Hart was part owner, to Louisiana State university for $75,000.

Among those convicted with Hart were Seymour Weiss, one of Long's political heirs, and Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of L. S. U., whose defalcations precipitated a scandal that rocked the state.

Accused of Embezzlement.

Hart was indicted last September by the Orleans parish grand jury on a charge of embezzlement for participation in a deal by which a five story building on the grounds of the university's Charity hospital was moved 162 feet and then moved back again at a cost to the university of about $500,000.

In October he was indicted by the Lincoln parish grand jury, along with former Gov. Richard W. Leche and three others, on charges of operating a confidence game.

Nazis Behead 4 Convicted of Treason and Espionage

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (AP).—Four men whom the People's court had convicted of high treason and espionage were beheaded today. They were Wilhelm Busson, 48; Josef Kaiser, 50; Rudolf Worm, 31, and Karl Zink, 30.

AIDS OF TAYLOR'S UNION STUNNED BY HIS CHARGES

Twenty shaken, white-faced leaders of Chicago's 3,600 union elevator operators heard in silent amazement last night the story of their president, Mathew Taylor, that he had embezzled $30,000 from the union treasury to purchase a few extra months of life.

Mathew Taylor.

The story was all the more astonishing in that it told how Taylor, while paying the money to the vice president of his local's parent international union to buy off death from gangsters' guns, was already under sentence of slow death from tuberculosis and diabetes.

Payment of the $30,000 had permitted Taylor to die in bed, and now—just 14 hours after his death—his followers had been called to the office of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, in room 507 of the County building, to hear his accusations read.

It's a Strange Story.

That was the setting of the conference; certainly one of the strangest wakes ever held in Chicago.

Courtney summoned the executive board, the union officers, and members of the union's administrative staff to his office. They filed in, 19 men and one woman, and sat facing the state's attorney. Flanking Courtney, upright behind his desk, were Capt. Daniel Gilbert, investigator for the state's attorney's office, and Wilbert Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. Also present was Thomas Harvey, a court reporter.

Story Told on Deathbed.

"Ladies and gentlemen," Courtney said, "I heard you were going to meet tonight in executive session, perhaps to select a successor to your late president. I wanted to make sure that all of you here know the story given to me by Taylor of what was happening to your union.

"That story was given to me on what turned out to be his deathbed.

"I wanted you to hear this story in each other's presence, so that its meaning would be clear to each of you, and so that it could not be tampered with or changed."

Crowley then stood up and, slowly and deliberately, read the statement. It was 6 o'clock when he began. It was after 8 when he finished.

Listeners Are Tense.

Emotions raced in succession across the faces of his auditors. They sat tensely in the hot and stuffy room.

When Crowley finished, there was a moment of silence, then a murmur.

Several said, "What we have heard is almost unbelievable—"

"I want you people to know that, as state's attorney, I am here to protect decent, legitimate unions from lawlessness and racketeering," Courtney said. "You may call on me any time you find yourselves in trouble."

The union delegation agreed that an executive board meeting would be held Monday night to decide the future course of the union.

Scalise Is Accused; $30,000 Extortion Plot Revealed.

Statement by Burke

Thomas J. Burke, vice president of the Building Service Employés' International union, made the following statement last night:

"Until I read Taylor's statement I thought I was one of his best friends. I was his guest at Momence, Ill., on several occasions and slept in the same room with him.

"His statements are complete fabrications and I can account for them in no other way than to conclude that he was laboring under hallucinations. I never received any money from Matt Taylor for my own use or to give to any member of any mob, whatsoever."

(Pictures on pages 2 and 3.)

A man who had been identified with organized labor in Chicago for 39 years died yesterday. For 35 of those years he had worked in a legitimate way to increase the power of his union.

For the last four years, according to his own sworn statement, both he and his union had been in the grip of a ruthless mob which operated in New York and Chicago.

This man's death brought to light a startling story high lighted with charges of murder, extortion, and robbery.

Story of Terrorism Told on Death Bed.

The story, which turned out to have been made on his deathbed, was related three weeks ago by Mathew Taylor, president of the Chicago Elevator Operators and Starters' union. He told it to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney and Wilbert F. Crowley, the former's first assistant.

The setting was the bedside of Taylor in the Edwards sanatorium in Naperville, where Taylor died.

Taylor's statement filled 65 typewritten pages. He made the statement to initiate a prosecution of those who he said had preyed upon him and his union.

"The mob has had me and my union in its grip for the last three or four years," Taylor said, "but I am thru. I am going to beat these gangsters. I am going to free my union and I am going to try to drive the mob out of union labor. I'm sick. Doctors tell me I am suffering from tuberculosis and diabetes. I may not get well. If I die I want my union protected from the mob."

Series of Sensations Unfolded in Document.

The document unfolded one sensation after another. It gave the circumstances of three unsolved Chicago murders. It told of the calloused transfer of Taylor's union, with its 3,500 elevator operators, from one international to another because George Scalise, New York hoodlum and former white slaver, demanded it of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. [Scalise is on trial in New York City for grand larceny of funds of the Building Service Employés' International union, of which he was president.]

Taylor told of deals between Chicago unions to win controversies with business men by calling strikes and massing their unions' collective power. He turned the spotlight on meetings between Chicago labor leaders and representatives of a New York mob. He charged that he knew the men behind a $5,000 holdup and robbery of Taylor last year.

And, finally, he said how, with his life at stake, according to his story, he took more than $30,000 of his union's funds and turned it over to "the mob."

INVASION STARTED IN 1936

Chronologically, the story of the gangsters' invasion of Taylor's union goes back to 1936. Two of the killings described took place before this, but because of the light Taylor's statement throws on these two famous murders, the details of these cases as given by Taylor will be told first.

Big Tim Murphy, one of Chicago's pioneer labor racketeers, an ex-mail robber, and one time state representative, was killed by gangsters' machine gun fire on Jan. 26, 1928. He was shot on the lawn in front of his home at 2525 Morse avenue. The killers were not apprehended.

Taylor told State's Attorney Courtney that Mike Carrozzo, boss of street cleaning and paving rackets, who died Aug. 4, instigated Murphy's death; that Carrozzo wanted Murphy out of the way and had a former business agent of Taylor's union put Murphy "on the spot." Taylor gave the state's attorney the name of the spotter, which will reopen the investigation of the famous killing, State's Attorney Courtney said last night.

Murphy Lured to His Death.

"This man [the former business agent] called Murphy up and begged him please to come over to a party at this man's home," Taylor told Courtney in a stenographic statement. "Murphy said: 'All right, you come out and get me and I will go over with you.'

"This man goes out and he walks along Farwell avenue on the north side until he gets to Murphy's house, and as Murphy saw this man, Murphy stepped down. He thought everything was O. K., but as he stepped down the steps the mob was across the street and they let him have it."

The second murder mentioned was that of Louis [Two Gun] Alterie, labor racketeer. On July 18, 1935, gunmen, who never have been identified, killed him from an ambush as he stepped from his apartment at 922 Eastwood avenue.

Taylor gave the state's attorney the name of a Chicago labor leader in connection with Alterie's death.

"He [this leader] put Alterie on the spot to get him out of the way," Taylor said, "and by doing that they made him [the leader] the front man."

"You mean this man told you he put Alterie on the spot?" Courtney asked.

"Yes," Taylor answered.

Details of the third murder came out later in Taylor's story.

BACKGROUND OF UNION

To understand why racketeers coveted Taylor's union, it is necessary to know these facts in Chicago union history: Taylor had organized the elevated starters and operators in 1901 and affiliated his local with the International Union of Elevator Constructors.

Other unions, affiliated with the Building Service Employés International union, controled scrub women, window washers, and other building workers. Jerry Horan of Chicago, who died in May, 1937, was international president of this building employés' union and also was president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union.

Horan believed Taylor's union should be affiliated with his international. Later he was to try to buy such an affiliation. But the first effort to take over Taylor's union was inspired, not by Horan, but by local hoodlums. According to Taylor, that effort came in 1936.

Mobs' Grasp Described.

Taylor, his statement says, gave work to a lawyer at that time and this lawyer told him one day: "You know you have been going along pretty nice, you got an organization that has a lot of money, and the mob wants some of it."

Taylor said he replied: "Why should I have anything to do with a mob? We are running a clean union. We are not slugging anybody. We are ace high with our employés."

Taylor said he went to a bar with the lawyer and there met Louis Schiavone, former Capone gangster, altho Taylor did not then know his name. [Schiavone was assassinated by shotgun killers July 5, 1939.]

Defies Gangster's Threat.

"Schiavone said," Taylor related, "that I would want to be sick some day and he would be a doctor. He said: 'We want to put a man in your union.' I said: 'Nothing doing.' I wasn't going to give in to the mob."

Then, Taylor related, began the efforts of the building employés' union to take over his union. The International Building Service union needed the elevator operators to help enforce strikes called on loop buildings. Taylor said that early in 1937 Horan called him to the Bismarck hotel, where he met Louis [Little New York] Campagna, a gangster.

"When we got thru dinner," Taylor said, "Campagna threw a certified check for $50,000 at me. He said: 'Matt, I want you to step out as president of the elevator operators' union and we want to take that union over because we can help our cause then. We can't get any place now because Burke is disliked in the loop.'"

Tells Refusal to Sell Out!

The Burke referred to is Thomas J. Burke, then a third vice president of the Building Service Employés' International union and head of the Theatrical Janitors' union in Chicago. Taylor said Burke had had difficulty in dealing with loop business men and needed the support of Taylor's elevator operators to enforce demands.

"I said to Campagna," Taylor continued, "' You don't think I would sell out for $50,000. I am just building up my local.' Campagna said: 'We will give you a job besides at $500 a month.' I said he could not give me a job for $10,000 a month. I would not sell out. I said I never sold out a union in my life. Campagna said: 'Matt, you are a damn fool; you'll regret it some day.'"

SCALISE MADE PRESIDENT

The next event in Taylor's story concerned Horan's death in May, 1937, and the elevation of Scalise, the New York hoodlum, to the presidency of the Building Service Employés' international.

Scalise had been 3d vice president and was made president over Burke and William McFetridge of Chicago, two vice presidents of higher rank. [McFetridge now is president of the international. He also is president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union.]

At Scalise's current trial in New York for grand larceny of his union's funds, one of his associates has testified that Scalise was put into the international presidency thru the activities of the Chicago "mob." The deal was reported to have been arranged in a Chicago restaurant.

Pressure Becomes Stronger.

Taylor told Courtney that the pressure to push his union into the building employés international, which he had resisted successfully when Horan tried it, became stronger after Scalise became international president.

After conferring with local labor leaders, Taylor went to Washington, D. C., to attend a dinner of national labor figures for James A. Farley, then postmaster. While riding on the train back from Washington, Taylor said he met Harry Bates, international president of the bricklayers' union.

"Bates was on the executive board of the A. F. of L." Taylor said, "and he told me somebody had put a lot of power and pressure on Green, president of the A. F. of L., to give this fellow [Scalise] all the elevator operators thruout the country."

Nelson at Parley, He Says.

Taylor then referred to Judge Oscar Nelson of the Cook county Superior court, and long active in labor circles. He said Nelson attended a meeting with Taylor, Scalise and Green at the A. F. of L. executive board session in Atlantic City, N. J., in August, 1937.

Q.—How well does Nelson know Scalise, do you know? A.—[By Taylor] I don't think he knows him so well, but Nelson was getting paid $70,000 a year out of the janitors' union. [Judge Nelson last night said Taylor's statement insofar as it applied to him, Nelson, was ridiculous.]

Q.—What for? A.—Attorneys' fees.

Q.—What did Nelson say to Green? A.—The elevator operators are part of the building service and belong to the building service international union.

Q.—He was trying to sell Green on the idea of compelling your elevator operators to go under the jurisdiction of Scalise? A.—Yes.

Taylor said he then realized he was beaten and in September, 1937, he transferred his union from the Elevator Constructors' union to the Building Service international. He went to Atlantic City and there received a memorandum from Scalise promising that Taylor's union would have local autonomy and his rule wouldn't be disturbed.

ACCOUNTING SUIT FILED

In the next two years, Taylor told Courtney, he began to receive complaints from union members and an accounting suit was filed against him. At first, Taylor said, he thought local gangsters were behind this but in May, 1939, Scalise came to Chicago.

"Somebody called me and said there were about 100 men with banners in front of the La Salle street station," Taylor said. "The banners read: 'Taylor the Dictator,' 'Taylor the Fuehrer' and a lot of other stuff.

"By the time I got down there, they were gone. Scalise came in on the train and he went over to an office in the Congress hotel and the gang serenaded him all the way down the line. Then he went over to his office at 130 North Wells street and they serenaded him down there.

Gets Call from Scalise.

"About noon Scalise called me up and he says: 'What is that trouble you are having?' [Scalise, according to Taylor, referred to the 'dictator' demonstration which had been going on.] I said: 'You know what it is all about; you know who is doing it. You don't think I'm a saphead. Why didn't you talk to me like a man when I came to you in Atlantic City? I knew Green was going to force us into your international sooner or later.'

"Scalise says: 'You are crazy, you double-crossed somebody.' I said I hadn't double-crossed anybody.

"He said he had a lot of petitions signed by members asking for an accounting. I said they were all phony. Then he announced that all our officers of our local were suspended and sent telegrams to public officials in Chicago that he had done that."

Robbed of $5,000 in Bonds.

Shortly after, on May 18, 1939, Taylor was robbed of his brief case and $5,000 worth of bonds. He told Courtney he had started out from his home and had reached Ogden avenue and the Douglas boulevard west drive when he heard a siren and stopped.

"Four guys come in to me," he said. "They had handkerchiefs on about half way up to their faces and they said 'Taylor, you——, where is that brief case?' Two of them fired at me, but I kind of got onto the running board and rolled down and they missed me. They got the brief case and beat it.

"I reported the robbery to Marquette police and they took several reports and the mob got hold of those reports because Scalise told me later: '——Dammit, you see they didn't want the bonds.'"

New Light Shed on Robbery.

It was two years later that, according to Taylor, more light was shed on the robbery in which the bonds were taken. This allegedly came at a meeting between Scalise and Burke at the Blackstone hotel, in Chicago.

Scalise accused Taylor of giving presents to other labor leaders and of ignoring him, Taylor's statement says. Taylor's reply was: "To tell you the truth, you owe me money. You didn't have to try to go out and kill me. I know you did it. You are the fellow that is back of it.'"

Taylor was referring to the holdup. Scalise denied he was behind it, Taylor said. Later, after more argument over the matter, Scalise announced: "You'll never get those bonds back."

Taylor told Courtney he never got the bonds or the Scalise memorandum [promising local autonomy for Taylor's union] back, altho he said that he complained frequently to Burke about the matter.

"When we joined the Building Service union we had a special contract that as long as Scalise was in power he could not take over our organization because Scalise's man Burke could not make any headway in the loop. The building managers knew his setup; they didn't want to deal with him."

Q.—This is Tom Burke of the Theatrical Janitor's union? A.—Yes, he is the front man for Scalise and his mob. He got drunk one night at the Glass Hat and spilled the beans. He told me how he got in the picture when Louis Alterie and Con Shea were connected with the janitor's union.

Police Enter Office.

"After I had been suspended," Taylor continued, "Burke came to my office with two coppers who pulled guns and wanted to get into my safe. I said: 'You can't get into the safe unless you show me some authority.' They said: 'We got it from an international officer, who is right here.' I called up Jim McDermott, but Jim was not in. I called Dan Carmell and he said: 'Don't let them in.' Then I called up John Howe, a captain in the police commissioner's office.

"Howe told the coppers to beat it and that he would prefer charges against them."

Then—on June 6, 1939—came the filing of an accounting suit by the international against Taylor's union. This suit hung fire for many months, and while it was pending, Taylor said, an attorney came to see him and said: "Matt, you are thru now. Let us go to work and help you out on this. The mob is going to get you."

"'Well,' I said, 'What is it going to cost me, what is the fee on this thing?' He said: 'It's going to be a hell of a lot. You know you have given the mob a fight and it cost them money and they aren't going to let you down easy.' I said I would think about it.

"I made a date with the same lawyer and we went to a cocktail lounge. This fellow then come out and said: 'Taylor, it will cost you about ten grand to get out of this. The setup is for Burke to take over the union and put in some new business agents.'

Draws Out $3,000.

"I thought the thing over and I said to myself: 'What the hell! I got my people in here, all my friends, like Tommy O'Grady and Al Matha, and I didn't want to turn them out. What is the use of money? I will go out and get some money.'

"I called this lawyer up and made an appointment to meet him at another cocktail lounge. I went over to the Terminal National bank and drew $3,000 out of my personal account. I met the lawyer and said: 'I've got three grand here.' He said that wouldn't be enough but added: 'I'll see what I can do.'"

Q.—What did you pay that $3,000 for? A.—To call the heat off me.

Q.—Who did you believe the money was to be given to eventually? A.—To the mob.

Q.—Did you believe the mob was trying to take your union over? A.—Yes, they were back of it. Carrozzo was back of it. He was helping Burke and Scalise, because whenever Scalise was in town and I had any dealings with him I would find Burke and Louis Romano of the bartenders' union there, too. Two or three days after I had paid the $3,000 the same lawyer called me up and told me to go to Burke's office at 509 South Wabash avenue. Burke said: "You've come to your senses, haven't you?" I asked: "What do you mean?" He said: "You want to go along, don't you?"

"Burke then stated his proposition," Taylor continued. "He said: 'We want 50 per cent of the union's money, a new executive board, and I want to put in a new treasurer. Your constitution is too strong.' I said: 'Where do I get off?' He said: 'You're lucky you're alive.'

Treasurer Is Dictated.

"'Well,' I said, 'let me think the thing over a day or two.' He said: 'No, you'll have to decide right now.' 'Well,' I said to myself, 'I will do it, and I will try to get these fellows some other way.' I said: 'Who is going to be the treasurer?' and he said: 'It is going to be Schiavone.'"

Q.—Now, when Burke told you his proposition, did he say what would happen if you didn't accept? A.—He didn't say anything would happen.

Taylor said Burke in substance told him that the mob needed his union and he would be much better off if he would agree. Taylor said the suit for an accounting was dismissed soon afterward.

Schiavone Never Installed.

Asked whether Schiavone ever was put in as treasurer of the union, Taylor replied he was not. Schiavone was murdered July 5, 1939, in Oak Lawn. Police found a secret audit of Taylor's union in his pocket.

Taylor was asked by State's Attorney Courtney whether he knew why Schiavone was killed and he answered he believed it was because Schiavone, who had been introduced to him as a friend of the lawyer who originally got $3,000 from Taylor, [Taylor's own money], had failed to turn the collection over to "the mob."

Taylor told Courtney that, two days after Schiavone was slain he, Taylor, made a payment of $3,000, money drawn from the union treasury, to Burke.

Further Payments Refused.

Thereafter, Taylor said, these payments to Burke rained thick and fast, until a total of $20,914 was paid in 1939 and $9,501 in the first three months of 1940, a total of $30,415.

Then Taylor, sick and disgusted, refused to make further payments. All the money was taken from the union treasury without any authorization from the union, Taylor admitted. He excused himself by saying that he acted in fear of his life.

Taylor said that after the beginning of 1940 he became very friendly with Burke.

"It was because I was giving him the dough," Taylor added, "and I was helping him out."

Tells Visit to Federal Agent.

But all the time, Taylor said, he really was working to get something on Burke and Scalise. As part of his campaign, Taylor said, he had gone to the Building Managers' association and to see Daniel Ladd, then chief investigator for the department of justice in the Chicago area.

Taylor explained he had met Ladd thru an episode that happened a year before. It concerned a strike of painters at the Bankers' building where Ladd's offices were located.

Taylor said that at that time Patrick Sullivan, president of the Building Trades council, and Charles Youngblood of the painters' union had threatened to throw Taylor's union out of the trades council unless he called a strike of the elevator operators to aid the painters.

Ouster Threat Described.

Taylor said: "I got a call from Sullivan on a Friday and he said: 'If you don't pull the men out Monday morning, when we meet on Tuesday we are going to throw you out of the building trades council.' I said: 'Paddy, wait a minute on that thing. I am going to Washington for the Farley dinner.'

"And you remember, Tom [State's Attorney Courtney], I met you coming home from the dinner. . . ."

Taylor said that while in Washington he attempted to get in contact with Homer Cummings, then attorney general, and on the following Monday he called Sullivan and said: "I want to try once more to see whether I can settle that thing.

"He [Sullivan] said: 'If you don't, you are thru tomorrow, and we are going to throw you out.'"

Obtains Strike Settlement.

Taylor then told how he had convinced the owner of the Bankers' building to settle the strike on one condition — that Youngblood would not represent the painters in the matter.

Taylor's story of his visits to see Cummings and Ladd fits in with what he said was a campaign to free his union from gangster control. In this connection, it is known that the

SALARY OF $20,000 PAID TO SCALISE BY UNION, JURORS TOLD

New York, Sept. 6 (AP).—The prosecution in the forgery and grand larceny trial of George Scalise today offered evidence to show that Scalise's salary not only was increased from $12,000 to $20,000 a year on Sept. 1, 1939, but that he also received a $2,666.66 check then, making the raise retroactive to the previous May.

Scalise is charged with stealing $66,078 from the building service employés international union [AFL], of which he was formerly president.

Robert J. Hyland, an account and defense witness, told of Scalise's $8,000 a year raise, but under cross-examination said he had not been told the salary increase was made retroactive for four months. Hyland also said that in his audits of Scalise's affairs, he estimated the salary from the defendant's bank deposits and did not know if Scalise has received other money from the union.

Assistant District Attorney Murray I. Gurfein said the $2,666.66 check was paid Scalise by Paul David, secretary-treasurer of the union.

TAYLOR REVEALS GANG RULE OF ELEVATOR UNION

Deathbed Story Tells of Murders and Extortion.

department of justice and revenue agents have a mass of data on union finances which Taylor turned over to them.

Taylor said that he finally decided to break with "the mob" in April of this year. He said he got courage to act from the report that District Attorney Thomas Dewey of New York was "working on Scalise."

Describes Demand for Cash.

Until April, Taylor said, he had been livng up to the demands of the mob and had been paying one half of certain union income over and above expenses to the mob. In March, Burke said: "Matt, I've got to have some money—the mob wants some dough, and they want about three grand," Taylor's statement said. "The colloquy was then as follows:

Taylor said: "I gave you more than you got coming."

Burke repeated: "I got to have some more money. I got to have about three grand."

"I was sick as a dog," said Taylor.

Threat Is Described.

"Then," Taylor continued, "He told me: 'I got a couple of guys out there that will take care of you if you don't get it.' I said: 'Listen, Tom, there is no use scaring me. I'm a sick man. I got diabetes bad. I can't do no more.'"

This colloquy, according to Taylor, took place in the basement of a funeral parlor where they were attending rites for a mutual friend.

"When the funeral started," Taylor said, "these fellows got in Burke's car, and they followed us all the way to the cemetery."

Taylor said he started home over Desplaines avenue, toward Riverside, cut over toward Harlem avenue and then to 55th street, and finally threw the pursuers off his track.

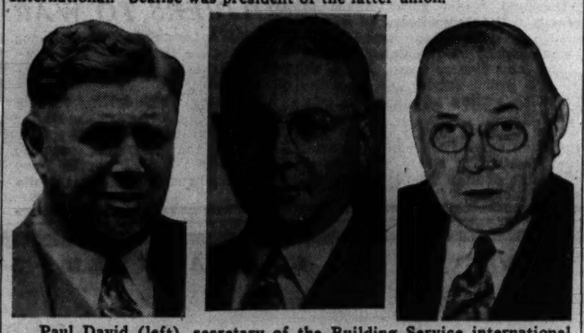
Thomas J. Burke (left), vice president of the Building Service Employes' International union, accused by the late Mathew Taylor, president of the Elevator Operators and Starters' union, of receiving $30,000 of union funds given up under threats, and George Scalise, who, according to Taylor, demanded that Taylor's union be transferred to Building Service International. Scalise was president of the latter union.



Paul David (left), secretary of the Building Service international, who was mentioned in Taylor's story; Patrick F. Sullivan (center), president of the Chicago Building Trades council, who denied that he asked Taylor to call a strike in order to help Scalise's union, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who denied that he persuaded Taylor's union to affiliate with Scalise's international.

DENY COMMUNIST PLEA FOR BALLOT 'PLOT' INJUNCTION

A petition for an injunction to restrain Attorney General John E. Cassidy and 33 other Illinois law enforcement officials from allegedly conspiring to keep communist party candidates off the November ballot was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Judge Barnes ruled that the petition, filed in behalf of communist party candidates, did not make a case of conspiracy. Hart E. Baker, counsel for the plaintiffs, argued that 30 alleged illegal arrests thruout the state indicated a conspiracy to prevent party workers from getting the necessary signatures to their petitions before the deadline on Sept. 16.

Judge Barnes commented that the plaintiffs had such rights as freedom of speech and the right of peaceable assemblage, providing they do not use violence, and added: "Some of our misguided people who interfere with these rights do more to break down our American form of government than any of us."

INVENTS NEW LIE DETECTOR THAT READS THE EYES

State College, Pa., Sept. 6 (AP).—A new kind of lie detector, which reads the eyes, was announced to the American Psychological association today.

The system was described by F. K. Berrien, of Colgate university. The subject sits erect in a chair and looks fixedly at a sheet of white paper. As he stares, the investigator asks questions requiring a yes or no answer.

Thru a long, black tube a light reflects from the corneas like two fine pin points on a moving strip of film. The slightest motion of the eyes causes a wiggle in the lines.

After a one minute rest, the subject once more stares at the paper. This second stare tells whether he has been lying, the inventor said. A person who has told the truth falls in the second look to hold his eyes as still as the liar. The truth teller's line wiggles more; the liar's does not change much. It does the liar no good to deliberately wiggle his eyes because the voluntary wiggle pattern is quite different. In the laboratory, the detector has caught 75 per cent of lies.

Perry's Lake Erie Victory Will Be Observed Tuesday

Erie, Pa., Sept. 6 (AP).—Commodore Perry's defeat of the British in the battle of Lake Erie during the war of 1812 will be commemorated here Tuesday—just 127 years after the American fleet scored one of its first important victories. Commodore Perry maintained headquarters in Erie during the war of 1812 and built and equipped here the fleet that defeated the British at Putin Bay on Sept. 10, 1813.

Soderstrom and Olander Unopposed for Labor Jobs

R. G. Soderstrom, president, and Victor Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, have been renominated without opposition, it was announced last night. Fourteen men were named for vice presidential posts. The election will take place at the state convention in Rockford, beginning Sept. 16.

2 Auto Strippers Seized After South Side Chase

Two men, surprised last night by a sheriff's squad while stripping an automobile on the southwest side, leaped into the machine and fled. At 87th street and Cork avenue, however, the car in which they were riding overturned and they were captured. The men are John Bush, 23 years old, 4340 South Ashland avenue, and John Bobek, 29, of 4722 South Rockwell street.

WILLIAM GREEN DENIES PUSHING UNION TO SCALISE

Other Labor Chiefs Also Repudiate Charges.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, reached last night in Washington, D. C., termed the deathbed statement of Mathew Taylor "amazing," but denied that he had exercised influence thru Judge Oscar Nelson to force Taylor's elevator operators' union into the international union of George Scalise.

"The story is amazing," Green said. "It's the first time I ever heard of it. I had nothing to do with the transfer of Taylor's union. It was done before I knew of it—thru a vote, I was told, of Taylor's own local.

"I did not talk to Taylor about it and to the best of my recollection I never met him. Judge Nelson never talked to me about the transfer either."

Denies Talk With Bates.

Green also stated that he never talked to Harry Bates of the Bricklayers' international union about the transfer. Taylor had stated that Bates had told him that he had inside information that Green was going to force Taylor's union to go over to Scalise's international.

Bates, reached in St. Louis, where he is attending a union convention, also denied Taylor's statements. He said he did not attend a banquet for James A. Farley, as described by Taylor, nor come to Chicago on the same train with Taylor.

"I last talked with Taylor three or four years ago in Atlantic City, when I was attending a meeting there of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor," he said. "A dispute between Taylor's union and the Elevator Constructors and Starters' International, with which it was then affiliated, was brought before the council for settlement.

Calls Story Untrue.

"We were unable to bring about a settlement, and I certainly did not tell Taylor that we were going to force his union into Scalise's Building Service Employés' International. I had no such information concerning any intention of Mr. Green or Judge Nelson to do so either. The story is untrue."

Judge Nelson asserted:

"This is unquestionably an attempt on the part of Courtney to assassinate my candidacy for state's attorney on the Republican ticket in November. From what I've read in the press about the Taylor-Scalise fight and the gangster methods injected into the Building Service Employés International union, Courtney and his office should have known about it years prior to 1940 and taken action, instead of waiting seven and one-half years to make the discovery now.

"This discussion of gangsterism in the labor movement after all his years in office is ridiculous, quoting as it does at this late date the statement of a dead man."

"Preposterous," Nelson Says.

Judge Nelson said the statement that he received $70,000 a year from the janitors' union, an affiliate of Scalise's international, was preposterous. He said that before he went on the bench, his law firm, Nelson & Ricker, was counsel for the Chicago flat janitors and received fees out of union assessments for the legal department. He said that he never received a single fee from Scalise's union, had met Scalise only three times and Taylor no more than two, and had never exerted any influence on the affiliations of Taylor's group.

Patrick J. Sullivan, head of the Chicago Building Trades council, also went on record as denying any part in the alleged campaign of compulsion that drove the Taylor local into Scalise's international.

"I think that Taylor was losing his mind before he went to the sanitorium," Sullivan said.

"If Taylor ever made the statement that I told him that he had better to go along with the mob, that it was better to be alive than dead, he was out of his mind. When his union went over to the Scalise international, I told him that it could not remain in the Building Trades council, because the Scalise union was not in the building construction field.

Denies Demand for Strike.

"His statement that I asked him to call his union out on strike, and threatened to throw him out of the council or the Chicago Federation of Labor if he did not call a strike, is preposterous. I could not throw his union out of the Chicago federation if I wanted to."

Taylor's statement about a strike referred to one called by the painters' union at the Bankers building in February, 1937. Because Taylor's union was then affiliated with the Elevator Constructors' and Operators' International, it was, thru that parent organization, affiliated with the Building Trades council.

TAYLOR A FOUNDER OF ELEVATOR UNION; PRESIDENT 7 YEARS

Mathew Taylor, who died yesterday at the age of 69, was one of the founders of the Elevator Operators and Starters' union, local 66, 39 years ago. He was called from private business in 1933 to succeed the late Dan Dean as president. Ten years before he had been chairman of the union's board of trustees.

At one time Taylor was head elevator operator in the Terminal building at Madison and Clinton streets. He lived at 2908 South Maple avenue, Berwyn, with his wife, Louise, and also leaves a foster son, Robert Marcus, who is treasurer of the union.

Taylor died at 4 a. m. in the Edwards sanatorium in Naperville, where he had been under the care of Dr. Jerome Head since June 24.

His body was taken to the chapel at 1818 Michigan avenue, where services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday.

GERMAN PLANES POUR BOMBS OF FIRE ON LONDON

Houses Are Destroyed in Biggest Attack of War.

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 7 (AP).—Adolf Hitler's air raiders splashed pitch-black London with a chain of blinding flares and bombs last night and early today, carrying around the clock their mightiest raids yet on the pulse of this island fortress.

At 1:01 a. m., today, the grateful shriek of the "all clear" signal ended the sixth raid since Friday morning. This alarm lasted an hour and 20 minutes.

[British planes bombed Berlin early today. Details on page 4.]

A whistling bomb heralded the presence of the enemy in the sixth alarm. In the sixth raid, after one raiding squadron roared past, one plane, gliding in silently, dropped a cluster of incendiary bombs. A nearby railroad apparently was the invader's objective, but the trains ran without interruption.

Bomb Bursts Water Main.

Clanging firebells drowned out the noise of planes as engines and a water tower sped to the scene. Firemen soon brought the fire under control.

At one spot a bomb burst a water main, and the whole pavement rose, floating on the surging current.

Thruout the night the Nazi raiders ranged over England, stabbing at scattered objectives. Before dawn one group of planes struck heavily at a northwest coastal district, dropping a number of high explosive bombs.

German bombers struck at one of the London districts thus far untouched by the raiders, dropping high explosive and incendiary bombs. One bomb exploded near the entrance of an underground public shelter, but none of the several hundred occupants was injured.

Fires from incendiary bombs burned brightly.

New Bombing Technique.

In the fifth attack of the day showers of light and fire were loosed. It was a new bombing technique. A raider would drop a triple flare of three brilliant white lights strung together. While it was descending the plane would make off to avoid the searchlights and then when the flare was low enough to illuminate the target would dive back over and release its bombs.

Antiaircraft batteries roared back ceaselessly as the raiders made savage thrusts at the military airports which guard the city.

A number of streets in one residential area were bombed. Houses were demolished and set aflame. There were casualties. Residents said the bombers set off fires with incendiaries and returned to drop high explosives upon areas already in flames.

Spot Spotters on Roofs.

At times, the tin hats of midtown rooftop aircraft "spotters" could be seen for blocks away, in the brilliant light of falling parachute flares.

Up to 11:30 p. m., the air ministry said, 45 German planes had been shot down to 19 lost by the British. In the period between Aug. 30 and Sept. 5, it was added, 371 German raiders had gone down.

During yesterday morning British fighter craft were declared to have shot down Germans at the rate of one every two minutes in the day's heaviest attack.

In that period, the planes came in masses of 200 and 300; in waves of 20 and 30.

Down 34 in One Battle.

The British went out to meet them, in Kent and Essex and even over the coast, and officials said they drove them off.

In a single battle in the southeast, the defenders clawed at least 34 raiders out of the sky and believed they had destroyed several others.

People died and homes were smashed in London's suburbs—in one outlying section bombs knocked over 40 homes in a row—and damage was acknowledged to some factory and railroad property.

Report Airports Shielded.

Officials said, however, that the airports from which London's last line of defenders spring were largely shielded from the attacks. It was indicated that none had yet been damaged to the extent that it could not be used again in a few hours.

The air ministry's account of overnight British assaults on Germany and the continent made it perfectly clear that the British bombers still are blasting methodically at Germany's vitals.

From Regensburg on the old Czecho-Slovak border to Stettin on the Baltic, the British raiders set aflame German oil and gasoline stores. They carried out another foray on an Italian airplane engine factory and blasted at "invasion jump-off" points at Boulogne and Calais on the continental coast and at gun emplacements at Cap Griz Nez, France.

"Terrific explosions a 100 yards wide" were reported by the pilots who flew 1,350 miles to bomb oil and benzine tanks at Regensburg.

Mass Over Nuremberg.

"We massed over Nuremberg [Nazi convention city] and other airdromes on the way back and had a little target practice," one flyer said.

The London raids, swift on the heels of a 7½ hour alarm overnight, came at 4:50 a. m., at 8:48 a. m., just as the city was thronging, sleepy eyed, to work; at 12:55 p. m., the lunch hour; at 5:30 p. m., at 8:53 p. m., and at 11:33 p. m.

In both slums and prosperous areas, the bombs fell before and after dawn. Sewers and a gas main were hit, railway communications temporarily dislocated, and a shelter containing 1,000 persons torn and jarred. But the casualties were announced as comparatively few with spirits high.

Again and all day yesterday the raiders used the broad pathway of the Thames, reckless of the cost.

Meet Invaders Head-On.

Their numbers were impressive. last evening, for instance, more than 200 roared in from the sea. The British fighters met them head-on over the Thames estuary, and one witness said he counted five shot down in a furious mêlée that seemed to last only seconds.

Sections of all England felt the fury of the German raiders, but the south bore the brunt. In one Kentish town, part of a hospital was demolished early yesterday, but doctors and nurses worked by flashlight to save the patients and one nurse, clad only in a nightdress, crawled over débris to treat injured men and women.

Then last evening two German machines thundered out of the west at 500 feet to attack another southeast town with blazing guns, clearing the streets wih machine gun bullets.

Driven Off by Ground Defenses.

Ground defenses drove them off at last.

The air ministry's report of offensive action in Italy said only the walls of one plant of the Fiat Aircraft company near Turin appeared left standing. Heavy damage also was claimed in the attack on the Fiat aero-engine factory. The returning pilots said they left "at least a dozen fires burning."

In German raids, the British bombers again attacked Baltic oil tanks and refineries at Politz, near Stettin, leaving "large buildings burning fiercely," according to the official account. Other principal targets were military installations hidden in the depths of the Black forest and the Hartz mountains.

In the Black forest, British sources said, incendiary bombs were dropped over a densely wooded strip 30 miles wide and running parallel to the Rhine. The raiding crews reported that great flames burst out, and were visible for many miles.

One of the pilots who went into action over the Oberhartz forest in the region of the Hartz mountains, said fire bombs were dropped on "rows and rows of long buildings," which looked like barracks. Other incendiaries, he said, were dropped in the surrounding pine woods.

Aerial Warfare Gains Intensity

Major happenings in Germany's savage air attacks on Great Britain yesterday are told in captions and symbols on the map above. Also shown are points on the German-held coast of France which were bombed by British airmen. The map below locates German and Italian cities which were attacked by the British.

Bombs Smash Into Many Homes of Poor.

BY DREW MIDDLETON.

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP).—People of the slums walked silently past bombed houses in the stifling heat. An old man and a young woman, eyes red from weeping, stood outside one house.

"I'm not going to leave, I'm not," the old man kept saying. "I've lived here 59 years. I'm not going. They'll steal my clothes."

An air raid warden said helplessly, "I took 'em to a relief center where they have beds and food. They came right back. They won't leave."

The slums, narrower and noisier than New York's East Side, were the first stop of a three hour tour of areas bombed last night, a tour that covered close to 100 miles and revealed only one bombing that had done military damage.

One House Just a Shell.

The old man's house was just a shell of dirty brown stone. A bomb which had landed in the backyard had blown away doors. The ceilings had fallen in. Debris a foot deep was piled on the floor.

"I was in the shelter," the woman said suddenly. "We were there for hours. When we came back we found this. Damn them, what have we done?"

A fat sun tanned baby in a carriage started to cry. The woman picked it up and stood looking at the ruined home. A soldier led a wounded man down the street.

Bomb Hits Shelter.

One bomb had hit the top of an underground shelter in a square. All windows in all houses in the square had been blown out. I could see the women cleaning. An air raid warden said, "There were 1,500 people inside. Didn't touch a one."

The bomb had ploughed thru the earth and concrete and opened a hole two feet square in the top of the shelter.

"They dropped six in 150 yards," a policeman said. "They didn't kill any one but two young fools standing on top of the shelter."

Shops too poor to buy glass had been boarded up, their fronts chalked with slogans: "Britain forever, keep smiling" and "The RAF will get 'em, keep your chin up."

The only damage of military value was in a prosperous residential district where seven bombs had fallen on a suburban station. One track had been broken and workmen were mending it.

LIVERPOOL DAMAGE SLIGHT

BY TAYLOR HENRY.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 6 (AP).—The port of Liverpool, which handles an important proportion of all this island's wartime shipping, has been only slightly affected by repeated Nazi air raids. In a two day stay in this area I have seen comparatively little damage.

The windows of some buildings have been shattered. I saw evidence of one hit on a dock which had slightly damaged a grain elevator.

The net effect on movement of cargo appears to have been negligible. The port is just as busy by night as by day.

The greatest damage has been in the outlying residential areas and industrial suburbs where a number of homes have been demolished.

Norway to Ration Clothes; Close Stores for Inventory

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 6 (AP).—Clothes rationing in the German style will go into effect next Monday for German occupied Norway. All clothing and shoe stores were closed today for inventory. Hats, caps, ready made baby outfits, and handkerchiefs will be exempt. In Germany hats and caps are the only unrationed apparel.

FIRST OF 50 AMERICAN DESTROYERS IN TRADE REACH CANADIAN PORT

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Sept. 6 (AP).—A flotilla of eight United States destroyers—part of the 50 ships traded to Britain for Atlantic bases—arrived here today from Boston, took on skeleton British crews, and disappeared for two hours in exercises to instruct their new operators.

Just after the flotilla dropped anchor again in port a British liner anchored with additional crewmen to man the United States craft. The 1,500 ton United States destroyer leader Russell, commanded by Admiral F. L. Reichmuth, accompanied the flotilla and superintended the transfer. She was fully armed, but ship officers called the transfer a "routine cruise," and said United States sailors did not man battle stations during the trip.

British crews are expected to put to sea with the ships soon on convoy and coastal work, relieving more modern British craft for more arduous duties.

Army Project's Pay Scale Forces City to Raise Wages

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 6 (AP).—The city council voted $5 to $25 a month wage increases for municipal employés today because the army's high pay scale on its air base construction project was luring away the workers.

CLARK ASKS QUIZ ON LOSS OF JOBS BY GUARDSMEN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.] told the senate today he had been informed that government employed National Guardsmen called to training were being asked to resign their jobs. He suggested that a congressional committee look into the matter.

Clark pointed out that congress, in authorizing President Roosevelt to call the guard for 12 months of training, made it an unfair labor practice for employers to refuse to take back guardsmen employés after their term of service.

He said the government should adhere to a similar rule by holding jobs open for its employés called to camps.

U. S., CANADA MAY BUILD MILITARY ROAD TO ALASKA

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 6 (AP).—Construction of the long talked of United States military highway from the international border thru Canada to Alaska will "undoubtedly be considered" as part of the broad plans being studied by the Canada-United States joint defense board, Capt. L. W. Murray, senior service officer on the Canadian section of the board, said today.

Capt. Murray, deputy chief of the Canadian naval staff, will leave soon for Washington, where meetings of the joint defense board will be resumed Monday.

FIVE NORSE PARTIES FORGET DIFFERENCES TO OPPOSE QUISLING

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 6.—In the face of the growing danger that a German sponsored government under Vidkun Quisling will succeed, five Norwegian political parties, controling 149 of the 150 seats in the storting [parliament], today forgot their doctrinal differences and, braving German wrath, united in an anti-Quisling front.

Members of the Conservative, Agrarian, Liberal, Labor, and Christian People parties met unhampered, but the German occupation authorities forbade any mention of their agreement in the Norwegian press.

The deputies were reported to have decided to oppose by all means the formation of a new government by Quisling.

BELIEVE CANADA HAS SENT 46,000 SOLDIERS TO WAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 6 (AP).—Canada has sent more than 46,000 men overseas to fight for Britain, it was indicated today.

The convoy which arrived in Britain Wednesday, largest of the six big Canadian contingents to cross the Atlantic since the war began, contained 11,500 soldiers and 33 nurses, Navy Minister Angus L. MacDonald disclosed.

Oil Tank Blast Starts Fire in Japan; Plant Wrecked

KOBE, Japan, Sept. 6 (AP).—Fire started by an explosion of a Kobe oil company tank early today destroyed a concrete factory and caused repeated explosions among other tanks.

HITLER ECONOMY STRONGER NOW, U. S. EXPERT SAYS

Asserts Fall of France Helped Germany.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—A commerce department expert today said Germany's economic condition had improved greatly since the surrender of France.

Louis Domeratzky, chief of the department's division of regional information, wrote in Commerce Reports, a department periodical, that Germany had gained thru better crop conditions, the resumption of industrial production in the Saar basin, and the release of industrial workers from the army.

Domeratzky said that Germany's labor shortage also had been alleviated by the employment of large numbers of Polish prisoners and a smaller number of French and other prisoners from the western front.

Crop Outlook Improves.

"The crop outlook," he wrote, "which earlier in the season was doubtful in many parts of Germany, because of dry weather in May and June, improved somewhat by subsequent rains.

"Altho final results are still uncertain, an average harvest is generally forecast since both grain and root crops are in fair condition."

Domeratzky also said, "The occupation of northern France with its coal mines and of the Lorraine district with its iron ore is claimed to have strengthened the war potentialities of the reich.

"Germany now controls or has exclusive access to all important coal and iron deposits on the continent with the exception of the soviet union. Production of arms, munitions, and war equipment was carried on at top speed thruout June and July."

Coal Supply Improves.

Improvement of Germany's coal supply, he added, was indicated by fulfillment in the last two months of Germany's promise to send 1,000,000 tons of coal a month to Italy. Most of the Polish prisoners working in Germany, he said, were in agricultural pursuits, but "nearly one-half of the prisoners taken on the western front are employed in industry—in accordance with their higher qualifications for this work.

"In all, 350,000 prisoners from the western front found employment within the reich during May and June."

Deal for Uruguay to Buy 3 U. S. Destroyers Near

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 6 (AP).—Negotiations are nearly complete for Uruguayan purchase of three United States destroyers identical to those being delivered to Britain, a well informed source disclosed today. This would be one of the first steps of Uruguay's rearmament program. American Minister Edwin Wilson was said to have conferred at Montevideo with Interior Minister Pedro Manini Rios.

Principal events in Rumania after the abdication of Carol II. as king and the enthronement of his young son, Michael, are told on the map.

Princess Helen, divorced wife of ex-King Carol, flew to Bucharest to be at the side of her son, the newly proclaimed king, Michael.

Mme. Magda Lupescu, his associate of more than a decade, to whose side Carol was reported to have fled after abdication.

Berlin Story of 2 Polish Pilots Propaganda: Poles

New York, Sept. 6 [Special].—The Polish Information Center, official agency of the Polish government in New York, today branded as propaganda a Berlin dispatch stating that two Polish aviators, sent by the British to bomb Germany, had surrendered to the Nazis. The Polish Center based its charge on a statement by the British Broadcasting company which said, "The Berlin version about the Polish pilots is typical manufacture of the German ministry of propaganda," and added, "Poland gave thousands of martyrs, without giving one traitor."

BERLIN REJOICES THAT MICHAEL IS KING OF RUMANIA

Knows Young Ruler as a Pro-Nazi.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—Germany greeted with satisfaction today the abdication of King Carol of Rumania and the accession to the throne of his 18 year old son, pro-Nazi Prince Michael.

This places the two chief countries of southeastern Europe, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia, under the nominal leadership of youths of 17 and 18 years old.

King Peter of Jugo-Slavia is 17 years old and the government is in the hands of Prince Regent Paul, while in Rumania Gen. Ion Antonescu will hold the reins of government in firm hands to assure, as the Germans state hopefully, "the country's future thru loyal coöperation with Germany."

Son Has Confidence of Nazis.

Ever since the killing of Corneliu Codreanu, leader of the Rumanian Iron Guard, the Nazis considered Carol their enemy. Prince Michael openly sympathized with the Iron Guard and enjoyed Nazi confidence.

After the Russians took Bessarabia and northern Bukovina from Rumania, Carol wrote to Fuehrer Hitler asking him to protect his country against a further Russian move. It has been clear ever since the Russians and the Germans signed their Moscow pact that the Russians would "correct" their western borders with Germany's full consent, but Carol, it is said, thought he could appeal to Hitler against Moscow.

Gossipers returning from Rumania asserted that the famous Mme. Magda Lupescu, who has played such an important part in Carol's life, was the one who advised him to turn to Hitler.

Resented Her Influence.

Young Michael resented the part played by Mme. Lupescu in his father's life and, despite his youth, he has been close to Rumania's anti-Semitic circles for a number of years.

The leader of Rumania's Youth—an organization similar to Germany's Hitler Youth—is at present in Germany as an official guest.

Say Bombs 'Virtually Destroy' Fort.

ROME, Sept. 6 (AP).—British naval movements apparently keyed to a large scale plan were noted in the Mediterranean today as the Italian high command reported a series of aerial attacks upon Britain's line of communications from the Gulf of Aden thru the Red sea to Malta.

Virtual destruction of one of the principal forts of the British stronghold of Malta and bombing for the first time of gasoline depots at Suez were reported by the communique, as well as raids on convoys, troop encampments in the Sudan and truck caravans in Egypt.

Stefani, official news agency, said Italian airmen intensified their careful watch over the Mediterranean because large enemy naval movements, including a considerable fleet of planes on aircraft carriers, had been observed.

Attacks on Convoys.

The agency surmised that the British plan was to divert Italian attacks while British convoys slipped thru the sea. Nevertheless, Stefani said, three air attacks have been made on two convoys, causing heavy damage to four freighters, and another on the harbor at Aden in which other ships were hit.

British planes continued their nightly raiding of northern Italian industrial centers. The high command said damage this morning primarily was to private dwellings at Turin and San Paolo. Several railway cars at a loading platform were admitted to have been set afire, however.

New Dive Bombers Attack.

A squadron of Italy's new little dive bombers, Picchiatellis, suddenly swooped on Malta, near Italy's "boot," with tons of large bombs, and "virtually destroyed" Fort Deli Mara, one of the main defenses, the communique said.

[The British said a "formation of enemy bombers approached Malta Thursday, but turned away without dropping any bombs."]

British Bombers Attack Italians

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 6 (AP).—The British tonight said that in the last two days their bombers had attacked Italian positions at Assab, Eritrea; Barbera, Italian Somaliland, and Kassala, on the Sudan-Ethiopian frontier. Several Italian planes were destroyed on the ground, the communique said.

STATE OFFICERS WILL CONFER ON PLANS FOR DRAFT

284 Boards of Civilians to Be Set Up.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.

State officials will confer in Springfield this week-end on the personnel of the 284 selective service boards expected to be appointed in Illinois if congress enacts the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill. Lieut. C. J. Magnesen, aid to Adjt. Gen. L. V. Regan, left the Chicago office of the Illinois National Guard last night for Springfield for conferences with Regan and officials of the governor's office.

Lists of names for each draft board—it is contemplated there will be one draft board for every 30,000 population—will be compiled for Gov. Horner's approval. The members of each board, all civilians, are to be appointed by President Roosevelt upon recommendation of the governor.

Only Three Have Votes.

Magnesen said that the boards will be nonpolitical, and will be made up of three board members, one government appeal agent [usually a lawyer], and a physician. Only the three members will have votes.

In addition, the conscription setup will include a state director of selective service in Springfield and two assistant directors, one of whom will have charge of Cook county. A similar organization is planned in each state.

Defense officials in Washington estimated yesterday that Illinois' quota of the first 400,000 military trainees to be called up for service would be 24,888 men. They emphasized that this figure is subject to sharp change, since it is based on the assumption that the senate version of the Burke-Wadsworth bill, calling for men from 21 to 30, inclusive, will become law. The figure was determined by apportioning the 400,000 among the various states in accordance with population as indicated in early 1940 census returns.

Michigan and Wisconsin Quotas.

The estimate for Michigan is 17,332 and for Wisconsin 9,413. The total for the sixth corps area, made up of all three states, thus would be 51,633. The estimate for the second corps area was highest among the nine corps areas of the country, being 57,481. This includes New York, with 43,830; New Jersey, 12,884, and Delaware, 767.

Election officials in Cook county are making plans to carry out the registration of conscripts if, as planned, this function falls to the regular poll officials. An announcement from Washington has indicated that the registration will take place in the first week of October in 125,000 election districts of the nation.

The average registration per polling place in Illinois would be only about 68, on the basis of an estimated 568,000 registrants. Illinois has a total of 8,314 precincts, divided as follows: 4,376 in Cook county and 3,938 downstate. The Chicago board of election commissioners controls the voting machinery in the cities of Chicago, Chicago Heights, Berwyn, and Harvey, the town of Cicero and the villages of Summit, Stickney, Morton Grove, Elmwood Park, and Niles Center. The voting machinery of the rest of Cook county is under the county clerk.

SAILS FOR U. S. TO GET O. K. ON AMENDMENTS TO PHILIPPINE LAW

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 6 (AP).— Jose Yulo, speaker of the Philippine national assembly, sailed on the President Coolidge today for Washington, D. C., to work for Presidential approval of amendments to the Philippine constitution adopted in an election last June 18. The amendments would replace the present unicameral legislature with a two house congress, cut the presidential term from six years to four years and permit one reëlection and fix the pay of congressmen at $3,600 yearly.

U. S. ACTION MAY STRAND YANKS IN RUMANIAN CAMP

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 6.—Fifteen Americans face the prospect of being stranded in Europe, probably in a Rumanian concentration camp, because the American consulate in Athens refuses to allow them to sail for home on the Greek steamer Nelli.

One of the travelers telephoned friends here today from Athens to say the consulate had warned them they must not sail—altho their passports had been indorsed as valid for the trip by the Bucharest consulate. The Americans were told that if they sailed they would be liable to two years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine under the American neutrality act.

Consular officials here were unable to explain the hitch. They said the only way for the travelers to get home was on the Nelli.

They confirmed the fact that two of the travelers already had been in Rumanian concentration camps simply because they could not leave the country when told to. None of them could afford the long and costly trip home eastward via Russia or Bombay.

The Greek ship has received a guarantee from the Italians that it will not be molested and the travelers were informed before leaving there that they traveled at their own risk, to which they agreed.

Foreigners who do not have permits to live in Rumania are sent to concentration camps if they cannot leave the country. Consular officials say that if this is the Rumanian law there is nothing they can do about it.

WEYGAND NAMED TO FIGHT FRENCH REVOLT IN AFRICA

Gets a New Mission in Cabinet Shakeup.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 6.—Marshal Henri Petain, chief of the French state, tonight struck at Great Britain and the "Free France" movement headed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, with a vigorous reorganization of his cabinet. Petain named Gen. Maxime Weygand delegate in Africa to defend French imperial holdings there.

Gen. Maxime Weygand.

Weygand, who succeeded to the command of French armies after the German break thru in Belgium, leaves his post as minister of national defense and goes to Africa to counteract revolts organized by De Gaulle and the British in French colonies such as Chad, the Cameroons, French West Africa, and the Congo, indicating that Petain means to do all in his power to keep the French colonial empire attached to the motherland.

Old Parliamentarians Out.

Significant in the cabinet changes, which came unexpectedly five days after Vice Premier Pierre Laval returned from Paris, is the fact that no parliamentarians of the old régime remain in the Petain government, and that Gen. Charles Huntziger, who was France's delegate to the Weisbaden armistice commission, succeeds Gen. Weygand as minister of defense.

Petain's government in the future will consist of eight consultants, instead of 12 as before, since the ministries of agriculture, aviation, colonies, and communications have been combined with one or another of the other ministries.

A Sudden Summons.

Vichy learned tonight at 9 o'clock that the old cabinet had been suddenly summoned and all the ministers had given Petain their resignations. The meeting caused a sensation in view of the war news of the last few days, particularly with respect to the attempts at disrupting the French empire.

Under the new setup Laval is the vice president of the council, Paul Baudouin remains as foreign minister, Raphael Alibert as minister of justice, Rene Belin as minister of production, Marcel Bouthillier as minister of finance, and Admiral Jean Darlan as minister of marine.

The big eight under Petain will be a council consisting of Laval, vice president; Alibert, minister of justice; Baudouin, foreign affairs, Belin, production; Bouthillier, finance; Darlan, marine; Huntziger, defense, and Peyrouton, interior.

Jail Separatist Leader.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinque, Sept. 6 (AP).—The leader of a separatist movement in the neighboring French island of Guadeloupe has been jailed, it was reported here today.

Authorities here said the movement is weak and that the question of holding a plebiscite in the French West Indies to decide whether to remain loyal to the Petain government has not been raised.

Envoy on Goodwill Mission.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 6.—The mission of Gaston Henri-Haye, France's new ambassador to the United States, according to press comment here, is to clear up the bad impression of this country in American public opinion. It is said that France is not well known or understood in the United States and also that the French people have not been accurately informed about sentiments in America.

One paper said that: "Henri Haye's reports to the Vichy government . . . will clarify the atmosphere and the influence of the new ambassador may be an all important determinant in events to come."

FRANCE'S ENVOY 'ARRIVES; JEERED 'AS 'NAZI STOOGE'

New York, Sept. 6 (AP).—Greeted by pickets carrying signs accusing him of being "Hitler's stooge," Gaston Henry-Haye arrived today to assume his duties as French ambassador, and flatly denied he is pro-Nazi.

The pickets were at the New York airport when the Pan-American Airways' Yankee Clipper arrived from Lisbon. Some of their signs read: "Heil, Haye"; "Haye, Made in Germany," and "Haye, Hitler's Stooge."

Questioned by reporters, Henry-Haye apparently referred indirectly to the Brown Shirts of the Nazis and the Black Shirts of the Fascists in this rejoinder: "I wear no shirt but this white one, just as white as I can keep it." Then he added: "Marshal Petain appointed me, and the only boss I know is Marshal Petain."

Henry-Haye said the French food shortage might reach famine proportions this winter, and added that "There are a couple of million French prisoners now in France who must be fed, and a lot of them were farmers who, of course, have raised no crops."

Gen. Weygand Reported Unhurt in Plane Crash

VICHY, France, Sept. 6 (AP).—An airplane carrying Gen. Maxime Weygand, who until today was French minister of national defense, overturned today while landing at Limoges airdrome. An officer with Weygand was gravely hurt, but first reports said the defense minister was not injured.

JAPAN TO REJECT WARNING BY U. S., SAYS ARMY PAPER

Report Turning Down Indo-China Stand.

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 6 (AP).—The key ministers of Japan were represented tonight as having decided to reject the official stands of both the United States and Great Britain, calling Japan's attention to the interest of these powers in seeing French Indo-China untouched.

Authority for the statement was the newspaper Kukomin, an organ of the dominant army faction.

The foreign office spokesman, Yakichiro Suma, said the government was not stating any official attitude toward the declaration of United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull, two days ago, that the effect on American public opinion would be "unfortunate" if Japan flouted the status quo of Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies.

Suma Assures United States.

Suma added, however, that the United States had no cause for alarm over Indo-China and that Maj. Gen. Issaku Nishihara, Japan's representative in Indo-China, was authorized to negotiate with the French colonial authorities there concerning "peaceful processes."

[Authoritative Hanoi, Indo-China, quarters reported to Hongkong yesterday that Nishihara and the Indo-China governor, Vice Admiral Jean Decoux, had reached a general agreement on facilities to be granted to the Japanese in Indo-China. These, according to earlier reports, will give the Japanese military "limited" rights to land troops in Indo-China and transport them by rail to China's back door, but will avoid any full-fledged invasion of the French possession. From Chungking, the Chinese capital, the British news agency, Reuters, carried a report that Indo-China had agreed to the landing of 12,000 Japanese troops at three ports.]

British Make Representations.

In addition to Hull's statement, the British have made diplomatic representations to Tokio concerning their interest in preservation of the status quo of Indo-China.

Authorized Japanese sources have proclaimed Indo-China within the "Greater East Asia," which they consider to be an exclusive Japanese sphere of interest.

American Oilman Fined Under Jap Exchange Law

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 6 (AP).—George Holland Jr., American employé of the Standard-Vacuum Oil company at Yokohama, was fined $6,900 today on a charge of violating Japan's foreign exchange laws, the Domei, Japanese news agency, reported. Sofia Ziegler, a German, arrested with him last month and charged with collusion, was absolved.

SUB RESCUES 24 BRITONS FROM NAZI PRIZE CREW

Germans Scuttle Norse Ship Off Spain.

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP).—The admiralty announced tonight that the British submarine Truant had rescued the crew of a torpedoed British merchant ship and a party of Norwegian sailors from a German prize crew which had captured the Norwegians' vessel.

The rescue was effected off Cape Finisterre, northwestern corner of Spain. The British were the crew of 24 of the 5,207 ton steamer Haxby, who were imprisoned aboard the 5,781 ton Norwegian steamer Tropic Sea, which the Germans were sailing to Germany.

Scuttle Norse Ship.

The Haxby had been torpedoed and sunk and the Tropic Sea captured by a German surface raider, name undisclosed, the admiralty said.

After the Truant's rescue all of the Britons and some of the Norwegians were brought to England. The Germans and the other Norwegians were left in the ship's boats.

When the Truant ordered the Tropic Sea to stop the ship was scuttled by the German prize crew "by means of explosive charges which were kept ready and in position," the admiralty announcement said.

Planes Sent to Rescue.

The Germans and their British and Norwegian prisoners took to the boats and the Truant picked up the 24 British seamen, the Norwegian captain of the Tropic Sea and his wife. The others had to left at sea because the submarine could accommodate no more.

The boats were not overcrowded and the sea was "flat calm," according to the admiralty. RAF seaplanes immediately wer sent to rescue those in the boats and brought one boatload to England.

"Having regard to weather conditions," the admiralty said, "it is probable that the other boats reached land."

128,000 GERMANS TO MOVE OUT OF REDS' NEW LANDS

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (AP).—Six hundred German experts in resettlement work have started or will start soon for Bessarabia and Northern Bukovina, territories recently ceded by Rumania to Russia, a high foreign office official disclosed today.

The Germans are to bring East Prussia and former Polish territories annexed by the Reich some 90,000 Germans from Bessarabia and 38,000 from Northern Bukovina.

AYE, THERE'S RUB TO LIFE ABOARD DUTCH FREIGHTER

Crew Keeps Busy Polishing and Painting Ship.

(Picture on back page.)

BY EDWARD WILSON.

When the Prins Willem III., that Dutch freighter which is anchored off Navy pier, finally sails from Chicago it will be one of the best painted, best oiled, and best polished ships that ever left this port.

From morning to night for six weeks now some of the crew have painted the freighter. They have painted the masts, the booms, and the sides, and now they are scraping and painting the deck.

Other crew members are oilers. They have oiled everything in sight, from door hinges to winches.

Time on Their Hands.

The 19 crew members have time on their hands because a decision of their own making has forced them to stay aboard the ship.

The ship cleared port here July 25 to return to Europe. It had delivered a load of seeds and twine. But when it reached the mouth of the river the crew notified the master, Capt. W. P. C. Helsdingen, that it would not sail back thru the war zone.

Capt. Helsdingen had orders to pick up cargo in Montreal, Quebec, and then to sail under sealed orders. The crew anticipated the cargo would be munitions for England and the members said they feared Germany might throw their families living in Holland into concentration camps if they carried the munitions.

Captain Lives Ashore.

Fred C. Schlotfeldt, director of immigration here, said the members cannot land because they have no business on the shore. He has permitted Capt. Helsdingen to live ashore because he is handling the ship's business. The captain is held responsible for the crew.

Jan J. De Boer, 5117 North Winchester avenue, who visited them yesterday, said he is organizing a committee of interested Holland-Americans to collect needed articles for the crew. Pleasure craft come by occasionally and bring them cigarets and beer.

The men are getting tired of staying put, according to First Mate Cornelius Smith, but they don't want to return to the war zone.

Capt. Helsdingen says the matter is in the hands of the immigration department. Schlotfeldt says the matter is to be settled between the crew and the captain.

"I don't see any solution in sight," Schlotfeldt said. "I guess the ship is just stymied."

15 NOTED FRENCH INDIVIDUALS LOSE CITIZEN RIGHTS

VICHY, France, Sept. 6.—Fifteen prominent French men and women today were deprived of their citizenship under a recent law for having left France without an official mission or a valid reason.

They are Pierre Cot, former air minister under various Leftist governments; Maurice, Edward, Philippe, Robert, and Henri Rothschild of the banking family; Leon and Maurice Stern, noted bankers; David Weill, philanthropist and art patron; Edouard Jonas, art dealer and antiquarian; Henri de Kerilis, editor of the newspaper L'Epoque; Genevieve Tabouis, columnist for the newspaper L'Oeuvre; Emile Bure, editor of the newspaper L'Ordre; Andre Geraud, who writes under the pen name "Pertinax," and Elie Joseph Bois, former editorial writer for the Petit Parisien.

In a communique issued to the press tonight it was stated that the action against the persons named was the first act of the new cabinet. The move is interpreted as an indication of the government's intention to act with energy in clearing up the war guilt situation.

CHARGE GERMAN FLYERS PREVENT RESCUE OF PALS

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP).—The British admiralty said tonight that "German airmen have again prevented the rescue of their comrades from the sea by British naval units." An admiralty communique said:

"This morning three of his majesty's drifters attempted to rescue four German airmen who had bailed out over the sea from a German bomber. The rescue was prevented by other German aircraft which attacked the drifters with machine gun fire. There were no casualties in the drifters.

"Also, this morning one of our motor torpedo boats was attacked and machine gunned by German aircraft, while proceeding to the rescue of crews of German aircraft shot down in the English channel. Four of the crew of the torpedo boat were slightly wounded and the attempt at rescuing the German airmen was abandoned."

U.S. TO BAR CANAL ZONE STRIKERS WHO STAY AWAY

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 6 (AP).—Striking laborers on the Gatun locks projects will be allowed to return to work without prejudice, but "those who do not will be paid off and dropped from the rolls," the office of Gov. Glen Edgerton announced tonight.

Several hundred men engaged in secret defense work went on strike yesterday, asking better food and more pay. About half the remaining 1,200 Panaman and West Indian laborers refused to work today.

Civilian authorities said there was some justification for complaints against food and that this situation was being corrected. They said the wage scale was fair.

Accuses Husband

MRS. ADOLPH B. SPRECKELS.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 6 [Special].—Adolph B. Spreckels, young heir to the Spreckels sugar millions, was accused in a divorce suit filed here today of associating with agents of Nazi Germany.

His wife, the former Baroness Emily von Romberg, declared her friends now shun her because Spreckels has pro-Nazi sympathies and because he has entertained Nazi agents. She said they were once hissed out of a New York restaurant when her husband refused to remove a German flag from his table.

Mrs. Spreckels, fourth wife of the 28 year old sportsman, said he beat her so severely she required medical care after she remonstrated in an attempt to curb what she called his heavy drinking. They married on Aug. 10, 1939, and separated Aug. 25, 1940.

Alimony of $2,500 a month was asked by Mrs. Spreckels pending a financial settlement. She said Spreckels has an annual income of $150,000 and is worth $2,500,000.

His family was permitted to remain in Berlin.

ARGENTINA HINTS FDR PLEDGED TO IMPORT MEATS

Melo Says Deal Must Wait Until November.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentine, Sept. 2 (AP).—Leopoldo Melo, Argentine delegate to the recent Havana foreign minister's conference, said in a speech today that a conversation with President Roosevelt and statements of other administration figures, had led him to the conviction that the question of sending Argentine meat into the United States would be "solved" when the November elections are over.

Melo, speaking at an American Chamber of Commerce luncheon, referred to a conversation he said he had with Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., a month ago, concerning the non-ratified 1935 sanitary convention which would permit entry of Argentine meat into the United States.

He Quotes Roosevelt.

Departing from the prepared text of his speech, Melo said:

"I am going to be indiscreet. Mr. Roosevelt told me that the present hour of political struggle is not propitious to raise this issue because some western senators are possibly more inclined to listen to the aspirations of their voters than to the facts of the case as explained by the President."

[A heated controversy developed in congress in May, 1939, when it was revealed President Roosevelt had ordered the navy to purchase 48,000 pounds of Argentine canned corned beef. Action subsequently was taken providing that American meat be used.]

Encouraged by Hull, Welles.

Melo also referred to Secretary of State Hull and Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles, saying:

"These words of the President, delivered with his habitual tone of cordial sincerity, and other well known expressions of ranking administration members of the Democratic party such as Mr. Hull and Mr. Welles lead to the conviction that when the present hour of political agitation has passed the propitious moment will arrive to raise again and solve the important problem which worries our livestock breeders."

The speaker suggested a propaganda campaign to prepare the American public.

Needs Senate Approval.

Melo said that Mr. Roosevelt "expressed a desire" that the issue over the sanitary convention be "equitably resolved."

He said Mr. Roosevelt told him ratification of the convention required a two-thirds vote of the senate. He said the President reminded him that in the senate a cattle state "like Nevada" had as many votes as the populous state of New York.

Divorces Sculptor

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. MARY JOSSET.

Mrs. Mary Armstrong Josset, 24 years old, 1510 North Dearborn street, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort in the Superior court from Raoul Josset, a sculptor, of 510 North Dearborn street. Her bill, filed by Attorney William Waugh, charged cruelty, asserting that Josset struck her with a chair, threw bottles at her, and knocked her down. She waived alimony and was granted return of her maiden name. The marriage took place a year ago in the Winnetka home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong. It was her third marriage. In December, 1935, she eloped with Arthur Clayson Swallow Jr. of Milwaukee, and in January, 1938, was married to Charles H. Penicoff. Josset was represented by Attorney Benjamin B. Davis.

REPORT ALMAZAN AIDS PLAN JUNTA IN SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 6 (AP).—The Evening News today said it had learned that preliminary plans were being made today to hold an Almazanista junta here within a few days. It said followers of Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, independent claimant to the presidency of Mexico, were reported gathering from South Texas and Northern Mexico.

It was reported that other Almazan leaders have been quietly gathering here and in Rio Grande valley cities for more than a week, getting ready for a meeting which may be attended by Almazan, who was last reported in New York City.

CONGRESS SENDS 5¼ BILLION BILL TO WHITE HOUSE

Biggest Defense Measure in Peace Time.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—Congress sent the biggest defense appropriation since world war days—$5,251,488,392—to the White House today.

The senate completed action on the bill, designed to help equip a fighting force of 2,000,000 soldiers and push construction for a two-ocean fleet, and hastened the measure along for the signature of President Roosevelt.

The same chamber also finished congressional action on a bill to increase from 2,400 to 7,200 the number of students in the reserve officers training corps.

Suspend 8-Hour Law.

On the house side, the merchant marine committee approved a bill to permit private shipyards to suspend requirements for an eight-hour day on construction and repairs to vessels for the maritime commission. The measure would be effective during the national emergency period proclaimed by the President a year ago.

A similar measure affecting naval construction already has been enacted into law, and like it, the proposed bill would require payment of time and one-half for overtime.

There were these other developments in the field of national defense.

Lay Roads for Army.

John M. Carmody, federal works administrator, said the army and the navy would direct nearly all of the 275 million dollar expenditures next year for federal-air highways. He said the program would concentrate on roads and bridges of strategic importance. Routes for the operation of mechanized and motorized equipment will be reinforced.

The senate military affairs committee approved two bills which would make world war sabotage and debt moratorium acts applicable in the existing emergency.

Fines of $10,000 and 10-year prison terms could be imposed for attempts to injure national defense materials, premises or utilities under the terms of one measure.

Firing Squad Executes Two Slayers of Irish Detective

REPUBLICAN

They'll Conscript Mothers and Fathers, Too!

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.

(Assigned by Republican National committee.)

When Wendell Willkie and his two brothers went trotting off to war 23 years ago they didn't stop and insist: "You've got to conscript our mother and father before we go."

Using "Pipe" Guns.

Yet that is the feeling that is being worked up by the New Deal today. That is what this so-called conscription of property means. Ah, in the old days, the red blooded youngsters were out to protect those who had brought them into the world, reared them and guided them up to manhood. The fathers had been to war before them, likely as not. One seems to be available for every generation.

As a matter of fact, fellows like the Willkie boys didn't spend their time, when they returned, grumbling about men who made $20 a day in a steel plant and spent 50 cents a pound for sugar and $18 for a silk shirt. They settled down to work and that's the reason Wendell Willkie will be the next President, we sincerely believe, of the United States.

Rabble Rousers Making Us Soft.

Those rabble rousers down in Washington who are doing more with their teachings to make us soft for Hitler than any so-called fifth columnists, say: "O, you draft the men but you won't draft the dollars, eh?"

Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma, who used to teach public speaking in school, does this a little better than the rest. Indeed, it is a treat to watch the gleam in his eyes as the words roll off his tongue. He's a sight.

The plain fact is that they are DRAFTING DOLLARS every day of the year, every minute of the day. What do you suppose taxes are if they aren't the DRAFTING OF DOLLARS OR PROPERTY?

The theory of the compulsory military training bill is that the younger men, not yet established in a career or whose services can be best spared without upsetting the economic structure, should be given a year's training. This applies equally to the sons of rich men and the sons of poor men. All the authorities agree that the training is good for young men, that it will help them in later life.

We say this is the THEORY of the bill. We haven't any idea how the New Deal will administer it.

Working for Madame Perkins.

But do those youngsters who go off to the camps to train with stovepipes for machine guns and tin cans for shells under the New Deal defense program—do they want their parents' businesses taken away? Or, if their parents are working in a plant, do they want them to be turned over to the good graces of Madame Perkins, Harold Ickes, Tommy Corcoran, Benny Cohen, Leon Henderson, or that leftist hot bed, the National Labor Relations board? On the square now, do you suppose there is a young man in the United States who wants his mother and father working for Madame Perkins simply because he is in a training camp?

The representatives of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. haven't found her to be a good person to work WITH to say nothing of working FOR.

Now, there isn't the slightest doubt in the world that the President can bring into line any industry that won't "coöperate" in the defense program. He doesn't need the Russell-Overton amendment at all. Mr. Willkie took the adoption of this amendment by the senate to point out the trend in Washington, the general temper down there.

The fact is that under his emergency powers, the President can do just about anything he pleases, without any more legislation of any kind. And you may have forgotten it, but we are operating under a NATIONAL EMERGENCY right now. The President declared this emergency to exist shortly after the war broke out on the grounds that there were German submarines off our shores.

Congress has been afraid to go home for fear of what he might do. Yet the longer they remain in session the more trouble they get into. If you will piece together all the happenings in Washington you will see that the fight is between those who WANT to build up our National Defense and those who want to use the occasion to seize control of the country's economic structure.

These are the facts!

DEMOCRATIC

Building Up Good Neighbor Policy.

(Provided by the Democratic National committee.)

When President Roosevelt first announced his "good neighbor" policy for dealing with the nations of Latin America, the country generally accepted the idea with restrained enthusiasm. The plan was looked upon as a kind of vague idealism, something akin to the Kellogg-Briand pact for outlawing war, fine in principle but with little significance in this hard bitten world.

Secretary Hull.

There was a feeling that the people of Latin America looked upon the United States with a depth of suspicion which no declaration of good intentions and friendly feeling could uproot. The old custom of "dollar diplomacy" had been too long in force to effect much of a change. Uncle Sam had sent too many United States battleships to the Caribbean countries and landed too many marines—for the collection of debts and for other purposes—to convince the people down below of his change in heart.

The slow growth of seven years has done its work, however, and the good neighbor policy is now one of the surest props in the policy of hemisphere defense. The credit belongs in large measure to the patience, tact, understanding, and statesmanship of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He has, in fact, helped to recast the thinking of an entire continent and made at the same time a splendid contribution to the country's foreign policy.

The decision of the United States to build naval bases in the Caribbean, on sites leased from Great Britain, has now forged another strong link in the development of cordial relations with Latin America. This action has been interpreted below the Rio Grande as definite proof that the United States is sincere in its intention to uphold the Monroe Doctrine and to prevent the spread of European influence or foreign isms on this continent. It has buttressed the idea of hemispheric unity and reduced to a minimum the menace of invasion.

Launching a Policy.

Foreign policy is too remote from normal life to awaken much interest on the part of ordinary citizens. Yet, in the present chaotic state of international relations, the upbuilding of American solidarity may have far reaching importance in the years that lie ahead. President Roosevelt had this in mind when he launched the good neighbor policy in his first inaugural address. He said then:

"In the field of foreign policy I would dedicate the nation to the policy of the good neighbor—the neighbor who resolutely respects himself and, because he does so, respects the rights of others—the neighbor who respects his obligations and respects the sanctity of his agreements in and with a world of neighbors."

The leasing of sites for naval bases along the Atlantic, long needed for defense purposes, and the prospective leasing of other sites in the Pacific, has been received with tremendous enthusiasm by the bulk of the American people and also by the press. The New York Times said editorially:

"The group of air and naval bases that the United States has arranged to lease from Great Britain will enormously strengthen our capacity for hemispherical and hence for national defense. The proposed bases at the Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, and Trinidad will make far easier than before the defense of the Panama canal."

One military observer pointed out that the proposed bases will transform the Caribbean into an American lake, as valuable to this country as Gibraltar has been to the British in controling the Mediterranean. The gain to this country will far offset the value of the over-age destroyers which were given in exchange for the leases.

The Ultimate Goal.

The fact that President Roosevelt selected a Republican, Col. Frank Knox, to head the navy department during this critical period has been a potent factor in swinging public opinion behind the program for hemisphere defense, regardless of partisan political feeling. Because of his lifelong acquaintance with military and naval problems, Col. Knox has been an invaluable aid in carrying on the necessary negotiations. He has given his services with the single purpose of promoting national unity and strengthening national defense.

A foreign policy cannot be constructed overnight because its value depends more upon the underlying spirit and good faith of those participating than it does upon treaties or formal covenants. Seven years ago President Roosevelt had a goal in mind, a goal which we are now rapidly achieving.

WILLKIE BRANDS DESTROYER DEAL A DICTATOR'S ACT

Worst in U. S. History, Says Nominee.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 6.—Wendell Willkie today accused President Roosevelt of committing "the most dictatorial and arbitrary act of any President in the history of the United States" in the secret exchange of 50 American destroyers for defense bases on British territory in the Atlantic.

The Republican Presidential nominee made his charge as a preface to a round table conference with almost 100 middle western farm editors.

"This transfer has been compared to the Louisiana purchase," Willkie said, "but President Thomas Jefferson was so disturbed over the acquisition of the terrjtory from France that he thought long of having a constitutional amendment passed to approve it.

Congressional Approval.

"Jefferson finally decided that this was not necessary, but he did secure the approval of congress."

Willkie paused a moment.

"It does no good to solve problems in the manner that dictators solve them," he continued. "I say this after great deliberation: That if we can't defeat the dictators by the constitution thru the processes of democracy, then we will but prove that the democratic way is not the effective way.

"No matter if it is the farm problem or any other problem, if I am elected President, I will lean over backward to bring about its solution thru democratic processes."

Willkie's listeners applauded.

The nominee then turned to the farm problem and declared that it had been created by the building up of American economy behind tariff walls, "so that the farmer has to buy in a protected market, and sell his products in an unprotected market."

Discusses Farm Taxation.

Farm taxation, he continued, is out of line, since the farmer pays a fixed real property tax without regard to the income he receives.

"He pays the same tax in poor years as well as in good years," Willkie continued, "which is not true of the lawyer and the physician, whose taxes vary according to income.

"We must develop a system of taxation for the farmer based upon income rather than a tax based upon fixed valuation.

Further solution of the agricultural problem lies in increased industrial activity, the nominee declared.

"Industrial stagnation is the cause of the loss of farm income," he said. "It is my belief that industry can be so stimulated by wise administration of existing laws, and the adjustment of tax laws, that the unemployed will be reduced to an insignificant number."

This could be done, Willkie asserted, without the loss of social security legislation, or the statutes governing minimum wages and maximum hours.

Backs Rural Electrification.

Willkie turned to rural electrification and repeated that in 1934 he had gone to Washington, D. C., to propose the appropriation of 100 million dollars to be used as a revolving fund for the bringing of electrical benefits to the farmer.

"Here was a great requirement—electric service," he said. "Private and municipal plants couldn't build the lines because they wouldn't pay, yet here was a requirement unfulfilled, and the farmer was entitled to it."

Willkie said he proposed that the revolving fund be created and that if any plant could get a 50 per cent return for building rural lines, the government put up the balance required. After a few years, increased use of electricity would have paid for the project, he said.

"If that had been done then, there would have been twice as much rural electrification as we have now," the nominee asserted.

He Compares Rates.

Willkie complained, however, that the rates farmers are being charged by the Rural Electrification administration are too high. He declared that here in Rush county, farmers receiving that service pay 7½ cents for their first 30 kilowatt hours, whereas in Michigan, the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, which Willkie formerly headed, provides the same power for 4½ cents.

"Sell 'em!" voices called.

"Looks like we'll have to sell, Joe," Willkie said, turning to Kramer.

MRS. W. G. SUTHERS NAMED PRESIDENT OF STATE G. O. P. CLUBS

Elected vice-presidents were Mrs. John T. Mason, Aurora; Miss Jane Magan, Chicago; Mrs. Effie Hale, Chicago; Mrs. Ernest B. Griffin, Grant Park; Mrs. Oscar Becker, Springfield; Mrs. Lena Meyer, Flora, and Mrs. Richard Yates Rowe, Jacksonville.

Other officers chosen were Mrs. Bernice Van Der Vries, Winnetka, treasurer; Dr. Hada Carlson, Moline, recording secretary, and Mrs. Pearl Duncan, Glen Ellyn, corresponding secretary.

Nearly 400 delegates at the meeting unanimously voted to petition the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs for membership.

MOST OF DRIVERS PLEASED BY NEW MILK ROUTE PAY

Most of the 4,600 members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union expressed themselves yesterday as satisfied with the new contract terms established Thursday by a three man arbitration board, providing for a 54 hour week and pay of 81 cents an hour. The contract, effective tomorrow, will yield a base pay of $43.74 a week.

Altho this basic wage is $4.26 less than under the old contract, the drivers had been working an average of 68½ hours a week, which was 74 cents an hour for the former $48 basic pay weekly.

The contract was embodied in a decision written by Msgr. Dennis J. Dennis J. Dunne, pastor of Holy Cross church. The decision ended the wage dispute between the drivers and 25 member firms of the Associated Milk Dealers.

The dealers were studying the effect of Msgr. Dunne's decision yesterday and were uncertain how it would affect the milk industry. The dealers have yet to negotiate with 1,900 inside dairy workers, who are not bound by the decision and are opposing any cut in wages.

FARM BOY TELLS STORY OF PLANE CRASH KILLING 25

Testifies at Inquiry by Aeronautics Board.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—Warren McGaha, 13 years old, a Virginia farm boy, today gave the civil aeronautics board the most graphic account it has heard of last week's airplane crash near Lovettsville, Va., which took 25 lives. The board is investigating the crash of the Pennsylvania-Central Air liner which went down on a flight out of Washington for Pittsburgh.

From such accounts of persons living near the scene of the tragedy, investigators hope to solve the mystery surrounding the cause of the worst airplane disaster in the history of American aviation.

Warren's eyes glowed and his freckles stood out like polka dots as his face paled at recollection of what he had seen. Much too small to reach the microphone, he sat with his chin barely clearing the table top in front of him as he talked. His nasal drawl was inaudible to all but a few of the several hundred spectators in the commerce department's huge auditorium.

Sees Plane from Porch.

"I was on the front porch of our house when the airplane went by," he related. "Then it wa'nt long 'fore they was a streak o' lightnin' and me and dad heared it fall."

"Did the lightning stop at the plane or could you see it on both sides of the plane?" he was asked.

The boy thought a moment, then said: "Can't tell 'bout that."

"Did you hear anything when you saw the lightning?"

"Never heared nuttin'," he replied. "Nuttin' 'cept thunder."

"Did you see anything else?"

"Yup! There was a cloud, a real black one, right in front o' the plane. It was just then it began to go down, like this——"

Others Tell Similar Story.

Substantially the same story was told by other witnesses, including several other Virginia farmers and their women folks. They agreed the crash occurred after a flash of lightning when the plane was heading into a black storm cloud. No rain was falling at the time, they said.

Earlier the investigators heard James H. Carmichael, vice president in charge of operations of the Pennsylvania-Central Air Lines, owners of the ill-fated ship, tell of long experience of the pilot, Lowell Scroggins, who had more than 11,000 hours of flying time to his credit.

Luther Harris, vice president in charge of maintenance for the air line, admitted under questioning that the ship was scheduled for an overhauling after only 35 more hours in the air. He said the plane was given a thoro inspection at regular 120 hour intervals.

EDWARD E. WILLKIE QUITS JOB TO WORK IN BROTHER'S CAMPAIGN

Edward E. Willkie, younger brother of Wendell Willkie, Republican nominee for President, resigned yesterday as vice president of Libby, McNeill & Libby, food packers, to devote his full time to his brother's campaign.

"I will join Wendell in Rushville next Monday and place myself at his disposal," he said last night.

Willkie has lived in La Grange for two years. He has been with the food company for 17 years. He is a graduate of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis, and served as an ensign in the world war.

Mrs. Willkie and their two children, Marian, 15 years old, and Edward Jr., 10, will stay at home, 220 South Waiola avenue, La Grange, while Willkie is engaged in the campaign.

DEMOCRATS OPEN MIDWEST OFFICE IN CITY MONDAY

Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] announced yesterday a formal opening next Monday of the midwestern headquarters of the Democratic national committee in the Stevens hotel. A luncheon is to be held, to which state chairmen and national committeemen from the 13 states in the region have been invited.

Lucas said the campaign will be on full swing in his area within two or three weeks.

Congressman Marvin Jones of Texas has been appointed to head the agricultural division at the headquarters.

WALLACE RAPS G. O. P. AS PARTY OF OBSTRUCTION

Du Quoin, Ill., Sept. 6 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for Vice President, charged today that Republicans were "obstructing" national defense and asked whether there was something "sinister behind their efforts to handicap the President."

In addresses here and in Litchfield, Wallace read a prepared statement dealing with the recent United States trade of over-age destroyers to Great Britain in return for air and naval bases.

"I have said the Republican party is the party of appeasement, but it is more than that," read the prepared text. "It is the party of obstruction. It fights grimly those things that are most vital to the defense of this hemisphere. Let me give you an example.

"I believe the American people are back of the President in his trade of destroyers for naval bases from which we can keep invaders from this hemisphere. I believe the American people want those destroyers transferred."

For '41 – Finest We've Done!

With this advertisement, Buick ushers in a brand-new automobile model year.

1940 production is history—recording the greatest manufacturing and selling season our company has ever known.

You may be sure we grimly realized we had to accomplish things in our new cars for 1941 that we could count on to continue our advance.

You don't stand still in this business. You go ahead or you fall back. And we're putting in what it takes to keep us on the march.

So, on top of the $42,000,000 spent on our plants and machines these last four years we've added another $10,000,000 in new facilities.

We've dreamed and schemed the last twelve months in our experimental and engineering divisions sucking fertile brains for new ideas and new values.

We've taken our greatest all-time car and steadily and carefully brought it forward to a perfection of action, ease, goodness beyond anything ever offered under our name.

We honestly mean that, as you will see when you look it over—more, when you drive it—most of all, when it serves you as your very own.

It's hard to picture the new 1941 Buicks fairly with old adjectives.

Every car in all five series of the whole new line deserves unused fresh-minted language.

*According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, a super motor which travels with a series of explosions like the shock waves of a great projectile is called a "FIREBALL."

THE FIREBALL* DOES IT!

Modern gasolines have high octane ratings to permit higher compressions without "ping." Note how this piston, which can be used only in valve-in-head engines, rolls the fuel charge into the shape of a flattened ball that centers around the new, smaller, racing-car type spark plug. Fired at its very heart, this more highly compressed fuel lets go with such full-forced, "ping-free" wallop that any gasoline of 75 octane rating (now available at standard-fuel prices) may be used in the 115-hp. engine. Any fuel of 80 octane rating serves in the 125- and 165-hp. engines.

They move and function like young wild things. They're all grace and poise and eagerness. They bring to driving and handling a keener pleasure and a new thrill.

Go see these superb new cars at your dealer's—they make plain why Buick is rightly called "exemplar of General Motors value."

Ask especially about the new micropoise-balanced FIREBALL engines—the 1941 furtherance of Buick's Dynaflash design and kingpin of all the features that make Buick the sensation of the new automobile year.

ONLY CAR IN THE WORLD WITH ALL THESE FEATURES

BUICK FIREBALL VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINES—115, 125 and 165 horsepower. Higher compression, better combustion, greater economy from design that makes the most of modern fuels.

"MASS-STREAM" BODIES, BIGGER, ROOMIER—Unisteel Bodies by Fisher with concealed running boards and hidden hinges on all doors.

COMPOUND CARBURETION — reserve twin-barrel carburetor that cuts in as needed; greater brilliance with 30-mile economy at 50-mile speed.

PERMI-FIRM STEERING—freedom from steering wheel play over three or four times the usual service period.

DUREX MAIN BEARINGS — mechanical and chemical bond between babbitt and backing plate; practically indestructible in normal service.

PLUS: Full-Length Torque Tube in Sealed Chassis ★ Tiptoe Hydraulic Brakes ★ One-Piece "Lift-Off" Hood ★ Easier, Quieter Concentric Shifting ★ Built-In Automatic Choke ★ Heavy Duty Oil Bath Air Cleaners ★ Power-Saver Fan and Water Pump ★ Micro-Matched Connecting Rods ★ Sealed Beam Headlights ★ Two-Tone Body Colors ★ Safety Plate Glass All Around.

THE MILK WAGE AWARD.

The wage agreement for Chicago milkmen reached thru arbitration has a number of pleasant aspects. It is encouraging to see employer and employés in an industry with more than its share of economic difficulties reaching an agreement over the conference table. It is too bad that they did not adopt this procedure in the beginning instead of indulging in a useless trial of strength thru two strikes that settled nothing and cost employers, employés, and milk producers an estimated $1,000,000.

Credit as well as responsibility for the settlement must go principally to the neutral member of the arbitration board, Msgr. Dunne. Home delivery milk wagon drivers, the most numerous class in the union, receive a weekly pay cut of about 9 per cent in exchange for a reduction in hours of 22 per cent. Their hourly pay is raised 9 per cent.

This is more than the drivers were willing to concede originally, and considerably less than the distributors asked. They had first proposed pay cuts which would have amounted to three-eighths of the basic wage, or about 23 per cent of the average weekly pay check when a proposed increase in commissions was taken into consideration. Msgr. Dunne undoubtedly reflected public opinion in considering such a reduction as far too drastic, even considering the conditions in the milk business that prompted the distributors to ask it.

The most serious of these conditions, from the standpoint of employment opportunities for union members, is that wholesale sales of the milk distributors have increased from 15 per cent of their total volume 10 years ago, when most of these sales were to restaurants and institutions, to 52 per cent at present, with the bulk of the sales to stores that sell the milk at retail over the counter. Obviously, a driver delivers 100 quarts of milk at one store in far less time than it takes him to deliver one quart at each of 100 back doors.

It was in the hope of getting the home delivery price down to a point where they can recover some of the milk business lost to stores that the distributors asked for the drastic wage cut that they failed to get. Any price reduction sweeping enough to make much impression on the present differential of 4½ cents a quart between the store and home delivery price seems unlikely to come out of the wage agreement that has been made.

It is obvious that it is not the added labor cost of home deliveries that is solely responsible for the present price spread. Indeed, if the wagon driver worked for nothing, his home delivery customers would still have to pay a half cent to a cent more for their milk than they pay at the present store price of 8½ cents a quart. Either the home delivery price is too high or, as is more probable, the distributors are using their profits on home deliveries to meet losses sustained in the more competitive field of store sales.

Whatever the cause of the price differential, its existence in its present proportions promises a further decline in home delivery sales. It is doubtful whether anything can save the home delivery system from eventual extinction, if the men who operate it are to have a living wage scale. The store sales system is so much less costly, and the use of the automobile in shopping, store delivery systems, mechanical refrigeration, which makes daily deliveries unnecessary, and paper milk containers, which the obstructionists in the city hall cannot keep out of Chicago forever, are all operating to rob home deliveries of the convenience that was their greatest selling point.

THE AUTOCRAT AT HOME.

If congress wishes to present a consistent front it will bring its domestic legislative program into line with its national defense appropriations. Those appropriations, we are told, are to protect the liberties of America from the attack of the dictators now raging in Europe. They are still in Europe, and they still have their hands full.

One of the liberties we'd like to preserve is the freedom from arbitrary dictate. That is the cloud that hovers over Europe. It is the cloud the war party says is coming this way. American forces are being mobilized. They include the industries of the country. These industries already are subject to arbitrary dictate. Greater authority for dictates is being sought. Our government does not wait for a foreign ruler to bring the system over. It has already adopted that for the avoidance of which 15 billions are being appropriated.

It is useless to ask the administration to explain the inconsistency. The answer would be that we must defend our liberties by giving them up, an idea paralleling the thought that the way to avoid a war is to get in it. But congress can be asked for some consistency. It has two bills which would restore rights already lost without an opportunity to defend them. One is the Walter bill, which would give judicial protection to citizens against arbitrary dictate. The decision will not be final in the procedure of such an administrative body as the labor board, notorious for its arbitrary practices. The citizens would have the right, in specified particulars, to review by the courts. That is an ancient and should be an inalienable right. It was until dictates became laws.

The Smith committee amendments to the Wagner labor act were formulated after an exhaustive investigation of the working of that law. They have been passed by the house of representatives and are bogged down in the senate. They restore rights which the act has restricted and the labor board has abrogated. They restore, for instance, the right of free speech. Dictate has gone far when it has impaired that.

Appropriations for the defense of liberty do not mean much unless congress will protect that liberty from attack at home while watching the skies and the seas for an attack from far away.

THE AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE.

It will be interesting to watch the attempts of the New Dealers, Washington and Long Island cookie pushers, and other war mongers to try to smear the members of the newly formed America First committee with their customary cries of "fifth columnist," "appeaser," and "Nazi."

They tried that smear campaign on Col. Lindbergh and only smeared themselves. Will they expect any more success against such men as Eddie Rickenbacker, Brig. Gen. Hammond, Gen. Wood, Hanford MacNider, and Hugh Johnson?

We picked those names from the committee membership because each of the men named distinguished himself in the last war. They know what war means. They form a contrast to the list of members of the Chicago chapter of the war mongers' principal propaganda agency, the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. Col. A. A. Sprague may not be the only member of this group that saw war service, but he is the only one of whose service the public ever became aware. The list of his associates forms a good catalog of Chicago's professional bleeding hearts, with a sprinkling of New Deal politicians.

The war mongers' slurs and fifth column talk reached a climax when Cornwallace intimated that the Republican party is playing Hitler's game by insisting on holding an election, and it may be expected to die soon of its own inanity. Certainly the people who peddle the trash will find no targets either in the membership of the America First committee or in its platform, which is:

"1. The United States must build an impregnable defense for America.

"2. No foreign power, nor group of powers, can successfully attack a prepared America.

"3. American democracy can be preserved only by keeping out of the European war.

"4. 'Aid short of war' weakens national defense at home and threatens to involve America in war abroad."

That is a platform to which every American can subscribe. Every American is invited to subscribe to it, and Americans only.

WATER WINGS AGAINST HITLER.

Mr. Hull, who some months ago warned Japan that the status quo in the Netherlands East Indies must be maintained, has taken in more territory. He now tells the Tokio government that the United States could not see a change in the status of French Indo-China without great concern. This was followed up by the British foreign office, which notified Japan that Great Britain likewise had a vital interest.

Japan wants to send its troops thru Indo-China and get at the Chinese army on another flank. The French are not in a position to do much about it. Neither is Great Britain, which itself has made several concessions to keep the Japanese in line. One was the closing of the Burma road over which supplies had gone to the Chinese.

The United States is out in front in the far east as guardian of British, French, and Dutch possessions and interests. That is why the American fleet is in the Pacific and why it is maneuvering about in great secrecy. It is engaged in an imperialistic patrol, trying to restrain the Japanese at a time when they must think that opportunity is knocking at every door. Meanwhile, our Atlantic fleet is "on order." It will be "on order" for the next four or five years.

Altho we are told to look anxiously out across the water to Europe and behold the coming of the armada which will crush us, the first line of defense is over in the other ocean, operating out of the Hawaiian naval base. It is about as far from the armada which threatens us as it possibly could be. Against this danger approaching by sea we have called out the National Guard and may be about to call out the conscripts.

The 202d coast artillery antiaircraft regiment, the Illinois National Guard unit included in the recent mobilization call, is recruiting men at its Broadway armory and presently will be assembled at Camp Logan. Then it will be on its way to Fort Bliss, near El Paso, Tex., where it will be on guard against the peril in the Atlantic.

The war party in Washington ought to make up its mind. Where is this war to be and how do we propose to fight it? Is the fleet to keep Japan out of French Indo-China—a part of the French empire by reason of some interesting chicanery with Spain in the middle of the last century—while the National Guard swims out to defeat the warships about to descend on the eastern coast? The boys will need their water wings if they are to be our first line of defense.

Editorial of the Day

[Washington Evening Star.]

Wendell Willkie's declaration that he does not have to be elected President and that he is not enough interested in being President to compromise with his fundamental beliefs gives a revealing glimpse of the true character of the Republican nominee.

In all too many instances candidates for public office are overly concerned with winning a particular election. To them the end is vital, the means unimportant. Some of them have practiced every deception and will stoop to any device that they think may attract the support of this or that group on election day. In some cases these tactics have been successful, but the result reflects no credit on American politics.

Mr. Willkie's forthright statement was made in repudiating the proffered support of Father Charles E. Coughlin, or, rather, of his magazine, Social Justice, because, as the Republican candidate understands it, the movement headed by the Detroit priest is "opposed to certain people because of their race or religion."

In disavowing the support of the Coughlinites Mr. Willkie may or may not have diminished his chance of being elected. But that is a secondary consideration. The important thing is that he establishes himself as a man of principle, a candidate who will not sacrifice his self-respect even to win an election.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

TIME BY THE FORELOCK.

The most frequent remark of the layman about the conduct of this column is:

"Of course you have dozens of columns prepared in advance, so you can go away for a while whenever you feel like it. Pretty soft!"

And of course THE TRIBUNE has dozens of issues prepared in advance so it can go to sleep at the switch whenever it is in the mood! Of course a general has his victories arranged in advance so he needn't worry what the enemy is doing!

To illustrate what happens when we take a good firm grip on Time's forelock:

We prepared a column three weeks in advance, figuring that it would ease the strain of the first day on return from vacation. Everything was arranged for it to slide into the paper automatically on the scheduled date, but nevertheless we came to the office on Labor day to take another look at it. The composing room had it ready, with our O. K.'d proof tucked under its head. We read the proof. Fine! Not a bit of it had grown stale.

Then we had a fresh proof taken, and read it again. Behold, a "pi" line had crept into it at a vital point—an extraneous line that made gibberish of a paragraph. Nobody could account for it, but there it was—one of the countless fantastic accidents that happen in printing shops. Out it went, of course, and home we went, with 400 letters to read.

Near the bottom of the heap of mail, at 5 p. m., we found a letter from Eolus, stating that his verses, "So This Is Paris," given leading position in the column, had been sent to the Wake of the News. We had held them a month; he thought we didn't want them.

Telephone to the Wake: Arch Ward is away, his helpers will check and phone back. No answer; everything seems safe. At 9:30 p. m., after "So This Is Paris" had run thru two editions, comes a message from the night editor: these verses had been in the Wake a week before. Then we remake the column by telephone.

Great are the blessings of preparedness!

COMES SEPTEMBER.

Now summer loves are past and put away.
Some day she'll love another and be true
Tho there are words that she may never say
To him, because she murmured them to you.
And you will be forgotten 'til some night
When with a newer love she sees arise
A golden moon that glimmers just as bright
Treading a path across the starry skies.
Then with a start she'll think of you again,
See the remembered contours of your face,
Hear your soft laughter with a secret pain,
Wondering what brings you to this trysting place;
Knowing you mock her with a lifted brow
"You love him? Don't forget—I taught you how!"

Great Geographical Mystery.

On your western trip you crossed the Great Divide thrice [Sept. 4]. Farthest north was the Canadian border and farthest south Denver. I got out a pencil and paper and tried to work it out. Just when I had it licked—return via Siberia and points west—I recalled that the farthest west was Salt lake.

Now we are in a fix. You are somewhere between Salt lake and the Great Divide and I can't get you out. A. C. L.

[Well, call it four times if you want to be pernickety. But the fourth seemed like a part of the third. Divides are tricky things; we once threw a stone across the Mississippi-St. Lawrence divide, between two lakes in northern Wisconsin.]

Wooden Indian Comes Home to Roost.

About two years ago this column stirred up considerable dust about wooden Indians, and mentioned, among others in situ, a fine specimen in Goshen, Ind. Now comes a letter from Frank Yoder, deputy sheriff of Elkhart county, stating that he has purchased said Indian, with its adjacent cigar store, and adding:

"I would like to sell the Indian, which is 42 inches in height and nicely painted. Am wondering if it would be possible to get a picture on the front page of your paper with a nice story. You might start it by saying, 'Deputy Sheriff Captures Wooden Indian.'"

AIR RAID BULLETIN.

He loved the sky, the feel of speed,
And ripped across the blue
In answer to an urgent need
To slice a cloud in two.

I did not fret, I let him fly,
The danger knew and chose.
I did not know a lad could die
With freckles on his nose.

Like God some voice announced his fate
With speech so clipped and stern:
"A raid was made by squadron eight;

Night Lights of Metropolis.

At dusk a magic change comes over Metropolis. The giant houses darken and a million candles twinkle in the mighty office towers. As night falls a transcendent miracle unfolds. Behold a radiant panorama of glowing buildings with myriad gleaming windows. Coruscating jewel boxes. Dazzling tiaras of brilliant diamonds. Floodlighted cathedrals of grandeur and repose. Terraced apartments with glittering penthouse gardens. Castellated iridescent acclivities of genius and science. Proud, light-legged elongations reaching for the starry canopy of heaven. Opposing cavernous valleys and pools of inky darkness. Serpentine arteries of living luminescence and straight avenues of blazing light. Pulsating neon signs and fluorescent pylon torches. Symposium of luster, sheen, and glamor. At the shoreline, flashing pharos for homing mariners. Over all, sweeping beacons for human eagles. J. J. L.

NEURALGIA RESPONSIBLE FOR ABDOMINAL PAIN.

MOST of us are familiar with the type of neuralgia that may manifest itself in the chest. It is called "intercostal," meaning "between the ribs." We pay far too little attention, however, to that form of pain which may be experienced in the abdominal wall, because we fail to realize that the lower six rib nerves and branches from other sources supply this area.

Because appendicitis is so easily diagnosed—or should be—we are prone to ignore the presence of distress below the diaphragm that is not produced by "something wrong inside." The fact of the matter is that in from a quarter to a half of those who complain of discomfort in this region, the origin will lie in a nerve irritation and not in an ovary, the appendix, or the colon. Perhaps we are looking for mountains when we should be searching for molehills.

Pressure will cause the patient to wince, whether trouble lies in a muscle or in an organ. But we wish to differentiate between that which is truly internal and that which is wholly "outside." There is a relatively simple test. Ask the victim to hold his abdominal wall rigid, as tight as possible. If pain still persists on touching we may assume that the disturbance lies somewhere in the outer muscle. We can usually detect tenderness due to intercostal neuralgia by pinching the skin and the underlying fat between the thumb and finger or crowding the external surface against a bony prominence.

But what does this symptom mean when it exists? It may be an indication of shingles, curvature of the spine, postural strain, a true neuritis from a food deficiency, or absorption from bad teeth, infected tonsils, etc.

As a rule, women are affected more frequently than men and the right side is more commonly involved. Twinges may be transient—fleeting in character and the episodes may come and go occasionally during the day. Ordinarily, however, the soreness is not sufficient to prevent one from carrying on regular duties unless the malady responsible is rapidly progressive. Some sufferers will recall that they have felt "abdominal" pangs that have lasted for a second or two for as long as they can remember.

It is important to recognize the condition if we would avoid an unnecessary number of X-rays of the digestive tract, the gall bladder, and the kidneys. All too often every study of this sort will prove negative, whereupon a major operation may be performed in the hope that the underlying factor may be discovered. With a little more care at the outset, this hazard may be avoided. It is just good sense to assume that the simplest explanation should be investigated first.

The label "neurotic" is all too widespread, but we should not blame one of these persons should he or she develop a pronounced neurosis if unrelieved symptoms continue for years—with two or three surgical procedures as skyrocket displays. Many are willing to risk the knife because they seek comfort.

Of course, there are fuss-budgets galore. There are also malingerers who wish to escape from an untenable situation and who court illness as a haven. All the more reason why the physician must use every ounce of skill he possesses to spot the exact nature and then the cause of the difficulty. A neuralgia—the result of a bacterial toxin or a dietary lack—must not be diagnosed as a neurosis.

TOO LITTLE THYROID.

A. L. W. writes: Will you please describe myxedema—its symptoms, cause, and cure?

REPLY.

This disorder is due to too little secretion on the part of the thyroid gland. In children, growth is stunted and mental development retarded. In adults, the face becomes heavy and expressionless, there is a pronounced gain in weight, and the mental outlook on life is one of indifference. Ambition and activity fade away. Feeding thyroid gland substance will bring relief in many cases.

PSORIASIS.

REPLY.

It is not contagious. The tendency appears to be inherited. I have known many instances where the malady would recur in succeeding generations.

REPLY.

AN OLD ARMY MULE'S KICK.

Chicago, Sept. 5—Representative Luther Patrick, Alabama New Dealer, introduced a bill in the house Aug. 27 providing that the secretary of the treasury "pay to William C. Reese of Birmingham, Ala., . . . the sum of $3,500, in full satisfaction of his claim against the United States for personal injuries sustained from the kick of a mule on October 15, 1917, while the said William C. Reese was in the performance of his duties as an employé of the Goodrich Construction company, engaged in the construction of an army camp, . . . due to the negligence of a soldier . . . of the United States army in charge of such mule . . ."

In explaining the bill New Dealer Patrick said Reese "was foreman of a work crew . . . and while at work was twice kicked by a government mule being led along the road by a soldier. It kicked him behind, and that turned him around, and it kicked him in the abdomen. He has not been a well man since."

It will be observed that this mule kick happened 23 years ago. The recipient of the kick is still alive, and if the mule was as tenacious as this claimant, it probably also is alive.

Representative Schulte asked what amount the claimant was asking, and Representative Patrick answered $3,500, and Representative Schulte again inquired "For being kicked by a mule?" and Representative Patrick answered, "Yes, he has spent the rest of his life in bad health."

The bill was passed.

Those Alabama New Deal congressmen certainly stick together. A while ago they tried to tack on the agricultural appropriation bill $600,000 to kill off a new bug they discovered down south called the white fringed beetle, but it was too raw, and they lost out.

Evidently the claimant and the soldier leading the mule in question did not know about mullah eccentricities. How the soldier happened to lead this particular mule alongside Mr. Reese and then permitted him twice to kick the claimant into $3,500 from the United States treasury is not clear.

Well, anyhow, the jackass is the symbol of the Democratic party and this is certainly a reform administration. Claims that could not be upheld 23 years ago, when they originated, are now refurbished, introduced into congress and slipped over just like this small $3,500 payment for the kick from one mule. Most of them never see the light of day because national defense has the spotlight and it is now the open season for New Dealers to put over all kinds of phoney bills under the guise of national defense.

OUR BUSINESS GIRLS.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Did you ever stand by a suburban station in the early morning and watch the pretty little [and big] girls on their way to work? You would think you are enjoying a fashion magazine. Their clothes are the last word in style. They may be inexpensive, but these girls have a way of wearing them that you never could guess the cost. And they must get up at the "screech" of dawn, for they are perfectly groomed, and that takes time. If nature has been negligent about their curls and rosy cheeks they don't worry, for they have that down to perfection, too. Some of it may be a trifle overdone, but they do look lovely and satisfied with life, and that is what counts.

I once knew a girl who said, "The worse I feel, the more makeup I put on, and you have no idea how it helps!" So when we see a girl with cheeks too rosy, let's be charitable. Maybe that paint is covering up a heartache. And by all means go down to the station and watch the style show. You will get some pointers. Some of them may look like a "Hottentot" or an "Indian," but what's the difference, if it makes them feel better? I like their looks, bless their hearts. I'm for 'em no matter what they wear!

ANNE JESTY ROGERS.

TROUBLES OF A LITTLE GUY.

Highland Park, Ill., Sept. 6.—Several years ago a well known author wrote for a magazine an article entitled "Troubles of a Big Guy," telling why he envied small individuals. I take the opposite stand to show just what difficulties an undersized person faces in the game of life.

Why are so many individual bosses in their offices employing small women, but when it comes to a man it isn't the intelligence that seems to count? No, his size is the most important thing.

Don't think I'm talking thru my hat. I have been trying to secure steady employment for more than a year now, and 90 per cent of the interviews I have managed to secure I've been turned down for the size reason only. Is this fair? Must a man be 5 feet 8 or 9 to do general office work? One firm even had the nerve to tell me that my size would be a detriment to their business. How's that for crust? If it were possible to pull an Alice in Wonderland trick and grow a foot merely by taking a drink of something, or by eating a cake, I would be the first to do it, but, unfortunately, that doesn't work in real life. And yet there are people who think a fellow is lazy if he can't find a job.

It isn't only in job hunting that one runs up against the size problem. One life insurance company rejected me for life insurance on exactly the same basis, using the argument that a small individual is a bad risk.

There are ill mannered people who pass you on the street, turn around and giggle, or make sarcastic remarks concerning your physical makeup. Of course you can throw something of this nature off, but the first two instances are something else again. Why not give little guys like myself a chance to prove our ability before giving us the gate?

H. S. PORTER.

INHALATOR DID ARRIVE.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—With reference to the letter from "D. B. N." as published Aug. 28, I wish to refute the statement made that the fire department squad failed to respond to a call for inhalator service. Our records show that squad company No. 5 responded to the call at 6:15 a. m. on the date above given and returned to quarters at 7:05 a. m. The distance traveled was seven miles and the inhalator was used on the child for five minutes, after which the child was pronounced dead by the attending physician, the contributory cause of death being given at quinsy sore throat.

Services of this character are far afield from the work of the fire department, and for reasons that must be obvious are given only under the supervision and direction of an attending physician.

M. J. CORRIGAN,
Fire Commissioner.

SEES HER SON'S DESTINY.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—I have a son in the United States army. He is now intensively preparing himself and 140 enlisted men to fight for his king, his British Isles, and Mr. Churchill. When he was graduated from West Point he and 300 of his comrades, with deep enthusiasm, took an oath of allegiance to the constitution and sovereignty of the United States. His serious study of our history has bred in him a distrust of England's attitude toward our country, in the past and present.

Nevertheless, at the command of the White House, within a few months he may be leading his men to disaster and lay down his own life for his king, his British Isles, and Mr. Churchill.

Is this America's destiny?

AN AMERICAN MOTHER.

A WORD FOR VOLUNTEERING.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—President Hutchins says volunteering should be prohibited. We should rely on the selective draft to "put people where they belong. Volunteering defeats that. You can't leave it up to the people to select the places for which they are best suited."

While I usually agree with Dr. Hutchins, I do not quite see his logic here. Is the army system so rigid that it cannot, by examining the personal history of the volunteers, and by tests, determine their relative qualifications for various grades and types of service and assign them accordingly? The individual records of the recruits as compiled by the army and navy officials would probably be identical in either case. Is it more difficult to find out what volunteers have done and are capable of doing than in the case of conscripts?

I concede the wisdom of the selective draft if man power must be had in large numbers in a given time. But a plan of expansion of the army and navy is already in effect based on quotas. Already volunteers are exceeding these quotas. Why not give the system a fair tryout? What we need just now is no mere masses of men but efficient training. Our small army can assimilate and equip only a limited number within a given time. To overtax its capacity to do that much and do it well is not making headway, but is calculated to cause demoralization and confusion, besides needless expense.

CHARLES F. MCELROY.

MORE ON DRUNKEN DRIVERS.

Naperville, Ill., Sept. 5.—Thank you for the editorial on "Drunken Driving." Can not something more be done to abate this crying evil? When "an ex-convict soaks himself with whisky" and then drives into a group of youthful bicycle riders on the highway, killing one of them, what is he but a first degree murderer?

You are right; these drunken drivers are let off too easy. This evil will not be abated by the slight attention paid to it by the courts. Even if he doesn't just happen to kill anybody outright, he is always endangering highway traffic.

PROPERTY RIGHTS.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A widow with one child, in possession of some Chicago property, remarries, a second child being born of this marriage. The husband is a signatory to a mortgage renewal on her property. She wants to sell this property.

1. What are the rights of the husband?
2. What are the rights of the child born of the second marriage?

Thinking his insane jealousy of her would be curbed somewhat on a farm, she purchases one in Wisconsin, stocks and operates it, but he refuses to join her altho he sends her money periodically.

3. If this farm were sold what would the husband's and his child's rights or claims be? The husband prior to his marriage to this widow owned and does own a farm in Wisconsin.

4. Has the widow and her child any claim to this? W. K.

1. He has a dower interest in her property, if that is what you mean to ask.
2. The child will inherit from her unless she make a will to the contrary.
3. None. We assume that the property mentioned under question No. 1 was in Illinois.
4. Yes. It would seem advisable for her to have a personal interview with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 7, 1822

The colony of Brazil proclaimed its independence from Portugal. Brazil was the only colony in the world to rule its mother country. In 1807, when Napoleon invaded Portugal, the royal family fled to Brazil and established the seat of government there. In 1821 the rule was returned to Lisbon, with Dom Pedro, son of the Portuguese ruler, left in charge. On this date Dom Pedro, angered by orders received from Lisbon, proclaimed independence.

PRESIDENT SAYS NO DEAL ON FOR PACIFIC BASES

Repudiates Statement by Secretary Knox.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—Despite persistent reports to the contrary, President Roosevelt insisted today that the United States is not negotiating for air or naval bases on the Cocos and Galapagos islands in the Pacific, which are owned by Costa Rica and Ecuador, respectively.

Mr. Roosevelt said that these two Latin American nations are coöperating fully with the United States in defense of the western hemisphere, but that there are no negotations under way for defense bases other than those in the Atlantic recently acquired from Great Britain in exchange for 50 American destroyers.

Need for Pacific Defense.

Since the United States is placing a defense ring around the Panama canal on the Atlantic side, it is logically argued by many competent experts that similar action should be taken for outlying bases to defend the canal from the Pacific coast. The Cocos, about 600 miles southwest of the canal, and the Galapagos, situated approximately 1,000 miles southwest from the strategically important canal, are considered excellent bases.

President Rafael A. Calderon of Costa Rica was quoted in dispatches from San José yesterday that his government is prepared to lease the Cocos to the United States. It is also understood that Ecuador has made a similar offer. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was quoted on Tuesday as saying that bases are sought on these islands, but this was promptly repudiated by the President and the state department.

Denies Untruth on Destroyers.

It is believed here that Knox let the cat out of the bag. The President's explanation today of the Knox statement was that a press service which had carried the story had misquoted him. An authorized spokesman for the administration also took great pains to point out how undesirable these islands are geographically. It was recalled, however, that President Roosevelt previously denied that an exchange of destroyers was involved in the acquisition of defense bases on British possessions.

Mr. Roosevelt today rapped those who accused him of telling an untruth about the destroyers by saying that when all the papers are disclosed that led up to the negotiations for the acquisition of the bases, they will find that as of the day he spoke it was literally true [that no destroyers were involved.]

A transcript of the President's press conference on the day he announced negotiations with Great Britain for acquisition of the bases, shows that Mr. Roosevelt cautioned the newspapermen not to use anything about destroyers being involved. The emphasis, he said at that time, was on the acquisition of naval air bases. This was not a matter of destroyers.

Hull Warns Japan.

Regarding the need for defensive action in the Pacific, Secretary of State Cordell Hull indicated today that the United States has made diplomatic representations to Japan, asking that government to respect the status quo in the far east, particularly with reference to the Dutch East Indies and French Indo-China.

Hull intimated that these representations were made in addition to a public statement Wednesday in which he warned Japan of an "unfortunate effect" on American public opinion if reports were true that Japan had served an ultimatum on French Indo-China.

For some time there had been fears of a Japanese attempt to seize Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies since France and the Netherlands have been overrun by Germany.

Meanwhile, Repreentative Charles Kramer [D., Cal.] introduced a resolution in the house requesting President Roosevelt to negotiate with Mexico for naval and air bases in Lower California.

No Bases Sought

GAMBLING JOINT FLUNKIES TELL OF THEIR DUTIES

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

A neighborhood expressman, a gambling shill or come-on man, a carpenter—these and other "little people" once hired by big shot gamblers for a few dollars a day—told their stories in federal court yesterday.

Adolph Bingen, one of witnesses.

One by one they were put on the witness stand in the William R. Johnson income tax trial. They described their chores in a chain of gambling houses, this testimony fitting into the government's general picture of Johnson as the gambling boss who ruled the system and got the lion's share of the income.

Johnson calls himself just a lone wolf gambler and crap shooter. He insists he didn't ow gambling joint. The government says he owned a cluster of 23 gaming centers, and accuses him and eight henchmen on trial with him of conspiring to evade taxes totaling $1,887,864 for the years 1936 thru 1939.

Recalls 84 Hauling Jobs.

The expressman witness was one John Jungwirth. He said that in his little truck he frequently hauled equipment from one gambling house to another. He recalled 84 such trips. The prosecutors said this tieup of the places was important.

Questioned by Paul M. Plunkett, an assistant United States attorney, Jungwirth said he was hired in 1935 by Jack Sommers, a defendant, to haul chairs from the Horseshoe club, 4721 North Kedzie avenue, which was near his express office, at 4315 North Kedzie avenue.

In the following years, Jungwirth said, he did other jobs for Sommers. He hauled chairs, tables, rugs, electric fans and other articles to and from the Horseshoe club, the Villa Moderne, the Casino club, the Dev-Lin inn, the D. & D. club and other places—all gaming dens. The hauling jobs usually followed the closing of a place.

Shill Describes Work.

Another witness was Adolph Bingen, a silver haired man of distinguished appearance. He is 65 years old. He was the shill, posing as a patron at games, playing with house money and luring bona fide patrons into gambling.

Bingen got his first job thru James Hartigan, a defendant, at the Lincoln tavern in 1936. He worked continuously thereafter until last fall. Among the houses where he shilled were the Dev-Lin inn, the Horseshoe club, the Harlem stables, and the D. & D. club.

Bingen gave the defense one bit of solace. He was unable to recall ever having seen Bill Johnson in the money houses.

Other witnesses were ordinary or one-house shills, horse sheet writers, casino cashiers, an outside man who directed passersby to games inside, chauffeurs who taxied patrons from closed houses to open houses, and the carpenter.

Worked on Johnson's Farm.

Schultz told of helping to convert empty garages, run down roadhouses, and ordinary taverns into de luxe casinos. He was hired in 1935 by Sommers and immediately assigned to construction work under Roy Love, alleged chief of the gambling combine's construction department.

Schultz said he worked at the Dev-Lin inn, the House of Niles, Lincoln tavern, the D. & D. club, the Northland club, the Horseshoe, a Pulaski road handbook, the Bon Air Country club, and finally on Johnson's farm, Sunny Acres, in Du Page county. He saw Johnson "come and go" at various times, he said. He also saw other defendants, Sommers, Ed Walt, Hartigan, and Reginald Mackay.

The third week of the trial, before a jury in the court of Judge John P. Barnes, will open Monday.

BABY GIRAFFE AT ZOO DIES OF CHEST INJURY

Brookfield zoo was in mourning yesterday. The zoo's prize baby giraffe, after nearly 42 hours of uncertain life, died late Thursday night.

A post mortem examination revealed that a chest injury had caused death. Altho Minnie, the mama giraffe, had seemed to be careful in the maternity ward, Robert Bean, assistant director of the zoo, said there apparently had been an accident.

The little giraffe [it was 5½ feet tall] was fed on a bottle after its birth at 5 a. m. Wednesday. It collapsed Thursday afternoon. Zoo attendants administered stimulants, but to no avail. The body was sent to the Field museum.

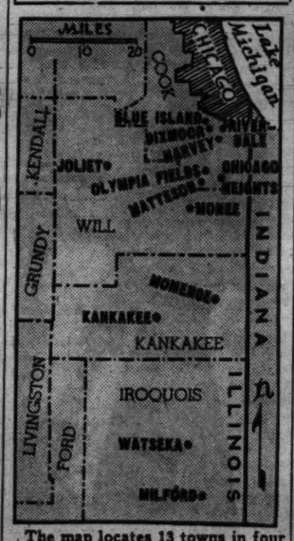
YOUNG MUSICIAN IS SENT TO PRISON AS EXTORTIONER

Davenport, Ia., Sept. 6 [Special].—A young musician was sentenced to prison today for a term not to exceed five years following his attempts yesterday to extort $10,000 from Dr. Kuno Strucк, well known Davenport banker and art connoisseur.

"I needed the money," explained the confessed extortionist, Kenneth L. Clark, 24 years old, "because I was to be married next Sunday in Memphis, Tenn., to a girl I met while I was working on an excursion steamer."

Clark was arrested late yesterday in a trap set by police. He confessed.

Year's Thefts Told



The map locates 13 towns in four counties in which, according to county highway police, gang stole 29 automobiles, railway equipment, and other articles valued at nearly $10,000.

SMASH BURGLARY GANG; 4 CONFESS; QUIZ 5 AS FENCES

Rob Rail Yards, Strip 29 Autos.

Four men, one of them a former inmate of the St. Charles School for Boys, who confessed to stealing automobile accessories and railroad equipment valued at nearly $10,000 over a period of more than a year were held yesterday by the county highway police in Homewood. Five other men were in custody as suspects in the disposition of the stolen goods and a sixth man was being sought.

Police said that the robberies began in August, 1939, and occurred in Harvey, Chicago Heights, Riverdale, Blue Island, Dixmoor, Olympia Fields and Matteson, all in southern Cook county; in Joliet and Monee, Will county; in Kankakee and Momence, Kankakee county, and in Milford and Watseka, Iroquois county. The thieves, according to their confessions, stole 29 automobiles and stripped them of all saleable accessories and also broke into railroad supply yards.

Sell $900 Aluminum for $7.

One of their recent crimes, they said, was the burglary of the Brasco Manufacturing company on Commercial avenue in Harvey where, on Aug. 18, they carried away $900 worth of rolled aluminum and sold it for $7.

Those who confessed are Merritt Wilcox, 33 years old, and Edward Schuman, 20, both of whom gave their address as 141st street and Seeley avenue, Dixmoor; Nicholas Mortozie, 23, of 14309 Page avenue, Dixmoor, and Walter Konuszy, 19, of 15010 Vine avenue, Harvey. Schuman served a term in St. Charles for burglary.

Caught Robbing Railroad.

The four were captured Thursday after Policemen John McNeela and James Driscoll received a call that a robbery was in progress in the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad yards at Riverdale. The police found Wilcox standing near a truck loaded with railroad equipment. The other three fled but McNeela and Driscoll pursued and caught them.

Those held as suspects in the disposal of the robbery proceeds are: Abe Goldberg, 52, owner of a junkyard at 144th and Winchester avenue, Dixmoor, and one of his employés, Samuel T. Charles, 37; William Hughes, 39, and his brother Augusta, 20, colored, of 15325 5th avenue, Phoenix, and Jacob Goldberg, 52, [no relation to Abe], a partner in the Kensington Waste Material company, 11573 South Michigan avenue. Isadore Graff, 42, Jacob Goldberg's partner, is being sought.

ACCIDENT RATE RISES ON CITY'S DANGER STREETS

Plan to Increase Police Patrol Force.

The number of accidents on Chicago's 23 most hazardous streets during the first six months of 1940 surpassed that during the same period of 1939, Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, said yesterday. The streets, which include 160 miles of pavement, were shown by a survey recently completed.

Sorenson met at Central police station with Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the city council traffic committee; Capt. John C. Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, and supervising police captains to inaugurate a drive to concentrate traffic safety activity on the dangerous thorofares. Capt. David Flynn, head of the traffic division, was directed to place additional policemen and patrol cars on the 23 streets.

4,135 Daytime Accidents.

Sorenson's figures show that 4,135 daytime accidents were reported on the perilous streets for the first six months of 1940. During the whole of 1939 a total of 6,103 was tabulated. Night accidents on the same streets during the first half of 1940 totaled 3,176, as against 6,095 for the entire year of 1939.

The engineer said that, at the present rate, the accident total for 1940 will surpass that of 1939. In addition, he said, more persons drive cars during the latter half of the year, leaving their cars in garages during January and February.

List of Danger Spots.

Archer, State to Cicero.
Ashland, 87th to Devon.
Broadway, Montrose to Devon.
Central, Harrison to Augusta.
Cermak, Damen to Kostner.
Cicero, Roosevelt to Avondale.
Clybourn, Division to Western.
Diversey, Western to Pulaski.
Elston, Milwaukee to Milwaukee.
Foster, Sheridan to Milwaukee.
Halsted, 129th to Broadway.
Irving Park, Broadway to Narragansett.
La Salle, Madison to Clark.
Madison, River to Austin.
North, Clark to Austin.
Ogden, Clark to Oakley-Albany to Pulaski.
Pulaski, 31st to Lawrence.
Roosevelt, Wabash to Cicero.
State, 63th to Roosevelt.
Vincennes, 87th to 63th and State.
Western, 111th to Devon.
87th, Stony Island to Western.

Sorenson reported that fatalities on the high accident streets have fallen off. In 1939 87 persons were killed during the daytime compared with 41 for the first half of 1940. Accidents at night caused 150 deaths last year as against 68 for the first six months of 1940.

WELFARE CHIEF BOWEN APPEALS IN TYPHOID CASE

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 6 (AP).—State Welfare Director Archie Leonard Bowen, who was ordered removed from office on a charge of omission of duty in connection with 60 deaths during a typhoid epidemic at Manteno State hospital last year, appealed to the Illinois Supreme court today to reverse his conviction in Kankakee county Circuit court.

Bowen asserted in his appeal that the evidence was "wholly insufficient to establish guilt."

The 70 year old veteran of state welfare service was permitted to continue holding his post under $2,000 bond until the case is decided by the Supreme court.

Bowen was found guilty of gross omission of duty in failing to provide safe drinking water at the institution for the insane and was ordered removed from office and fined $1,000 by Circuit Judge James V. Bartley.

The appeal listed 23 claims of trial errors including insufficient evidence.

The Great Profile Goes Out and Gets Cemented

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP).—Many a film star has left his footprint in the concrete forecourt of Grauman's Chinese theater, but it remained for "The Great Profile" to stick his face in. Onlookers cheered as Sid Grauman pushed the left side of John Barrymore's face into the wet cement. The Great Profile was recorded for posterity alongside the foot and handprints of such notables as Mary Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Mickey Rooney, Tom Mix, and his horse, Tony; Al Jolson and his kneeprints, and Joe E. Debuts, Parties, and Weddings Are Making a Busy Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF this week-end is a sample of those to come this fall there are many families that will be wishing for an extra day of rest in every seven. The problem of commuting from wedding to debut and back and of providing transportation for debutante daughter and bridesmaid sister as well as for debutante beau or usher son—to say nothing of mother and father—will be a major headache in many a home.

Six debut parties and eight weddings withing the space of a few hours are the cause for the confusion. Two debuts and one wedding are being held in Lake Forest this afternoon. Two other debuts, a debutante party, and a wedding are taking place in Winnetka. The debut whirl will be continued tomorrow noon. Added to the other weddings are a horse show in Wayne tomorrow and polo matches at the Oakbrook club.

Miss Ely and Miss Burrows Lake Forest Debutantes.

Miss Adrienne Ely and Miss Ruth Burrows are today's Lake Forest debutantes. Both will be presented at teas, out of door teas, weather permitting, by their mothers, Mrs. Uri B. Crannis and Mrs. William F. Burrows Jr.

Miss Ely, who was graduated from Dobbs Ferry, is planning to enter school of the Art institute this fall. Miss Burrows, who attended Sarah Lawrence college the last two years, will spend this winter at home studying music and languages.

The two Winnetka buds will be Miss Lydia Elliott and Miss Jean Matthiessen, whose parents, the William S. Elliotts and the Richard P. Matthiessens' will present them at teas at home. Three out-of-town guests, Miss Rozanne Garrett of Orlando, Fla., Miss Carol Shoemaker of Peking, China, and Miss Henrietta Tabb of Richmond, Va., will be among Miss Matthiessen's assistants.

After the teas the buds, their assistants, and escorts will go to the Indian Hill club where Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Walter A. Strong are giving a dinner dance for Miss Elliott and Miss Anne Strong. Miss Ely and Miss Burrows and the young women who will be pouring at their parties will end the day dining and dancing at the Indian Hill. Miss Elliott is to enter Vassar this fall. Miss Matthiessen will be a sophomore there.

Miss Jane Hardy Will Be Tomorrow's Debutante.

Tomorrow's debutante, Miss Jane Hardy, will be presented at a luncheon her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Hardy, will give for about 150 young people at the Indian Hill club. Miss Hardy has asked Miss Gertrude Scribner, Miss Jean Matthiessen, Miss Lucy Harvey, Miss Mary Macfarland, and Miss Betty Lawrie of Grosse Pointe, Mich., to assist at the party. Miss Lawrie, a classmate of Miss Hardy's at Sweet Briar college, will spend a week on the north shore.

The Winnetka bride is Miss Roxane McKenzie, William D. McKenzie's daughter. She will be married at 5 o'clock to Alfred Marsden Price, son of the Benjamin M. Prices of Hubbard Woods. The ceremony will take place either in the garden or in the living room of the McKenzie home, depending on the weather. The Rev. Thomas J. Burke will officiate.

Miss McKenzie, whose wedding gown will be trimmed with some lace from the gown of her late mother, will have two attendants, Miss Jehanne Price, the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Alice Blair. Douglas Loper will be best man. Ushering will be Netzer Luthie, William Robb, John Wade, and William Walcott. After a wedding trip to the Smoky mountains Mr. Price and his bride will be at home at the Marshall Field Garden apartments.

Joanna Bartlett Rogers Weds This Afternoon.

The Lake Forest bride is Miss Joanna Bartlett Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers, who will be married to Philip Truesdale Stafford, son of Mrs. J. E. Stafford of Chicago, at 4:30 o'clock in the Presbyterian church. A reception will follow at the Rogers home.

Mrs. George B. Rogers a sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Eleanor Rogers, a sister; Mrs. Hugh Campbell, and Miss Jane Myers will attend the bride. William Truesdale Jr. will be his cousin's best man. Ushering will be George and Charles Rogers, Hugh Robertson Jr., and John Barnes.

Miss Rogers is to wear her mother's wedding dress. After a wedding trip to the Stafford summer home near Duluth, Minn., Mr. Stafford and his bride will be at home on the south side.

The Ernest S. Ballards, the Herbert Zimmermanns, the Harold C. Smiths, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr., the David McDougals, the junior Samuel Insulls, the William F. Monroes, the Henry T. Stantons, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Hess are among those who have reserved parking space for the annual Dunham Woods horse show to be held tomorrow in Wayne. The Ballards' space will be occupied by their daughter, Mrs. Stewart Boal, and her husband, who will be showing Mr. Ballard's horses.

Nineteen Classes Are Scheduled to Be Run Off.

The Denison B. Hulls, Mrs. Montgomery Orr, the Ernst Mahlers of Neenah, Wis., Miss Phoebe Wilder, Nathan McClure, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., the Corwith Hamills, and the Hill Blacketts are other exhibitors. They will put their mounts thru their paces in a new ring this year, for the club has constructed a fine new one in some meadows a bit further from the clubhouse than the old one.

The show will start at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, with a brief luncheon period scheduled to permit the 19 classes to be run off as quickly as possible. Following the show the Arthur Farwells are entertaining at cocktails for the exhibitors.

There will be a horse show ball tonight at the club.

Polo enthusiasts will gather at the Oakbrook Polo field tomorrow afternoon to see a match between the Oakbrook and the Onwentsia teams. At Ease Before the Debut Festivities

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Old, comfortable clothes such as Miss Joan Littlefield was wearing at the Sheridan Shore Yacht club the other day will be tucked away in closets today and tomorrow. Miss Littlefield and her sister debutantes will be wearing only their newest finery this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow at the six debutante parties that are on the week-end schedule. Miss Littlefield is a daughter of the Arthur S. Littlefields of Winnetka.

La Salle Street Money.

The other day a $1,000 bill fluttered out of a window on the 11th floor of the Field building and into another window on the 19th floor. The up-draft in the building court, that makes even the snow go up instead of down, was responsible. It was the window of the Straus Security company the big denomination bill blew out of—just to prove we don't make these things up—and the window of the Munising Paper company it blew into.

Dr. O. E. Van Alyea has an office in the same building. The day after the bill incident his secretary kept opening a window he kept shutting. Finally he asked in desperation, "What the deuce do you keep opening that window for?"

"Because if any more of those bills fly out into the court I want to be sure to have our window open," she answered.

Lesson for All.

The death of Dr. Hans Zinsser, author of the nonfiction best seller, As I Remember Him, with the subtitle, The Biography of R. S., calls attention to the account of the death of R. S. in the book. R. S. stood for Romantic Self and the book was generally accepted as autobiographical. Thus Dr. Zinsser, who had known for two years that those two years were his last, was writing in his book of his own approaching death.

Something took place in his mind that he regarded as a sort of compensatory adjustment to the thought that he would soon be dead, Dr. Zinsser wrote about R. S. In the prospect of death, life seemed to be given a new meaning and fresh poignancy. From now on, instead of being saddened he found, to his delighted astonishment, that his sensitiveness to the simplest experiences, even for such things that in other years he might hardly have noticed, was infinitely enhanced.

As the disease caught up with him R. S. felt increasingly grateful for the fact that death was coming to him with due warning and gradually. . . . But now he was thankful that he had time to compose his spirit and to spend a last year in affectionate and actually merry association with those dear to him.

British Spirit.

A letter received by Frederick T. Vaux, whose daughter lives in Oxford, England, and has two sons in the war, enclosed one of the propaganda pamphlets recently dropped over England by German flyers. A Last Appeal to Reason by Hitler, it was headed, and was a reprint of Hitler's speech translated into English. The circulars were dropped in packages of 500 and the one that fell near Oxford did not break open. The whole package of 500 fell to the earth. They were immediately taken to a war benefit bazaar, where they were sold for two shillings six pence apiece.

Dialog.

Two young women on the Kedzie avenue car were discussing military conscription.

"There go our boy friends," said one.

"Maybe," agreed the other. "If they were married they wouldn't have to go."

"Well," said the first, with spirit and a hint of bitterness, "if a fellow isn't married when he reaches 25 he ought to be drafted."

(Relayed by Virginia Lamb.)

Here's Picture of Charm for Whole Family

"THE ADVENTURES OF CHICO."

Musical score by Dr. Edward Kilenyi.
Produced by Woodward Productions.
Presented at the Studio theater.

By May Tinée.

Good Morning!

Two Hollywood photographers, on a holiday in Northern Mexico [busman's holiday!] have contributed a jewel to screendom's movie treasure chest in "The Adventures of Chico."

This charming picture is just the study of a child—portrayed by a little Mexican bootblack whom the Woodwards picked up en route—with birds and animals whom he has made his friends and playmates, among natural surroundings.

You see Chico, effortless and cheery as a sunbeam, a born naturalist, living with his father on a remote farm and tending his goats. While on duty he makes friendships with the harmless live things thereabout and adopts a family of prairie chickens.

All of the birds but one cock fly away in time. This feathered darling remains with Chico to be his pal, plaything, and bodyguard. A valorous wee thing which one day saves the napping Chico from attack by a rattlesnake. . . . The fight between the bird and the snake is an amazing screen chronicle. The former's footwork makes you think of Dempsey in his best days!

Other engrossing shots are concerned with a doe and her fawns, mischievous raccoons, baby armadillos—and the beasts that menace Chico's property.

The little fellow does his own narrating—with a few subtitles to aid. You'll love him—and his voice—like honey.

"FALSE RAPTURE."

Directed by Herbert Brenon.
Produced by Walter C. Myeroft.
Presented at the Studio theater.

THE CAST.

Petrov, headwaiter.....Otto Kruger
Tania, his daughter.....Mary Maguire
Roudine, the banker.....Walter Rilla
Karlo, Tania's music teacher..John Wood
Miss Brown, Tania's governess.....Marie Wright

"False Rapture" is a father and daughter picture—rather hectic and ordinary as to story—but splendidly acted, directed, and staged.

Locale is Russia and Petrov, a one time possessor of house and lands, is now a headwaiter who keeps his occupation a secret from his motherless daughter, whom he idolizes. . . .

His place of employment is a restaurant catering to the whims of the rich and dissolute. Its private dining rooms are scenes of many a questionable rendezvous. . . .

It becomes the father's lot to save his daughter from a man to whose whims he has catered and to whose vices he has closed his eyes. . . . And so on. . . . The outcome is a happy one, I am pleased to report.

It was a great pleasure to see Otto Kruger again. Smooth as velvet his work—always.

Looking at Hollywood — By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 6.—It looks now as tho Warners would get Gary Cooper for the title rôle in "Sergeant York" in a swap with Sam Goldwyn which would give Sam Bette Davis for "The Little Foxes." . . . Miss Davis will visit New York for a week late this month. . . . Loretta Young and her new husband, Tom Lewis, leave next week for New York, where they have rented an apartment. Miss Young will return Nov. 10 to make "Ballerina" at Paramount. . . . John Halliday has been talking with Gilbert Miller about appearing on Broadway in the new Charles MacArthur-Nunnally Johnson comedy, which involves an affable drunkard. . . . Vivien Leigh is wearing the widest wedding ring in Hollywood—just an old-fashioned, smooth gold ring like your mother's, half an inch wide. . . . E. A. Cleugh [pronounced Kluff], local British consul, has appointed a committee to supervise activities of Britishers in the film colony. Members are Ronald Colman, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Col. Frank Hodsoll, Herbert Marshall, and R. C. Sherriff. . . . Some Hollywoodians have been wondering why Norma Shearer, Canada born, hasn't taken a greater part in the recent welter of British charity stunts. She's been a United States citizen for 10 years. . . . Clifford Odets has checked into the Loew-Lewin office to write the screen version of his "Night Music."

Seventeen members of the 1913 Notre Dame football team, which included Knute Rockne, have been invited to South Bend for the Oct. 4 première of "Knute Rockne: All-American." Next day Notre Dame plays Alonzo Stagg's College of the Pacific team, and the Warner drum beaters have been fixing up a stunt for the kickoff to be made with a football autographed by Hollywood stars from all studios, winning team to keep the ball. Notre Dame okayed the idea. Stagg said okay, too—but insisted that a second autographed ball be used for the second half kickoff and be given to the losing team. Lack of confidence? . . . Tugboat Annie's boat in "T. A. Sails Again" is called the Secoma, Norman Reilly Raine having named it after Seattle and Tacoma—so both cities want the première. . . . Erich von Stroheim, once again having finished what he left off doing 20 years ago—playing the Hun with a monocle in a war picture—has checked off the "Flotsam" set and returned to his Pennsylvania farm. Before departing he said he was tired of the movies, bored at those same old German parts, and wouldn't come back until he could do something else.

A re-reading of the late John Buchan's "The Thirty-Nine Steps," which Alfred Hitchcock made into a swell film years ago, is interesting in the light of Hitchcock's newest hit, "Foreign Correspondent." One of the big moments in the Buchan novel is when the foreign spies plant a perfect likeness of the First Sea Lord in an all-important British conference. In "Correspondent" the spies kill a perfect likeness of Van Meer, the Dutch premier, in their nefarious scheme.

Shirley Temple and parents went on a fortnight's vacation trip up the Pacific coast and nobody paid them any attention. . . . J. Edward Bromberg intends to take the Hollywood intimate revue hit, "Meet the People," to Broadway within a month—or just as soon as he finishes in "The Californian." He will play in a couple of acts himself.

During the making of "The Biscuit Eater" Producer Jack Moss took a company and crew to Albany, Ga., looking for a perfect southern setting They finally chose an estate called the Thompson place, but felt afterward that it didn't quite look like the real south. "Why," recalls Moss, "there were houses in Beverly Hills with more white columns." So it was decided to fix the place up for the picture.

Moss wired Paramount's property department for half a freight car of stuff—including many flowers and a magnolia tree. Carpenters read some books on bird-dog raising, built some real kennels. A gravel path was put in. And the Albany, Ga., natives burned at Hollywood's trying to paint the lily. "I thought the Ku Klux would ride any night," Moss says.

When shooting was finished the picture folk prepared to restore the Thompson place to its original condition, as is provided in all location contracts. The owner returned from a trip, furious at what he'd been told was happening and ready for a fight. He took one look at the old homestead, exclaimed, "Boy, this is the south. I've been trying to get it this way for years. Leave it as is."

Have a Heart Tag Day Next Monday for 50 Welfare Agencies

Four thousand volunteer women workers will patrol Chicago and the suburbs Monday for the annual "Have a Heart" tag day of the Chicago Associated and Federated Charities.

The tag day will be the charities' 24th annual drive to raise funds for 50 miscellaneous welfare agencies. Its goal is $60,000. Mrs. Louis Savitt is president of the Associated Charities and Frank Specht president of the Federated Charities.

The First National bank annually provides without cost a central headquarters for the deposit and checking of funds and for their subsequent distribution to the participating agencies. The tag day is authorized by the city council and by village councils of the suburbs.

Murder Is Not Mute

ALIBI.

INSTALMENT XLII.

"You're a slick guy, Follins," Doyle said admiringly.

"Who told you to go for the doctor?"

"Nobody. Guess I could see for myself what to do without being told," the chauffeur mumbled.

"Smooth and brainy," Doyle taunted. "Shoot a man down in cold blood and then rush for a doctor for him. And, incidentally, get rid of the gun while you're gone."

"You mean I—you think I——?" Follins gasped incoherently. He looked from Madden to Doyle. "It's a damn lie," he shouted.

"Save your breath," Doyle advised. "It's just your hard luck that I got to Briault before he died. He knew it was you."

Doyle was aware of the servants crowding the French windows of the library, attracted by Follins' loud protests.

"Come in here," he said, pulling Follins over to the terrace and on into the library. Madden trailed along.

Keeping a tight grip on Follins' arm, Doyle inquired, "Any one here see Follins in the house just before the shot was fired?"

There was a chorus of assent and it developed that the chauffeur had lunched, as usual, in the servants' hall.

"Anybody see him on the third floor after that?"

Silence greeted this query.

"On the second floor?"

"Speak up," Doyle urged. "You saw Follins on the second floor?"

"Yes."

"How long before the shot was fired?"

She looked confused.

"I couldn't say if it was five or ten minutes between when I saw him and I heard the shot."

"Where was he?"

"In the long hall."

"Just where in the hall?"

She looked stupid.

"Near the door?" Doyle elucidated patiently.

"Just outside Mrs. Wunsch's bedroom."

"It's Mr. Wunsch's bedroom, too, isn't it?"

She giggled. "Yes."

"And that door is opposite Miss Doty's door?"

"That's right."

"So Follins was also standing just outside Miss Doty's door, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"Where were you when you saw him?"

"I was coming from dear Mam—from the comtesse's room on account of she rang for fresh towels."

Doyle nodded. "What was Follins doing?"

"Just standing there."

"Was he facing Miss Doty's door or the Wunsch bedroom?"

"Neither. He was facing down the corridor toward me."

"Then what happened?"

"Why I went down to the linen room."

"And five or ten minutes after that you heard the shot?"

She nodded. "Gee, was I scared!" Again she giggled.

Doyle addressed the group. "Any one want to add anything?"

The air was charged with drama. But no one moved or spoke.

Doyle dismissed them. "Go back to your work. But no one leaves the premises until I give permission."

As they filed out he thrust Follins into Madden's unwilling hands, and followed the housekeeper to the doorway.

"Are Follins and Miss Doty pretty good friends?" he wanted to know.

The woman gave him an odd look. "Miss Doty despises Follins," she said. "She thinks he fancies himself. And she's quite right. But even if she was crazy about him, it wouldn't do her any good. Follins aims above a trained nurse. His wagon has been hitched to a higher star than that." She looked meaningly into Doyle's eyes—there was no doubting her allusion to Texie.

Doyle thanked her. He'd been off on the wrong foot again. Not that it mattered. He had plenty on Follins as it was. And he was kind of pleased that the red headed nurse wasn't involved.

He yanked Follins away from Madden and barked at him, "You fired from the hall window, didn't you?"

Follins twisted his body trying to pull away, looking wildly about him. "I want a lawyer," he shouted. "You're not getting me to say anything. You're trying to frame me."

"If you won't talk," Doyle rumbled ominously, "I'll take you where they know how to make you talk. You put a slick story over on me this morning, and you thought I had fallen for it. But after I left you, you decided that Briault would talk if I arrested him for Texie's murder.

"For you killed her and left her body in the woods, confident no one would search for her there when she was believed to be on the ocean. I suspect your original idea was to tell Briault that Texie had not met you in Central park—that, for all you knew, she was at sea. But that was spoiled when Briault showed up before you could get away from the brewery. You didn't dare kill him, for his murder would be certain of immediate discovery.

"But you threatened to kill him if he told on you, and you forced the jewels on him to implicate him criminally. The case is clear against you—I've got the bag you threw down the well, and I have Briault's dying statement. You'll save yourself considerable trouble if you'll come across with your confession now."

Follins began to curse at the top of his voice and to fling himself with fists flailing wildly at Doyle. It took both Madden and Doyle to hold him off, to pin his arms to his sides and force him down on the couch. In the midst of the excitement Wunsch hurried in.

"What's the trouble here?" he shouted.

"Your chauffeur is an unreasonable sort of guy," Doyle said, puffing a bit and tightening his hold on the squirming victim. "His talent is seeing to it that other people kick off. Now it's going to be his turn. And he doesn't like it."

Wunsch said, horrified, "Are you saying that Follins killed Truman?"

"I've got the goods on him," Doyle replied complacently.

"There are a few loose ends," Doyle admitted. "But it's only a matter of time before——"

"You don't understand," Wunsch interrupted. "Follins couldn't have fired the shot that killed Truman."

Follins began to struggle again furiously. "I tried to tell him," he shouted. "I tried to——"

Doyle turned on the chauffeur fiercely. "Pipe down, damn you." To Wunsch he said impatiently, "Now, go ahead."

"Follins was with us," Wunsch said, mopping at his damp brow. "With my wife and me. In our bedroom. The three of us heard the shot together."

Doyle felt as if the wind had been knocked out of him. He went over to the desk and sat down.

Wunsch followed Doyle, explaining anxiously, "We sent for Follins to ask him how long it would take to drive us to Meadowbrook for the polo match. I thought it would do Mrs. Wunsch good to get away from the house."

"Mrs. Wunsch was with you? She would testify to Follins' presence?" Doyle pressed.

"Yes. Yes, indeed," Wunsch told him earnestly.

Doyle covered his face with his hands. Truman had been so positive it was Follins. Surely a dying man would not lie an innocent man into the chair? Doyle raised his head wearily and took in Wunsch's worried contemplation of him and Follins' triumphant sneer.

"O. K." the detective said. "I was wrong." He rose. "But you're not altogether out of the woods," he warned Follins. "Stick around if you know what's good for you."

Three Brides Going to Altar in Evanston

Among the many early fall weddings taking place today are three in Evanston. The brides are Mrs. Bosworth Padley, Miss Nancy Claire Parker, and Miss Barbara Trump. Mrs. Padley and John Hawthorne Pettie, son of the J. Virgil Petties of Little Rock, Ark., will be married at 3 o'clock in the Howes Memorial chapel on Northwestern university campus, the Rev. Emory Luccock officiating. Only the families will be present. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth.

Miss Parker, daughter of the C. Paul Parkers, and Edward Watts Saunders will be married at 8:30 o'clock in St. Mark's Episcopal church, with a reception following at the Country Club of Evanston. Mr. Saunders and his bride will be at home near the University of Chicago, where he is studying law after a three weeks' trip east.

Miss Parker will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Stanhope Adams, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Louise Burgess, Miss Mary Anne Matthews, Miss Peggy Kimberly of Neenah, Wis., and Miss Jane Coles of Troy, O. Walter Saunders of New York will be best man. His wife and their two daughters, Katherine and Betty, are here for the occasion. Mr. Saunders is a son of Mrs. Walter Hyde Saunders of St. Louis.

The Rev. Mr. Luccock will officiate at the marriage of Miss Trump and John G. Nesbitt of Boston, Mass., which will take place at 4 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse D. Trump, of Winnetka, will give a reception in the Orrington hotel. Mr. Nesbitt and his bride will reside in Grove City, Pa.

Miss Katherine Soule Simonds, daughter of Harold Braley Simonds, organist at St. Chrysostom's church for the last 15 years, will be married this afternoon to William Champlin Lewis. Mr. Simonds will play the recital before the ceremony, and then will join the wedding party to give the bride away.

The service is to take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's. Miss Simonds will wear the wedding gown of Swiss mull worn by her great-grandmother at Marshfield, Mass., on Sept. 8, 1861. Her only attendant will be Miss Dolly Thomee of New York, formerly of Chicago.

Still another wedding of interest today is taking place in Santa Fe, N. M., where Miss Florence Hermes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hermes of Chicago, will be married to Georges Henri Dapples, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Charles Dapples, also of Chicago.

At 4:30 o'clock at the Barrington farm of her father, Orville S. Caesar, Miss Doris Caesar will become the bride of Dr. Lyman Smith, son of Mrs. William Dayton Smith of Dundee. Mrs. Arthur T. McIntosh Jr. will be her sister's matron of honor.

In a small ceremony at 3 o'clock at the Riverside home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Harry Hammer, their daughter, Eleanor, is to become the bride of John M. Suiter, son of Mrs. Leora M. Suiter of Flint, Mich. The Rev. Benjamin W. Robinson will officiate, and a reception will follow.

Bengal Guards, Texas Girl Band, to Return for 1940 Music Fete

Orange, Tex., Sept. 6 [Special].—The Bengal Guards, those fast stepping, brilliantly attired girls from Texas, who thrilled the 80,000 spectators at the recent Chicagoland Music festival in Soldiers' field, will return to Chicago next summer for a second appearance at the festival and luncheon.

This announcement was made last night at a "Chicago Tribune night" celebration held by the 116 girls and the Bengal Lancers, a boys' band consisting of 124 lads from 8 to 17 years old. Host at the party given before 2,500 parents, relatives and friends was H. J. Lutcher Stark, wealthy resident of Orange.

A large gold loving cup, the gift of THE TRIBUNE, to Mr. Stark and his Bengal Guards for their participation in the 1940 festival, was presented by Philip Maxwell, director of the festival.

The trip to Chicago cost Mr. Stark nearly $18,000. A special seven coach train transported the party of 147 and they were put up in 70 rooms of the Stevens hotel.

Sept. 7, 1940.

Universal day—Good for visiting beauty parlors, inviting fellow worker to lunch, or shopping.

September—Entertainment should take a sudden spurt upward this month since this is a five month in a five universal year. Advertising, radio, and aviation should also feel the stimulus of this double emphasis on five since that number rules those fields. Inventions should increase and some startling and probably unconvehtional ideas and precedent-shattering events will surprise the public. The emphasis has been on these all year as you can see by checking over the headlines.

Year Ahead—The combination of your day of birth—seven and your year ahead promises work and responsibilities.

Three Autumn Patterns

WOMAN'S AND MISS' WARDROBE ITEMS.

Today's three patterns keep each other company, altho each has an identity all its own.

No. 2996 fashions a typical shirtwaist and a simple flared skirt. The blouse may be of either silk or cotton, and the skirt of any type of woolen. Plaids are highly desirable, especially for the campus dweller.

No. 3471 creates one of those indispensable coats to wear with simply everything. There's a high-button effect at the neckline, which has a notched rever collar. Three buttons perform the closing duty. The sleeves are simple and casual, and stitching, even on the large pockets, is trimming detail. Woolen, of course, is the fabric selection, and the brighter the color, the better.

No. 3466 fashions a "beanie" hat with rakish feather. It is available in one headsize only, adaptable to any and all measurements. Yardage requirements on envelope.

Style No. 2996 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material for blouse; 1½ yards of 54 inch fabric for skirt in regulation length [pattern also provides for "shortie" version].

Style No. 3471 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 54 inch material, with 2⅛ yards of 39 inch lining.

Each of the three patterns costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The ability to concede a trick gracefully at the proper time is directly responsible for the success of many a contract. A psychological quirk in the minds of many players interferes with this process. Apparently they feel that the voluntary concession of a trick, at slam contracts particularly, is foolish, since it then becomes necessary to take "all the rest." Thus, it is a common sight to see an inexperienced declarer run off his 11 sure tricks and then collapse. The hand shown below offered opportunity for a graceful and profitable trick concession.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	3 spades	4 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's three spade bid obviously was an attempt at a shut-out. South read it as such and therefore bid all the stronger to reach a slam.

The spade king was the opening lead. Declarer won and took two rounds of clubs. Then, since the diamond finesse sooner or later would be unavoidable, he took it immediately. The queen held and now it became necessary to make a decision between two lines of play.

Declarer had a losing diamond and a losing heart. If the latter suit were to break 3-3, the diamond could be discarded on dummy's fourth heart. But in view of West's preëmptive spade bid, which certainly could not have been based on fewer than six cards, and since he already had shown two clubs and two diamonds [he must have had at least two diamonds for the finesse to have succeeded], it was an odds-on chance that the heart suit would not break. There was a much better chance that the three spade bid had represented a seven card suit, which would leave West with only four cards in the red suits. If he had only one heart things looked hopeless, but if his red suit holdings had been two and two declarer was home.

Acting on this premise, declarer cashed the ace and king of hearts, noting with pleasure that West followed to both rounds. It then became an elementary matter to lay down the diamond ace, stripping West of all but spades, then to lead the jack of spades from dummy and to throw a red loser on it. West, on winning with the spade queen, could return nothing but a spade, which declarer ruffed in dummy while discarding his other loser.

"Would you suggest items for an inexpensive smorgasbord in your column some day?" asks a Lansing, Ill., reader of this column. "I can think of shrimp, pickled beets, sour potatoe salad, cheese, rye crisp, and meat balls, but that is as far as I get," she writes. "I'd like to see a long list of suggestions, so that I could choose from them."

Here are a few more ideas: Cole slaw, rye bread, hard cooked eggs with anchovies, cold sliced roast meat garnished with sliced pickle or cucumber, pickled or smoked tongue, baked ham, jellied veal salad, jellied fish salad, beet relish, piccalilli, sliced onions in vinegar with seasonings, pickled herrings, herring salad, fish croquettes, pickled pig's feet, stuffed tomatoes [baked], cold salmon, lobster with mayonnaise, lobster, shrimp, or crabmeat salad, Swedish omelet, scrambled eggs with Swedish sausage, eggs and anchovies au gratin, pickled string beans, string bean salad, head cheese, and caviar canapes.

Most of these suggested foods are those which appear frequently on the Swedish smorgasbord. But American hostesses, some of whom object to the predominance of fish on the smorgasbord table, often prefer chicken salads, cold cuts of meat and sausages, and sometimes add small savory sandwiches and cookies or little cakes to the array. Celery and olives are always good, too.

"Good Food from Sweden," by Inga Norberg, and "Swedish Smorgasbord," by Mrs. Akerstrom-Soderstrom, are good books on this subject. You might look for them in your bookstore.

Music Notes

The performance of Verdi's "Falstaff" by the Chicago Opera company on Nov. 9 will be dedicated to the music appreciation committee in recognition of the services of that committee to music. This announcement was made yesterday by Walter R. Kirk, president of the opera company. The proceeds from the sales of the music appreciation committee's recordings in Chicago have been divided among the opera company, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Woman's Symphony orchestra, and the Ravinia festival. Mr. Kirk said that the opera company's share would be used for the modernization of scenery for this and coming seasons.

The National Youth administration orchestra, under the direction of Irwin Fischer, will give a concert at the Addison Street Congregational church, 2132 Addison street, next Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Free tickets may be obtained from J. L. Miller, 3542 North Damen avenue, or, if any are left, at the door of the church on the night of the concert.

"Jiffy" Type of Jacket

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

This clever hand knitted jacket is made with large needles and is on the order of a jiffy sweater. Buttoned down the front and slightly fitted at the waist, it is ideal for wear with a street suit or with a ski outfit for sports. The ultra-ambitious knitter may embroider gay colored flowers down the front and dispense with the pockets.

For instructions in knitting the jiffy jacket, No. 818, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th Avenue, New York City.

Little Sister's Pinafore Gets Grown-Up Role

BY REA SEEGER.

There's been so much of this borrowing from others . . . borrowing your big brother's top coat, the blazing splendor of his sports socks, his pork pie hats, and the youngsters wearing copies of mother's bathrobes, negligees and big and little sister outfits, that the trick in reverse causes not a little excitement. Mother and big sister are now borrowing little sister's pinafore. Not the frilly organdies of course but sophisticated versions in silk crêpe in lovely flattering colors.

These silk aprons or pinafores are made in the same way that the juvenile models are cut, with shoulder straps, a bib, gathered belt and tie ends and a pocket patched on. There the resemblance ends. Jade green, cerise, subtle dove gray or caramel beige, copper, purple, apricot—any color, usually in a solid tone, makes these accents for plain dark colored dresses in any wardrobe. It's a grand new way of rejuvenating an otherwise too simple or dated dress of last year's vintage.

With a beige dress, an emerald green apron; with a navy blue dress an apron of dusty pink or vivid cerise; a beige apron on a dull black dress, a dove gray apron with a dark brown dress or a copper apron with a Kelly green dress—the contrast possibilities are endless, the color assortments or ideas equally limitless.

Dresses with colored aprons are worn for afternoon, for informal dinners, for the theater and movies. Add flashing jeweled clips and they positively go dress parade. It's a most sophisticated idea that should go over with a bang . . . the smartest women are enjoying such pinafore excitement. They certainly transform a plain dress into something as piquantly French as a good sauce.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the things you simply must do while you're pulling yourself together for the fall and winter is change your hair style. It's trite but true that a change of coiffure does wonderful things for a woman.

We all get pretty tired of our looks—and nothing seems to change your looks or your whole conception of your personality like swishing up your hair in a new and unfamiliar fashion.

You must try the pompadour. Of course it will look extreme to you but as your eye gets accustomed to it you'll probably come to the conclusion that it's a pretty fashion in almost all its adaptable versions.

It's a great hit with the young girls in its rather extreme version. A big, plump roll high on the brow beneath one of those hats that hug the head sets off their bright young eyes and their usually lovely complexions.

For the older woman, this smooth high roll is usually a little trying. She should play tricks with that front hair. Try a fringe like a windblown rosette. It's softening and feminine, or, without any suggestion of the terrible "dip" of old, bring the hair right down on the forehead in a soft line that is a continuation of the upswept line it's important to have at the sides.

You'll be trying on the hats if you haven't already. The new ones are anchored well over the crown in the back, making some effective hair treatment in front just about imperative. You'll be pleasantly surprised at how many things you can do with the front hair and before you know it you'll be vowing that you never want to wear a tip tilted hat again as long as you live!

WEEP INDIAN SERIES; 1 GAME BEHIND

...KS OUT PASTOR IN THIRTEENTH ROUND

LEFT TO BODY WINDS UP FIGHT BEFORE 14,448

Pittsburgher Booed for Low Blows.

Fight Decisions

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, whose choir boy appearance belies the thunder in his fists, tonight knocked out Bob Pastor of New York in the 13th round of a scheduled 15 round bout which was supposed to produce a challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight championship.

The end came after 2 minutes and 54 seconds of a match replete with low blows and cries of foul from the ringside. A left to the stomach, the same punch which twice previously doubled up the former New York Golden Gloves champion, sent Pastor to the floor. He didn't drop suddenly as he might have done from a more deadly wallop. He simply curled up in pain and sank slowly to his knees. He rolled on his right side where he remained while Referee Billy Cavanaugh tolled off a count of 10.

14,448 Pay to See Fight.

The fight, originally scheduled for the Polo grounds on Aug. 13, drew a crowd of 14,448 paid customers to Madison Square Garden. The receipts were $49,415. This was Conn's eighth straight victory in New York.

Rated as great nothing ball pitchers, Pastor and Conn for the first few rounds put on a streamlined demonstration of boxing science, highlighted by occasional peppery rallies. Pastor, who tonight went more than 11 rounds for the first time in his career, was the aggressor in the four opening stanzas, as they say in Mudville, Ark. From that point he began to fade and Conn kept getting steadily stronger.

Conn's lefts to the body, three or four of which obviously were below the belt, punished Pastor severely in the eighth. The round was taken away from the Pittsburgher because of foul punches.

Pastor Down in Ninth.

Near the end of the ninth round Conn sent Pastor to the floor with another terrific punch to the solar plexus. The bell came to the New Yorker's rescue at the count of seven. Jimmy Johnston, Pastor's manager, protested to Referee Cavanaugh about Conn's out of bounds punches at the end of the session.

There were no knockdowns in the tenth or eleventh, but Conn was doing the leading thruout. A sharp left to the body and right to the head in the twelfth sent Pastor sprawling thru the ropes almost onto your correspondent's typewriter. He was back in the ring at the count of nine and reeled around on rubbery legs until the bell.

Pastor came out for the thirteenth, and what proved to be the final round, full of fight, but Conn met him in his own corner with a left and right that stopped him in his tracks. He backed away and managed to keep out of trouble until Conn caught him with the finishing punch to the mid section.

Many Fans Claim Foul.

Conn was hailed as a great fighter by the white tie and tails crowd as he left the ring, but the gang in the balconies were screaming "foul". Their hooting, however, was nothing compared with the yelping by Jimmy Johnston, who twice maneuvered Pastor into bouts with Champion Joe Louis.

"Pastor was beaten by a foul punch," Johnston kept saying to one and all in the dressing room after the match.

Conn, who weighed only 174 pounds to Pastor's 180¾, judged by his work tonight, is no opponent for Joe Louis, but a fellow might be quite a fighter and still no match for Louis.

Conn has a good left hook and a sharp right, but he can't stop an opponent with a punch as can Louis. Furthermore, there is little evidence that he will develop physically into a full-fledged heavyweight. Tonight he was below poundage required for defense of his light heavyweight title.

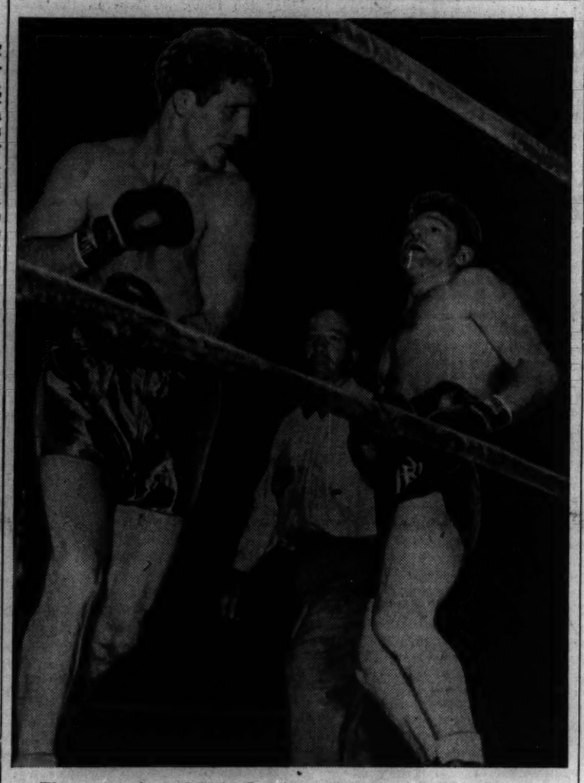
One Punch Bob Didn't Catch



There were few of Billy Conn's punches which failed to find their mark on Bob Pastor (right) in their New York fight last night won by Conn on a knockout in the 13th round, but this time Billy misses one. The referee is Bill Cavanaugh. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Field of 14 Is Named to Run in $5,000 Hawthorne Handicap

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Charles S. Howard racing establishment, which dominated Washington Park's juvenile and 3 year old stakes with Porter's Cap and Miloland then failed conspicuously with Kayak II. in the handicap division, will attempt a comeback today at Hawthorne. Trainer Burley Parke will send Advocator out under the red and white Howard colors in an effort to win the $5,000 Hawthorne handicap.

Among Advocator's rivals in this mile and an eighth gallop will be B. F. Masterson's Busy Morn, winner of Washington Park's $5,000 Beverly handicap, which was a dash of a mile for fillies and mares. Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, which attained new prominence in the distance series at the Homewood course, also will go to the post. Mrs. Joe Grossman's consistent Valdina Star, the Shandon farm's Burning Star, and Mrs. Elizabeth Oros' Bucking are among the 14 overnight entries.

Advocator Probable Favorite.

Advocator in all probability will be established as the favorite at approximately 2 to 1 odds. That is something which he will have to live down inasmuch as the public choices have had a disastrous record in stake events since the start of the Arlington Park meeting. Advocator himself set the example by taking a beating from Technician after being made the favorite in the Arlington Inaugural handicap. He redeemed himself a few days later, however, by scoring in the Stars and Stripes handicap, in which the crowd once more had made him the No. 1 choice.

The veteran Burning Star, which was a reliable performer in other seasons, is trying to get back into top form. His only Chicago appearance this year occurred in the Washington Park handicap, in which he closed fast to finish third behind War Plumage and Viscounty. Busy Morn's most recent outing was in Wednesday's Hawthorne Inaugural in

BIG NINE VOTES TODAY ON ANNUAL ROSE BOWL TRIP

Faculty Men May Approve Directors' Action.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The faculty committee of the Western conference will meet at luncheon this noon in the University club to consider the recent recommendation of the directors of athletics that the Big Nine participate annually with the Pacific Coast conference in the Rose bowl football game in Pasadena, Cal.

The Western conference directors voted in favor of participation Aug. 28 and requested that the faculty committee meet at its earliest opportunity so that, if permission is granted, the series in the Rose bowl can be inaugurated Jan. 1, 1941.

While the directors considered a plan for selecting the Big Nine's representative and the proposal that all member universities share in the receipts of the inter-conference series, the first step of the faculty committee this afternoon will be to make an exception to the present conference rule which forbids football games after the Saturday before Thanksgiving day.

Would Affect Only One Team.

It is conceded that if the faculty committee grants permission for a team to represent the Western conference in the Rose bowl, the other universities must close their schedules under the present regulation. Under no circumstances can today's action [even if unanimous] become effective short of 60 days.

The conference rule under which today's discussion will take place is as follows:

"A majority vote of the representatives is sufficient to pass any measure. Before the measure can become operative, however, 60 days must elapse, during which time the measure must be submitted to the faculties of the constituent members for approval. If, within 60 days, one or more faculties reject any measure, that measure must be reconsidered at the next meeting of the conference. In case there is no vote of rejection by a member institution within the 60 day period, the measure becomes operative at the end of that period. If after a vote, or votes, of rejection, the proposed legislation is again passed by a majority vote, the measure becomes operative from the time of the second passage, and any institution rejecting it a second time is suspended from the conference."

Chicago to Participate.

If all faculty members vote in favor today, the issue will be settled since each faculty member represents all faculty members of his university.

In today's discussion, altho the university has abandoned football, the University of Chicago has equal voice with other members of the Western conference. The faculty committee is: Chicago, Dean George A. Works; Illinois, Prof. Frank E. Richart; Indiana, Prof. William Moenkhaus, chairman; Iowa, Prof. Karl Leib, secretary; Michigan, Prof. Ralph W. Aigler; Minnesota, Prof. Henry Rottschaefer; Northwestern, Prof. Walter K. Smart; Ohio State, Prof. Thomas E. French; Purdue, Prof. G. A. Young; Wisconsin, Dr. William Lorenz.

Coast Representatives to Attend.

Prof. W. B. Owens of Stanford university, and C. C. May, University of Washington, will undoubtedly attend the Western conference faculty committee meeting today to explain the inter-conference football relationship the Pacific coast conference is willing to enter. Both men were in Chicago yesterday attending an executive committee meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association in the Sherman hotel.

The N. C. A. A. executive committee discussed finances, heard a report on the track and field meet in Minneapolis, and is to hear a report of the basketball tournament today. In general, the committee considered affairs preliminary to the national convention which will be held in New York in December.

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—This is Gene Sarazen's valuation of the P. G. A. championship, recently won by Byron Nelson, one time Fort Worth caddy: "If I had won six national opens and six British opens and hadn't won the P. G. A., I wouldn't consider myself a class A golfer." . . . Including Labor day games, the Cincinnati Reds had won both games of 13 double headers and had lost in only four. . . . Up to the same juncture the Cubs had swept only two double headers and had been knocked out in both ends of seven twin bills. . . . Tarzan Taylor, Marquette line coach, received the following note from one of his former players now in the marine flying corps: "I thought you were tough, coach, but you should see the sergeants down here." . . . How about a hand for Jackie Hayes of the White Sox, whose determination to play despite a severe physical handicap has been one of the highlights of the fading season? . . . Hayes, who has a cataract on his right eye, shuts it completely when he swings at a pitched ball. . . . He says he gets better results that way than by keeping the impaired eye open. . . . Only one player from Harvard, Yale, and Princeton made the Eastern All-Star football squad. . . . There was none with the National All-Stars in Chicago. . . . Whether the American league end of the world series is played in Cleveland, Detroit, or New York, its park will have twice the seating capacity of Crosley field in Cincinnati, which, under the coming series setup, will be about 32,800. . . . Neal Lang, hotel executive known to most athletic teams which patronize Manhattan, will take over the management of a Miami Beach hostelry Oct. 1 on a year around basis. . . . They still applaud in Broadway night spots when the master of ceremonies philosophizes, "It's great to live in a country that uses its army and navy to play Notre Dame." . . .

The best crack of the week was by Kenneth Jones of the Peoria Journal-Transcript: "When the Cubs are thru with Zeke Bonura will the big New Orleans boy be in favor of a third term in Washington?" . . . Jimmy Thomson rates Abe Mitchell of England the greatest wind golfer of them all, with it or against it. . . . Louis [Kid] Kaplan, retired undefeated featherweight champion, is a restaurant proprietor in Hartford, Conn. . . . Georgetown is beginning its 66th season of intercollegiate football. . . . The St. Louis Browns' first seven night games drew more spectators than all 77 home games did last year. . . . Add sport similes: As inseparable as Jimmie Dykes and a cigar. . . . Dick Metz of Oak Park and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, two of the stanchest pals on pro golf, are planning an exhibition tour after the summer schedule is completed.

Thru patient days of suffering you wove
On sorrow's loom, with the white hands of pain,
The glowing tapestries of loyal love,

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

John Rigney, the White Sox youngster who hasn't abandoned hopes for a .500 rating by the time the 1940 finish line is reached, made a little more progress toward his goal yesterday. He turned out a four hitter, using the St. Louis Browns as victims, to record his 13th success, 6 to 3. But the River Forest pitching expert still has some ground to cover, because of 16 defeats.

Rigney, whose last job was a two hit shutout of the Tigers, looked like a cousin to the Brownies in only one inning. After working perfectly for three innings he wilted for no reason in the fourth, just after being presented with a four run lead. Before he revived he had been slapped for three hits and three runs, but then proceeded unerringly to the last putout, the fourth enemy hit being a triple by George McQuinn with one out in the ninth. McQuinn was doubled in a foolish attempt to score on Johnny Berardino's fly to Julius Solters.

Sox Bunch Hits.

The Sox did their most important business during the term of Elden Auker, the fellow with the underslung delivery. He was good enough for practical purposes in the first two innings, but in the third his aim went bad and the Sox mixed four hits with some passes to run four men across the plate.

Later on they added one more and picked up their last run in the seventh when Willis Hudlin, the 1940 big league roamer, attempted a finishing rôle.

Rigney Starts Rally.

Rigney drew a pass with one out in the third and thus became the leader in the ensuing four run parade. Webb singled to right and Kreevich arched a single over short, Rigney scoring. A pass to Kuhel filled the bases, but Solters quickly singled to center, Webb and Kreevich going home and Kuhel to third. Kuhel scored on Appling's single to right, Solters taking third. Grace's throw-in was wild, so Luke moved down to second. But after Wright had walked the splurge died quickly. Both Tresh and Kennedy fanned.

A pass also led Rigney astray in the fourth. He gave it to Grace be-

Detroit Ousts Yanks from 2d Place.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP).—The collapse of the Cleveland Indians turned into a panic today as the Detroit Tigers completed their massacre of the American league's best pitching staff with a thumping 10 to 5 victory that extended the league leaders' losing streak to five games.

Tonight Detroit was riding in second place, a single game behind Cleveland. Another game back were the New York Yankees, who muffed a chance to stay in second place by losing to Washington, 3 to 1.

Al Milnar.

Tigers Get 4 in 5th.

Buck Newsom pitched one of his poorest games of the season today in fashioning his 18th victory and a Tiger sweep of the three game series, but the Tiger attack was strong enough to offset his shortcomings and the Indians appeared to have gained nothing from their latest rebellion—a players' strategy meeting last night from which Manager Oscar Vitt was excluded.

The climax came in the fifth inning when the Tigers scored four runs on one hit. The goat of the debacle was Pitcher Al Milnar, who had relieved Johnny Allen.

Milnar struck out Bruce Campbell and Charley Gehringer, and then walked Hank Greenberg, Rudy York and George Stainback to fill the bases. Billy Sullivan sent a grounder to First Baseman Roy Bell, who fumbled and recovered, throwing to Milnar, who was on first base. Umpire Lou Kolls called Sullivan safe and the Indians staged a protest meeting around the arbiter. Greenberg had scored and York, who had reached third on the error, lumbered home as Milnar held on to the ball.

Homers Aid Detroit.

As in the previous two games, the Tigers got help from homers. Billy Sullivan hit one in the fourth with Stainback on base and Greenberg hit his 28th of the season in the eighth.

The Indians scored two runs in the first on a single by Lou Boudreau, a double by Roy Weatherly, an error by Dick Bartell on Ben Chapman's roller and Bell's force grounder.

Allen blew up in the fourth and Detroit scored three times to take the lead. After Sullivan's homer, Tebbetts doubled and went home on a line single by Newsom.

The Indians struck back for three last two runs in the seventh when Newsom lost control and walked Frank Pytlak and Odell Hale, who batted for Milnar. A single by Weatherly and Chapman's infield out sent the runs across the plate.

The Indians and Tigers will open series with second division teams tomorrow. The Indians engage the White Sox at home, while the Tigers entertain the St. Louis Browns.

TIGERS SWEEP INDIAN SERIES; 1 GAME BEHIND

CONN KNOCKS OUT PASTOR IN THIRTEENTH ROUND

LEFT TO BODY WINDS UP FIGHT BEFORE 14,448

Fight Decisions

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—Billy Conn of Pittsburgh, whose choir boy appearance belies the thunder in his fists, tonight knocked out Bob Pastor of New York in the 13th round of a scheduled 15 round bout which was supposed to produce a challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight championship.

The end came after 2 minutes and 54 seconds of a match replete with low blows and cries of foul from the ringside. A left to the stomach, the same punch which twice previously doubled up the former New York Golden Gloves champion, sent Pastor to the floor. He didn't drop suddenly as he might have done from a more deadly wallop. He simply curled up in pain and sank slowly to his knees. He rolled on his right side where he remained while Referee Billy Cavanaugh tolled off a count of 10.

14,448 Pay to See Fight.

The fight, originally scheduled for the Polo grounds on Aug. 13, drew a crowd of 14,448 paid customers to Madison Square Garden. The receipts were $49,415. This was Conn's eighth straight victory in New York.

Rated as great nothing ball pitchers, Pastor and Conn for the first few rounds put on a streamlined demonstration of boxing science, highlighted by occasional peppery rallies. Pastor, who tonight went more than 11 rounds for the first time in his career, was the aggressor in the four opening stanzas, as they say in Mudville, Ark. From that point he began to fade and Conn kept getting steadily stronger.

Conn's lefts to the body, three or four of which obviously were below the belt, punished Pastor severely in the eighth. The round was taken away from the Pittsburgher because of foul punches.

Pastor Down in Ninth.

Near the end of the ninth round Conn sent Pastor to the floor with another terrific punch to the solar plexus. The bell came to the New Yorker's rescue at the count of seven. Jimmy Johnston, Pastor's manager, protested to Referee Cavanaugh about Conn's out of bounds punches at the end of the session.

There were no knockdowns in the tenth or eleventh, but Conn was doing the leading thruout. A sharp left to the body and right to the head in the twelfth sent Pastor sprawling thru the ropes almost onto your correspondent's typewriter. He was back in the ring at the count of nine and reeled around on rubbery legs until the bell.

Pastor came out for the thirteenth, and what proved to be the final round, full of fight, but Conn met him in his own corner with a left and right that stopped him in his tracks. He backed away and managed to keep out of trouble until Conn caught him with the finishing punch to the mid section.

Many Fans Claim Foul.

Conn was hailed as a great fighter by the white tie and tails crowd as he left the ring, but the gang in the balconies were screaming "foul". Their hooting, however, was nothing compared with the yelping by Jimmy Johnston, who twice maneuvered Pastor into bouts with Champion Joe Louis.

"Pastor was beaten by a foul punch," Johnston kept saying to one and all in the dressing room after the match.

Conn, who weighed only 174 pounds to Pastor's 180¾, judged by his work tonight, is no opponent for Joe Louis, but a fellow might be quite a fighter and still no match for Louis.

Conn has a good left hook and a sharp right, but he can't stop an opponent with a punch as can Louis. Furthermore, there is little evidence that he will develop physically into a full-fledged heavyweight. Tonight he was below poundage required for defense of his light heavyweight title.

Miss Brough Defeats Miss Harland in Tennis Final

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6 (AP).—Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Cal., captured the girls' junior national tennis championship today by defeating Pearl Harland of Santa Monica, Cal., 6-2, 6-3, in a 40 minute final match at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

Nellie Sheer and Doris Hart, Miami, Fla., team, dethroned the defending doubles champions, Pat Canning, Alemeda, Cal., and Marguerite Madden, Boston, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

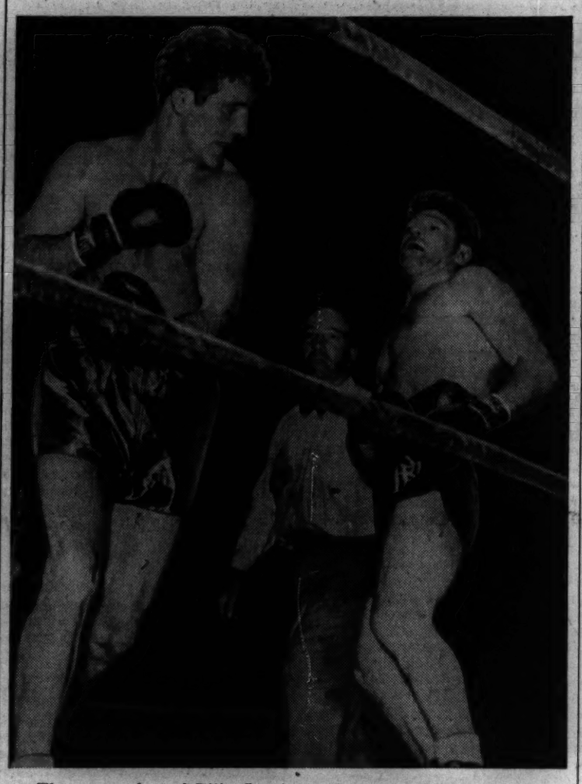
One Punch Bob Didn't Catch



There were few of Billy Conn's punches which failed to find their mark on Bob Pastor (right) in their New York fight last night won by Conn on a knockout in the 13th round, but this time Billy misses one. The referee is Bill Cavanaugh. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Field of 14 Is Named to Run in $5,000 Hawthorne Handicap

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Charles S. Howard racing establishment, which dominated Washington Park's juvenile and 3 year old stakes with Porter's Cap and Miloland then failed conspicuously with Kayak II. in the handicap division, will attempt a comeback today at Hawthorne. Trainer Burley Parke will send Advocator out under the red and white Howard colors in an effort to win the $5,000 Hawthorne handicap.

Among Advocator's rivals in this mile and an eighth gallop will be B. F. Masterson's Busy Morn, winner of Washington Park's $5,000 Beverly handicap, which was a dash of a mile for fillies and mares. Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, which attained new prominence in the distance series at the Homewood course, also will go to the post. Mrs. Joe Grossman's consistent Valdina Star, the Shandon farm's Burning Star, and Mrs. Elizabeth Oros' Bucking are among the 14 overnight entries.

Advocator Probable Favorite.

Advocator in all probability will be established as the favorite at approximately 2 to 1 odds. That is something which he will have to live down inasmuch as the public choices have had a disastrous record in stake events since the start of the Arlington Park meeting. Advocator himself set the example by taking a beating from Technician after being made the favorite in the Arlington Inaugural handicap. He redeemed himself a few days later, however, by scoring in the Stars and Stripes handicap, in which the crowd once more had made him the No. 1 choice.

The veteran Burning Star, which was a reliable performer in other seasons, is trying to get back into top form. His only Chicago appearance this year occurred in the Washington Park handicap, in which he closed fast to finish third behind War Plumage and Viscounty. Busy Morn's most recent outing was in Wednesday's Hawthorne Inaugural in

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The faculty committee of the Western conference will meet at luncheon this noon in the University club to consider the recent recommendation of the directors of athletics that the Big Nine participate annually with the Pacific Coast conference in the Rose bowl football game in Pasadena, Cal.

The Western conference directors voted in favor of participation Aug. 28 and requested that the faculty committee meet at its earliest opportunity so that, if permission is granted, the series in the Rose bowl can be inaugurated Jan. 1, 1941.

While the directors considered a plan for selecting the Big Nine's representative and the proposal that all member universities share in the receipts of the inter-conference series, the first step of the faculty committee this afternoon will be to make an exception to the present conference rule which forbids football games after the Saturday before Thanksgiving day.

Would Affect Only One Team.

It is conceded that if the faculty committee grants permission for a team to represent the Western conference in the Rose bowl, the other universities must close their schedules under the present regulation. Under no circumstances can today's action [even if unanimous] become effective short of 60 days.

The conference rule under which today's discussion will take place is as follows:

"A majority vote of the representatives is sufficient to pass any measure. Before the measure can become operative, however, 60 days must elapse, during which time the measure must be submitted to the faculties of the constituent members for approval. If, within 60 days, one or more faculties reject any measure, that measure must be reconsidered at the next meeting of the conference. In case there is no vote of rejection by a member institution within the 60 day period, the measure becomes operative at the end of that period. If after a vote, or votes, of rejection, the proposed legislation is again passed by a majority vote, the measure becomes operative from the time of the second passage, and any institution rejecting it a second time is suspended from the conference."

Chicago to Participate.

If all faculty members vote in favor today, the issue will be settled since each faculty member represents all faculty members of his university.

In today's discussion, altho the university has abandoned football, the University of Chicago has equal voice with other members of the Western conference. The faculty committee is: Chicago, Dean George A. Works; Illinois, Prof. Frank E. Richart; Indiana, Prof. William Moenkhaus, chairman; Iowa, Prof. Karl Leib, secretary; Michigan, Prof. Ralph W. Aigler; Minnesota, Prof. Henry Rottschaefer; Northwestern, Prof. Walter K. Smart; Ohio State, Prof. Thomas E. French; Purdue, Prof. G. A. Young; Wisconsin, Dr. William Lorenz.

Coast Representatives to Attend.

Prof. W. B. Owens of Stanford university, and C. C. May, University of Washington, will undoubtedly attend the Western conference faculty committee meeting today to explain the inter-conference football relationship the Pacific coast conference is willing to enter. Both men were in Chicago yesterday attending an executive committee meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association in the Sherman hotel.

The N. C. A. A. executive committee discussed finances, heard a report on the track and field meet in Minneapolis, and is to hear a report of the basketball tournament today. In general, the committee considered affairs preliminary to the national convention which will be held in New York in December.

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—This is Gene Sarazen's valuation of the P. G. A. championship, recently won by Byron Nelson, one time Fort Worth caddy: "If I had won six national opens and six British opens and hadn't won the P. G. A., I wouldn't consider myself a class A golfer." . . . Including Labor day games, the Cincinnati Reds had won both games of 13 double headers and had lost in only four. . . . Up to the same juncture the Cubs had swept only two double headers and had been knocked out in both ends of seven twin bills. . . . Tarzan Taylor, Marquette line coach, received the following note from one of his former players now in the marine flying corps: "I thought you were tough, coach, but you should see the sergeants down here." . . . How about a hand for Jackie Hayes of the White Sox, whose determination to play despite a severe physical handicap has been one of the highlights of the fading season? . . . Hayes, who has a cataract on his right eye, shuts it completely when he swings at a pitched ball. . . . He says he gets better results that way than by keeping the impaired eye open. . . . Only one player from Harvard, Yale, and Princeton made the Eastern All-Star football squad. . . . There was none with the National All-Stars in Chicago. . . . Whether the American league end of the world series is played in Cleveland, Detroit, or New York, its park will have twice the seating capacity of Crosley field in Cincinnati, which, under the coming series setup, will be about 32,800. . . . Neal Lang, hotel executive known to most athletic teams which patronize Manhattan, will take over the management of a Miami Beach hostelry Oct. 1 on a year around basis. . . . They still applaud in Broadway night spots when the master of ceremonies philosophizes, "It's great to live in a country that uses its army and navy to play Notre Dame." . . .

The best crack of the week was by Kenneth Jones of the Peoria Journal-Transcript: "When the Cubs are thru with Zeke Bonura will the big New Orleans boy be in favor of a third term in Washington?" . . . Jimmy Thomson rates Abe Mitchell of England the greatest wind golfer of them all, with it or against it. . . . Louis [Kid] Kaplan, retired undefeated featherweight champion, is a restaurant proprietor in Hartford, Conn. . . . Georgetown is beginning its 66th season of intercollegiate football. . . . The St. Louis Browns' first seven night games drew more spectators than all 77 home games did last year. . . . Add sport similes: As inseparable as Jimmie Dykes and a cigar. . . . Dick Metz of Oak Park and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, two of the stanchest pals on pro golf, are planning an exhibition tour after the summer schedule is completed.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

John Rigney, the White Sox youngster who hasn't abandoned hopes for a .500 rating by the time the 1940 finish line is reached, made a little more progress toward his goal yesterday. He turned out a four hitter, using the St. Louis Browns as victims, to record his 13th success, 6 to 3. But the River Forest pitching expert still has some ground to cover, because of 16 defeats.

Rigney, whose last job was a two hit shutout of the Tigers, looked like a cousin to the Brownies in only one inning. After working perfectly for three innings he wilted for no reason in the fourth, just after being presented with a four run lead. Before he revived he had been slapped for three hits and three runs, but then proceeded unerringly to the last putout, the fourth enemy hit being a triple by George McQuinn with one out in the ninth. McQuinn was doubled in a foolish attempt to score on Johnny Berardino's fly to Julius Solters.

Sox Bunch Hits.

The Sox did their most important business during the term of Elden Auker, the fellow with the underslung delivery. He was good enough for practical purposes in the first two innings, but in the third his aim went bad and the Sox mixed four hits with some passes to run four men across the plate.

Later on they added one more and picked up their last run in the seventh when Willis Hudlin, the 1940 big league roamer, attempted a finishing rôle.

Rigney Starts Rally.

Rigney drew a pass with one out in the third and thus became the leader in the ensuing four run parade. Webb singled to right and Kreevich arched a single over short, Rigney scoring. A pass to Kuhel filled the bases, but Solters quickly singled to center, Webb and Kreevich going home and Kuhel to third. Kuhel scored on Appling's single to right, Solters taking third. Grace's throw-in was wild, so Luke moved down to second. But after Wright had walked the splurge died quickly. Both Tresh and Kennedy fanned.

A pass also led Rigney astray in the fourth. He gave it to Grace be-

Detroit Ousts Yanks from 2d Place.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP).—The collapse of the Cleveland Indians turned into a panic today as the Detroit Tigers completed their massacre of the American league's best pitching staff with a thumping 10 to 5 victory that extended the league leaders' losing streak to five games.

Al Milnar.

Tonight Detroit was riding in second place, a single game behind Cleveland. Another game back were the New York Yankees, who muffed a chance to stay in second place by losing to Washington, 3 to 1.

Tigers Get 4 in 5th.

Buck Newsom pitched one of his poorest games of the season today in fashioning his 18th victory and a Tiger sweep of the three game series, but the Tiger attack was strong enough to offset his shortcomings and the Indians appeared to have gained nothing from their latest rebellion—a players' strategy meeting last night from which Manager Oscar Vitt was excluded.

The climax came in the fifth inning when the Tigers scored four runs on one hit. The goat of the debacle was Pitcher Al Milnar, who had relieved Johnny Allen.

Milnar struck out Bruce Campbell and Charley Gehringer, and then walked Hank Greenberg, Rudy York and George Stainback to fill the bases. Billy Sullivan sent a grounder to First Baseman Roy Bell, who fumbled and recovered, throwing to Milnar, who was on first base. Umpire Lou Kolls called Sullivan safe and the Indians staged a protest meeting around the arbiter. Greenberg had scored and York, who had reached third on the error, lumbered home as Milnar held on to the ball.

Homers Aid Detroit.

As in the previous two games, the Tigers got help from homers. Billy Sullivan hit one in the fourth with Stainback on base and Greenberg hit his 28th of the season in the eighth.

The Indians scored two runs in the first on a single by Lou Boudreau, a double by Roy Weatherly, an error by Dick Bartell on Ben Chapman's roller and Bell's force grounder.

Allen blew up in the fourth and Detroit scored three times to take the lead. After Sullivan's homer, Tebbetts doubled and went home on a line single by Newsom.

The Indians struck back for three last two runs in the seventh when Newsom lost control and walked Frank Pytlak and Odell Hale, who batted for Milnar. A single by Weatherly and Chapman's infield out sent the runs across the plate.

The Indians and Tigers will open series with second division teams tomorrow. The Indians engage the White Sox at home, while the Tigers entertain the St. Louis Browns.

YOUNG KID M'COY PLANS KNOCKOUT FOR PETE LELLO

It's Second Predicted for Marigold Card.

Young Kid McCoy, Detroit welterweight, sparred three rounds with Bobby McIntyre in Trafton's gymnasium yesterday and then predicted he would stop Pete Lello in a scheduled 10 round bout in Marigold outdoor arena Monday. It was the second knockout prediction made for the card this week, Nick Castiglione, west side lightweight, previously having predicted a victory in this manner over Billy Marquart.

If McCoy's ambition is realized he will spoil plans for a lightweight championship contest between Lew Jenkins, New York standard bearer, and Lello in New York during the indoor season.

Wins 40 of 45 Bouts.

McCoy, who was born Adam Piagna of Austrian parents in Dearborn, Mich., June 9, 1919, defeated Marquart in his last Chicago appearance on July 22. Since then he has conquered Tommy Spiegal in Detroit, and Johnny Lifford in Glace Bay, N. S. The Lifford conquest was McCoy's 40th in 45 appearances. Of the others, he lost three and scored two draws.

McCoy, who will have boxed professionally two years come Sept. 20, has agreed to make 144 pounds for Lello. This is nine more than Pete's fighting weight.

Aron Meets Mamakos.

A fourth 10 rounder will have Milt Aron defending his No. 1 welterweight position against Steve Mamakos of Washington, D. C. Milt's performance will be a factor in determining whether the Chicagoan will fight Clarence [Red] Cochrane in Newark Sept. 23 under the auspices of Babe Culnan.

In addition to seeking amends for the McCoy setback, Marquart will be trying to earn a match with Aldo Spoldi in New York Sept. 24 when he opposes Castiglione.

COURT APPROVES SALE OF O'HARE STOCK IN TRACK

Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court yesterday issued an order approving the sale of the late Edward J. O'Hare's stock in the Sportsman's Park racing track to John L. Keeshin, leader of a syndicate of business men who took over control of the track on July 15. The order was petitioned by the Northern Trust company, executors of the estate of O'Hare, who was murdered last Nov. 8, shortly after the close of the meeting of the track, which is operated by the National Jockey club.

The terms of the sale of the O'Hare capital stock in the National Jockey club to Keeshin also were approved by the court. They involve O'Hare's 3,490 shares, carrying a par value of $50. The terms of payment consist of an immediate $5,000 down payment; $43,750 within ten days, and the balance of the total of $97,500 within the year at 4 per cent interest.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 6.—The Cubs, who have been hanging around St. Louis most of the week without playing much baseball of any kind and none of merit, lost again today, 6 to 4.

The Cards spotted Larry French and the Cubs a 4 to 0 lead in the first two innings before turning on the heat. The Cards scored three runs in the fifth on a double by Pepper Martin with two out and the bases loaded; tied the score on one single and fuzzy Cub fielding in the sixth; went ahead on a homer by Terry Moore in the seventh, and rapped out a superfluous marker for insurance in the eighth.

Cub Attack Feeble.

After the second inning the Cub attack consisted of a safe bunt by Hank Leiber in the sixth inning and a single by Jim Gleeson with two out in the ninth. The only other Cub to get on base in the span was Bill Herman, who walked with two out in the fifth. Thus the Cubs accomplished their 10th defeat in their last 12 games, which is good losing in any league.

The loss, French's 13th against 12 victories, left the Cubs 21½ games behind their guests of tomorrow, the league leading Cincinnati Reds, with 22 games to play. Thus, if the Reds win tomorrow afternoon, the Cubs will be mathematically out of the pennant race. In years past, or most years, when they were the losers of the previous city series, the Cubs have challenged as soon as they were mathematically sunk. Don't be surprised, then, if tomorrow night a new early mark will be set for city series challenges.

Dizzy Himself Returns.

The defeat had its compensations for the Cubs tonight when Mr. and Mrs. Dizzy Dean, no less, walked into the team's hotel shortly after dinner. They had driven in from Tulsa, Okla. The Great Man said he was feeling strong and was confident that he'll win plenty of games for the Cubs NEXT year. He said he was glad to be back and glad, too, of the opportunity he had this summer of working out his pitching troubles in Tulsa. He looks well.

Dizzy and Pat will drive on to Chicago, and Diz expects to pitch for the Cubs next Tuesday in Brooklyn. He pitched his last game for Tulsa last night, yielding 11 hits in nine innings when he went out for a pinch hitter and his mates won the game in extra innings. He won seven and lost nine for Tulsa and appeared in a total of 22 games.

Hack Starts with Hit.

Hack opened the game with a single to center and promptly stole second. Stan got to third on Herman's sacrifice and ran home on Nicholson's fly.

Bonura opened the second inning with a single to left and stopped at second when Gleeson duplicated his smack. Collins popped out in an attempted sacrifice, but Mattick singled to center, Bonura scoring and Gleeson reaching third. French missed the squeeze play sign and didn't offer at Shoun's pitch as Gleeson charged for the plate. However, Gleeson backed up for a run down and during said run down Orengo threw the ball past Padgett, Gleeson scoring and Mattick reaching third. French walked and then Mattick got home on Hack's long fly.

Pepper Martin's double with the bases loaded and two out in the fifth got the Cards back into the contest. The bases were loaded on a walk to Marion, a single by Shoun, and a walk to Moore. Martin then lined one over Gleeson's head, three runs scoring and Pepper taking third on the throw to the plate. Mize's long fly to Leiber ended the inning.

Cards Tie It Up.

The Cards tied the score in the sixth. Koy opened with his third single to left. Orengo sacrificed and he and Koy were safe when French threw late to second on an attempted force play. Padgett bunted and forced Koy, French to Hack, but Mattick booted Marion's cinch double play ball, loading the bases. Orengo tied the score on Shoun's fly, Brown flied to Leiber.

Moore's 14th homer opened the seventh inning and put the Cards ahead, 5 to 4. The Cards added one in the eighth on Orengo's single, a double by Marion, and a single by Brown.

THE GUMPS—NOW WHAT?

Chase, Walker Help Senators Beat Yanks, 3-1

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—The New York Yankees lost second place in the American League pennant race today when young Ken Chase, Washington left hander, stopped the champions, 3 to 1, for his 13th victory of the year. Chase shut out the New Yorkers on five hits until the ninth inning when Buddy Rosar beat out a bunt and scored after successive singles by Charley Keller and Babe Dahlgren.

Gee Gee Walker's two home runs—one in the first inning and the other in the sixth—were sufficient for the victory, but the Senators, who touched Red Ruffing for 10 hits, got another run in the third when Early's bounder hopped over Dahlgren's head, and Case and Lewis singled.

Manager Bucky Harris was banished in the fifth inning for pushing Umpire John Quinn while protesting that Charley Keller had swung for a third strike. Score:

ROCHESTER BOAT WINS 2D RACE FOR RICHARDSON CUP

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 6 [Special].—Kathea II., skippered by Commodore Philip Farnum of Rochester, won the second race for the Richardson cup, Great Lakes R class championship award, on Lake Ontario today. The Lake Michigan Yachting association's entry, Ardelle, sailed by Clare Udell and his Chicago Yacht club crew, was runner-up. Cotton Blossom, Inter-Lake Yachting association sloop from Cleveland, O., was third. A light to moderate breeze prevailed over the windward-leeward course.

After yesterday's opening race, to which all three yachts filed protests, the race committee decided to disqualify all three. The action was almost unprecedented in Great Lakes yachting history.

KELLOGG STAR AS COLLEGIANS TOP GUNNERS, 30 TO 13

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 6 (AP).—Bobby Kellogg, former Tulane university star, led a team of college players to a 30 to 13 victory over the professional St. Louis Gunners in a charity exhibition football game tonight.

Kellogg scored two touchdowns, passed the collegians into position for Mel Brewer of Illinois to kick a field goal and for Joe Thesing of Notre Dame to plunge over for a touchdown, then tossed to Clay Cooper of Missouri in the closing seconds for the final touchdown.

Liberto Bertagnolli, former Washington university, St. Louis, guard now coverted to a full back, made one touchdown for the Gunners on a sixty-seven yard run and Ernie Lain, former Rice institute star, made the other.

Dodgers Gain on Reds; Whip Phils, 3-0, 14-3

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers crept up a full game on the league leading Cincinnati Reds today, but still are seven games behind. While the Reds were idle, the Dodgers whipped the Phillies twice, 3 to 0 and 14 to 3.

The first game was a triumph for Freddie Fitzsimmons and Ducky Medwick. While Fitz shut out the Phillies on 10 hits for his 14th victory of the season, Ducky hit his 14th homer with two on for all the Brooklyn scoring.

In the second game, Brooklyn got 18 hits, including home runs by Joe Gallagher and Medwick as Hugh Casey spun his eighth victory of the season on 10 hits, one a homer by Dan Litwhiler. Scores:

fore an out was recorded. Radcliff singled to right. Judnich did the same to score Grace, and when Wright fumbled momentarily Radcliff moved to third and Judnich to second. Clift's single to left chased them across the plate. That completed the inning's scoring, but there were three on bases at the finish because of fumbles by Kennedy and Webb.

Double Plays Halt Sox.

The Sox did some fancy hitting in the fifth, but the effort netted only one run. Kuhel opened with a single thru short but Solters, baffled a bit by Auker's slow stuff, fanned. Appling and Wright punched singles into center, Kuhel scoring on the latter blow. But the whole thing came to an abrupt halt on Tresh's grounder which Berardino turned into a double play.

The double play scourge also caused the Sox some distress in the seventh when Hudlin appeared in place of Auker. Kuhel walked and Solters singled past Clift. Appling banged a single into right center, his third hit of the afternoon, and Kuhel scored. Wright fouled to Clift and when Tresh walked the bases were filled. This was where the double play ball showed up. Kennedy hit it, a grounder to Heffner.

Dietrich Goes Indian Hunting for Sox Today

Bill Dietrich will be on the mound this afternoon when the White Sox open a three game series with the Indians in Cleveland. Mel Harder will start for the Indians.

Jimmy Dykes finally has admitted that old age is creeping up on him. He appeared in the club house before yesterday's game wearing glasses, but doesn't wear them on the field.

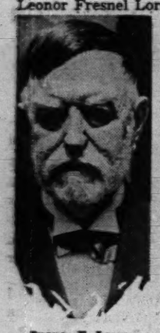
LEONOR F. LOREE, NOTED RAILROAD DEVELOPER, DIES

Delaware & Hudson Head for 30 Years.

New York, Sept. 6 [Special].—Leonor Fresnel Loree, one of the last of the old school of railroad kings, died today at his home in West Orange, N. J. Altho he was 82 years old, he did not retire until two years ago.



Leonor F. Loree.

Loree formerly was president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad. He had held important posts on many of the nation's leading railroads and was an executive of various other large corporations. Besides the Delaware and Hudson, he was active in the affairs of the Kansas City Southern, the Baltimore and Ohio, the New York Central, and the Rock Island.

A contemporary of those apostles of individualism, James J. Hill and Edward H. Harriman, Loree fought his way up in an era of handle bar mustaches, gas lights, and hawser watch chains. He began his career when railroads were sprawling in their infancy, groping across a continent still inhabited by roving Indians.

Born in Illinois.

Loree was born at Fulton City, Ill., on April 23, 1858. While he was still a boy his parents moved from Illinois to Rahway, N. J. He attended schools there and was graduated as a civil engineer from Rutgers college in 1877. He started railroading as an $8 a week surveyor's assistant on the Pennsylvania road.

After service as a United States army engineer and with the Mexican National railway, Loree returned to the Pennsylvania railroad and became assistant engineer of the Chicago division.

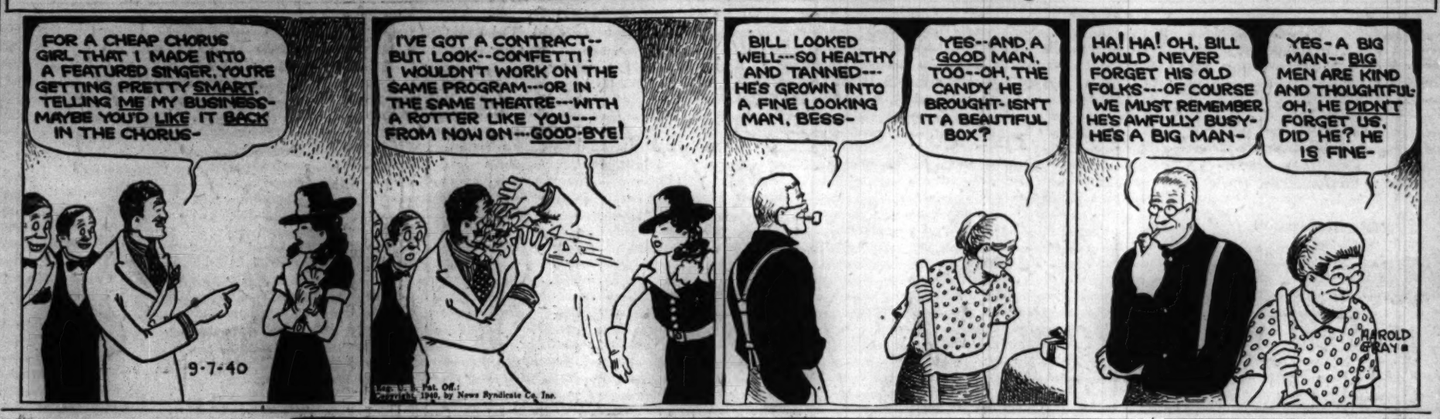
Upon attaining a vice presidency he quit to become president of the Baltimore and Ohio in 1901 at the age of 43. Three years later he quit that road to become president of the Rock Island company of New Jersey and chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific company. In 1907 he was elected president of the Delaware and Hudson company, and two years later became chairman of the board of the Kansas City Southern. He retired from the Kansas City Southern in 1936 and from the Delaware and Hudson in 1938.

Funeral Next Wednesday.

Surviving besides the widow, Mrs. Jessie Loree, are a daughter, Mrs. D. M. Collins, who lived with her parents at their estate Bowood in West Orange; and two sons, James T. of Albany, N. Y., and Robert F. Loree of Florham Park.

Funeral services will be held at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, West Orange, at 9 a. m. Wednesday. Burial will be private.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Wishful Thinking



MARION CLAIRE ON TOMORROW'S SYMPHONIC HOUR

Chicago Tribune Symphonic Hour listeners will welcome back Marion Claire, soprano soloist, and Henry Weber, conductor of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, at tomorrow night's broadcast. The program will be on the air from 9 to 10 o'clock, over W-G-N, the Mutual network, and that of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation.

The speaker of the evening will be Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE.

Miss Claire and Mr. Weber—Mr. and Mrs. Weber in private life—were on a vacation for two weeks in Glacier National park. Miss Claire will sing three solos in tomorrow night's program and also will be heard with the W-G-N chorus singing Victor Herbert's "Angelus."

Under Mr. Weber's direction the orchestra's offering will include the introduction and wedding march from Rimsky-Korsakov's "Coq D'Or," the overture to "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner, and "The Bee," by Franz Schubert. The Symphonic Hour is directed by William A. Bacher, W-G-N chief of programs and production.

FIFTH COLUMN DRAMA SERIES ENDED ON W-G-N

The 10th episode of Wings for America, broadcast last night from the W-G-N main audience studio, brought the spy drama to its conclusion. The Advance Front, a mythical fifth column group, finally was destroyed thru efforts of Lorna Carroll, a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, and Riley Davis, a Mutual network news commentator.

Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes, stage and screen stars, played the leading rôles in the drama, which was written and produced by Blair Walliser.

In last night's episode Lorna, in disguise, attended an Advance Front meeting in an underground hideout. The fifth columnists completed plans for sabotaging the country's oil, coal, and helium reserves, but the plot was frustrated and the group broken up forever by the arrival of Davis and police.

WARD'S PROFITS DIP; SIX MONTH NET $10,274,454

Income Tax Reserve Rises $500,000.

Montgomery Ward & Co.'s earnings declined slightly in the first six months of its fiscal year, an interim report by Sewell L. Avery, chairman and president, disclosed yesterday.

The large mail order and retail chain store system earned $10,274,454, or $1.83 per share of common stock, in the six months ended July 31, compared with $10,315,808 or $1.84 a share in the 1939 period.

[Sales for the period established a record for the first half of any fiscal year in the company's history. The sales figures, as well as those for August and the seven months ended Aug. 31, appear in a separate story in column 5 of this page.]

Taxes Take More.

The income statement showed that an increase of more than $20,000,000 in net sales was almost entirely counterbalanced by an increase in the deduction for cost of goods sold, selling, and general expenses and all taxes other than income taxes, leaving net operating profit at $13,640,396, against $13,102,835 for the 1939 period.

Earnings for the current period were further reduced by a $500,000 increase in the amount provided for federal and state income taxes—$3,400,000 for the period this year against $2,900,000 last year.

"No provision has been made to cover the proposed excess profits tax now pending before congress," Avery stated. "Based on the bill as passed by the house on Aug. 29, such tax for the half year will approximate $1,750,000."

Comparative Figures.

The 1939 period earnings were the highest for the six months in the company's history. During the first six months of 1938, earnings were $5,139,526, or 85 cents a share. In the first half of the 1937 fiscal year earnings were $9,049,644.

According to the consolidated balance sheet, the company has pared its cash on hand as of July 31 to $12,965,426 from $21,677,295 on the date last year and has increased its merchandise inventories to $97,531,648 from $89,531,043. Total current assets on July 31 were $195,042,863 against $179,525,539 the previous year. Current liabilities totaled $40,524,635 compared with $37,297,016.

Net working capital was $154,518,228, compared with $142,228,522 after the first six months of the 1939 fiscal year.

PONTIAC DEALERS ARE TOLD ABOUT 1941 SALES PLANS

About 1,000 dealers and salesmen for the Pontiac division of General Motors yesterday heard D. U. Bathrick, vice-president and general sales manager, outline sales plans for the 1941 model year at a meeting at the Palmer House.

"Don't sell a car unless you can see a net profit in the transaction," was the advice Bathrick gave the sales force. He said that the successful record of dealers last year was based on this principle. Last year, he said, Pontiac sales showed a 53 per cent gain over 1939 and dealer profits rose 65 per cent. Bathrick said that on Sept. 1 Pontiac dealers had 24,565 used cars in stock, the lowest total in the history of the company.

C. G. Riley, Chicago zone manager for Pontiac, presided at the meeting. Other executives present were W. J. Mougey, who was promoted from Chicago zone manager to advertising manager of the company a few months ago, and W. A. P. John, Detroit advertising official.

Elevated Line's Traffic Increases in August

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated] carried 11,540,991 revenue passengers in August, compared with 11,415,123 a year ago, an increase of 1.10 per cent, according to figures made public yesterday. The total for the first eight months was 98,071,138, against 95,420,760 in 1939, a gain of 2.78 per cent.

LETTERS

[This department prints from time to time letters of not more than 250 words addressed to the financial editor.]

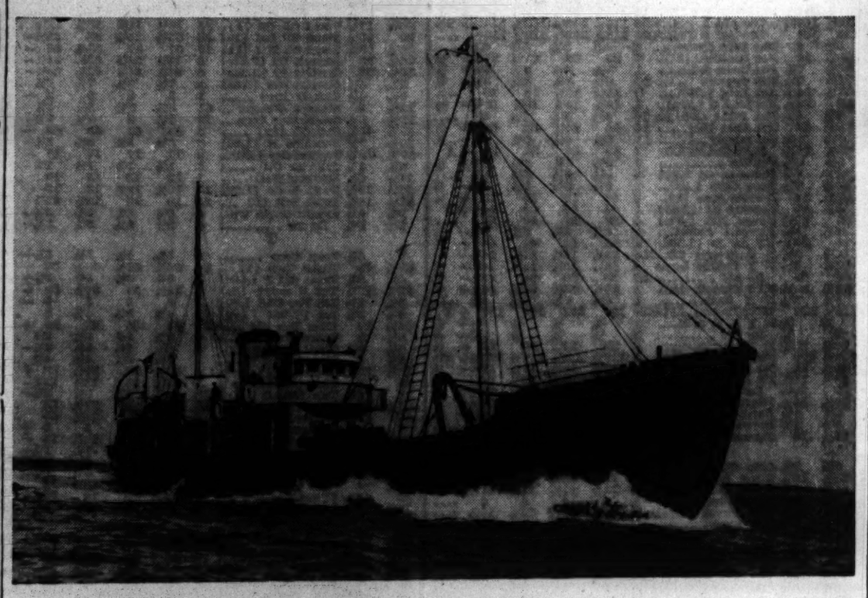
Dear Sir: In your survey of the low interest paid to the government by various classes of borrowers you might have mentioned that 6 per cent is paid by those who borrow on their government life insurance policies. On these loans the government cannot lose, which might indicate a relatively low rate of interest. On the other hand, perhaps, anybody who has kept up his insurance is a plutocrat, if not an economic royalist.

Very truly yours,
F. P. J.

Speedy Fishing Boat Sold to Navy



Known as the fastest boat in the Atlantic seaboard fishing fleet, the Delaware was one of three trawlers sold to the United States navy for $750,000 by Booth Fisheries corporation, Chicago. R. P. Fletcher Jr., president, said the ships will be used as mine sweepers. The Delaware is Diesel powered and is capable of 13 knots an hour. It was launched in 1937.

Copper Sales Soar to 113,106 Tons in a Day

Domestic sales of copper Thursday skyrocketed to 113,106 tons—the largest single day's turnover in the memory of leaders in the industry, figures released yesterday disclosed. The huge volume of buying accompanied a boost Thursday in the producer price for the metal to 11⅛ cents a pound from the 11 cents that had prevailed thru August.

Demand for copper rapidly gained headway after the higher price was announced by a major producer, and buyers hastened to cover their needs before the new quotation became widespread. Traders expressed belief that the bulk of the sales were made at the 11 cent figure. None of the day's advances in the price of brass and copper products or wire and cable material became effective until the close of business Thursday, so all of this turnover was booked at the lower price.

Linked to Government Orders.

Metal dealers said the recent faster buying rate of copper has been due to heavy orders for brass products—of which copper is a principal constituent—from Great Britain and the United States government.

It was reported that the feeling in the copper market is that Great Britain's chances for victory have improved. This development, it was said, coupled with growing United States defense needs, has given rise to the belief among metal traders that the demand for copper will be active for a long period.

On the other hand, certain interests expressed fear that the buying rush has covered consumers to such an extent that large stocks are now laid by and purchases will slow up until these stocks begin to run low.

Sales Volumes Compared.

The largest previous daily copper sales total recorded was the 106,101 tons of July 21, 1936. Thursday's volume compares with Wednesday's total of 9,858 tons. So far in September, sales amount to 132,060 tons, against 8,859 tons disposed of in the same period in August and 6,282 tons sold during that entire month.

Copper futures yesterday were fairly steady, with closing price 0.01 cent a pound higher to 0.01 cent lower. September contracts were quoted at 10.04 to 10.12 cents. Cash copper was firm and unchanged, both on Connecticut Valley and New York export bases.

I. C. C. EXAMINER OFFERS PLAN FOR SOUTHERN ROAD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—A proposed plan of reorganization for the Alabama, Tennessee & Northern railroad reducing capitalization from $5,502,637 to $3,502,661 and annual fixed charges from $240,876 to $16,000 was issued today by J. V. Walsh, an Interstate Commerce commission examiner.

The equities of the holders of the present general mortgage 6 per cent bonds, due 1948, general creditors, preferred stock, and common stock holders were found to have no value and no provision was made for their participation in the plan.

Present holders of prior-lien 6 per cent bonds, due 1948, would receive for each $1,000, provided all interest coupons dated July 1, 1932, and subsequently were attached, $755 in new second mortgage income 4½ per cent bonds, $377.50 of new preferred stock, and $377.50 of new common stock.

The trustees' certificates of indebtedness would be paid in cash from a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan.

End Blighted Areas to Aid Chicago, Engineer Advises

Members of the Chicago Plan commission were told yesterday that the city's blighted areas must be rehabilitated if Chicago is to become the first city in the world. Walter H. Blucher, executive director of the American Society of Planning Engineers, said these areas could be remade thru private and public housing projects and thru revision of present city zoning ordinance.

GEN. MOTORS LOSES FIGHT AGAINST EQUAL PAY FOR MEN, WOMEN

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 6 [Special].—The Michigan Supreme court, in a suit appealed by General Motors corportion, today upheld constitutionality of a statute providing that employers must pay women the same wage as men for discharging the same duties.

The court supported an opinion of Judge Charles H. Hayden of the Ingham county Circuit court, holding there was no merit in the corporation's plea that the law, enacted in 1931, was "arbitrary, uncertain, confiscatory, and discriminatory."

The corporation had brought a test suit against the department of labor and industry, the attorney general, and the Ingham county prosecutor seeking an injunction to prevent enforcement of the law on the alleged grounds of its unconstitutionality and ambiguity.

The women involved in the case were employed in the paint and sheet metal departments of the Olds plant, doing work which they contended included exactly the same operations as were performed by men who were being paid a higher rate.

Justice Walter H. North, who wrote the Supreme court opinion, asserted that the state was seeking to "prevent the exploitation of women workers" and appeared to have "adopted a reasonable means of doing so."

NEW FINANCING IN WEEK DIPS TO 3 MONTH LOW

New York, Sept. 6 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities dried up during the week ended yesterday, totaling only $6,419,350, the smallest volume in three months, Poor's Publishing company said today. The total was larger than a year ago, however, when the new securities market was temporarily paralyzed by the outbreak of war.

Municipal financing accounted for most of the new issues. Offerings by corporations were negligible. Underwriting circles said that a substantial volume of new corporate issues was being held off the market pending final settlement of the excess profits tax and plant amortization legislation. The week's offerings were:

Auto Production in Week Increases to 39,665 Units

Ward's Reports, Inc., estimated yesterday that automobile production for the current week totaled 39,665 cars and trucks, compared with 27,645 last week and 26,865 in the corresponding week a year ago. Predicting near capacity operations "toward the end of the month," the publication said that volume would take a major step forward next week "when virtually the entire industry will be on a five-day week under a gathering head of steam."

YOU'LL LIKE CHICAGO IS NEW GUIDE BOOK'S MESSAGE TO VISITORS

Nearly every important landmark and sightseeing location in the Chicago area is described in a new special guide book to be distributed to delegates to conventions in Chicago. The booklet was prepared by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Titled "You Will Like Chicago," the booklet contains pictures and descriptions of attractions most likely to prove of interest to every delegate and his family who comes to the nation's "convention capital." The association prepared a similar booklet on a smaller scale earlier in the summer to help vacationists and tourists. This was said to have contributed materially to the big increase in vacation business reported by Chicago hotels, restaurants, and department stores.

The association is mailing copies of the guide to more than 100,000 prospective convention visitors to the city.

Booth Sells Three Fishing Boats to Navy

Three Diesel powered fishing trawlers comprising the Atlantic fleet of Booth Fisheries corporation, Chicago, have been sold to the navy for use as minesweepers for a total of $750,000, R. P. Fletcher Jr., president of the company, disclosed yesterday.

The vessels—the Maine, Delaware, and Illinois—have been based at Boston, Mass., and have already been turned over to the navy. About a dozen other similar trawlers have been acquired by the government in recent weeks, it is understood.

"Booth Fisheries corporation, coöperating with the United States' government," Fletcher said, "has taken the three trawlers out of service and delivered them to the navy.

Seeks Number of Trawlers.

"In keeping with the program of preparedness for national defense, the United States' navy has determined to acquire a number of trawlers engaged in fishing off the Atlantic seaboard for use as mine sweepers.

"The company has under consideration a proposal to commence, as soon as shipbuilding facilities are available, the construction of several new trawlers for its fishing operations. Such vessels would be so constructed as to be useful in time of emergency as naval auxiliaries."

The Delaware, newest of the three, is powered with a 7-cylinder Diesel and is capable of 12 to 13 knots an hour. It was built in 1937, has an over all length of 146 feet, and a 25 foot beam. According to Fletcher, it was the fastest fishing boat off the Atlantic coast.

Other Boats' Measurements.

Also Diesel powered, the other two are capable of about 10 knots speed, are 121½ feet long and 24 feet wide. They have a gross tonnage of 256 15-100 and net tonnage of 123.

The navy's boat-acquiring program has included the purchase of a number of private yachts and similar vessels capable of auxiliary duty, in addition to the fishing vessels.

TOLUENE OUTPUT, TNT COMPONENT, WILL BE AMPLE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—The defense commission reported today that the petroleum industry would be able to produce more than enough toluene, vital component of TNT, for United States military purposes. Toluene production was a serious problem in the world war.

Because a few months would be required to install recovery and purification equipment at refineries, the commission said it planned to accumulate a "stock pile" of toluene to prevent any temporary shortage.

Domestic commercial demands, accounting for two-thirds of present production, can be met by recovery of toluene from byproduct coke ovens, said Edward R. Stettinius Jr., commission member in charge of raw materials. In 1939, he said, approximately 25,000,000 gallons of toluene were produced in the United States, 2,000,000 more than the peak productive capacity per year during the world war.

Greece Makes Payment of Interest on 1929 Loan

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 [Special.]—The treasury department today announced receipt from the Greek government of $87,168, representing 40 per cent of the semiannual interest due on Nov. 10, 1938, of the 4 per cent loan of this government to Greece in 1929. The payment was received, it was announced, without prejudice to the contractual rights of this country as set forth in the loan agreement.

Quite a Mistake in This Tax Payment; In Fact 8 Million

New Orleans, La., Sept. 6 (AP).—Quite a mistake was this one; in fact, an eight million dollar slip. The internal revenue collector glared at the $8,000,801.16 check he received from a Shreveport man in payment of his quarterly income tax. It should have read $801.16. The collector returned the check, blaming a check writing machine for the error.

SALES OF THREE BIG COMPANIES BREAK RECORDS

Sears, Walgreen and Ward Show Gains.

Record breaking sales were reported yesterday by three large companies with headquarters in Chicago—Sears, Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., and Walgreen company.

Sears' sales in August totaled $58,819,848, an increase of 21.9 per cent over sales of $48,259,011 in August, 1939. The mail order concern reported that sales for the first seven months of its fiscal year, which started Feb. 1, were $387,569,774, or 12.5 per cent more than the $344,485,598 in the period last year.

Sears also reported that its annual pay roll expenditures in Illinois rose 26 per cent in 1939 to a total of $23,716,293. M. C. Penticoff, manager of the Chicago area, said the amount of wages paid to all employés during 1939 totaled $96,088,000, an increase of $17,917,000 over 1938.

$8,500,000 Paid in Benefits.

In the same period the company paid out $8,500,000 for voluntary employé benefits such as profit sharing, vacations, sick leaves, and holidays, Penticoff said. Sears will celebrate its 54th anniversary from Sept. 12 to Sept. 28.

The other large mail order house and retail chain outlet, Montgomery Ward & Co., had sales of $42,691,853 in August, an increase of 9.47 per cent over sales of $38,998,205 in August last year. For the seven months ended Aug. 31, sales totaled $284,141,934, or 9.98 per cent over the 1939 period total of $258,363,544.

As shown in the earnings report of Montgomery Ward for the first half of the fiscal year, sales for the six months ended July 31 were the largest for any first half year in the company's history at $228,713,417, compared with $208,556,790, the former record, in the corresponding period a year earlier. The increase was 9.66 per cent.

Walgreen company, drug store chain, which also had the highest sales in its history, reported August dollar volume was $6,280,693, an increase of 10.1 per cent over sales of $5,704,522 in the month last year. For the first eight months of 1940, sales were $48,529,981, an increase of 6.4 per cent over sales of $45,608,292 in the first eight months of 1939.

Other Chains Do Better.

Other chain organizations also showed the effect of the rapidly swelling stream of money that is pouring thru industrial channels into the nation's stores.

F. W. Woolworth company reported August sales were $26,827,630 compared with $24,123,080 in August last year, an increase of 11.2 per cent, while sales for the first eight months increased 5.4 per cent to $197,370,205 from $187,212,589 in the period last year.

W. T. Grant company's August sales showed an increase of 21.3 per cent in August, totaling $8,749,986 against $7,210,004 in the month last year. For the eight months ended Aug. 31, the total was $61,946,629, an increase of 6.4 per cent, compared with sales of $58,209,005 in the 1939 period.

New Plymouth Autos Shown to Salesmen

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

D. S. Eddins.

Numerous improvements in the new models were described by D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth. The car is roomier than the 1940 models. The wheelbase will be continued at 117 inches.

The engine has been stepped up to 87 horse power. It is equipped with high duty bearings of the latest design, which, it is said, give five times longer bearing life.

The car is equipped with a new type of gear which, under normal road conditions, makes it possible to start in second speed for a quick getaway, with a lower gear in reserve for uphill starts or pulling out of ruts. This is made possible by new transmission and rear axle ratios combined with the extra power.

Powered Gearshift Offered.

A new power operated gearshift is being included as optional extra equipment. Operation requires only the flick of a finger, it is said. The standard manual type lever on the steering post is said to have been made easier to operate.

A contribution to safety is a new rim wheel design which reduces the hazards from a blowout or puncture by preventing tires from being thrown off the wheel even when traveling at high speed. It is explained that with this new rim a completely deflated tire has the same driving effect as a tire inflated to 10 pounds pressure on the standard type wheel.

Safety Check on Doors.

Other safety factors include safety checks on the front doors to prevent them from closing while driver or passenger is entering the car, and counterbalanced hinges on the trunk door to prevent it from falling accidentally.

New grooved spring leaves of a special steel are used at the rear for softer spring action and longer life. There is a new one piece hood with inside lock. Operation is controled from the driver's seat and there is an extra safety catch outside for the service attendant to release.

A new oil bath air cleaner on the engine is standard equipment on all models. Bodies have improved sealing against dust, water, heat, and noise.

Two Tone Colors in Some.

The appearance has been changed by a new radiator grille design plus new streamlining. The front end mass is considerably larger than in the 1940 models, with fenders higher and broader.

Two tone colors are a feature of the interiors of the de luxe models. The instrument panel is new, with all indicators placed so they are directly in front of the driver's eyes.

The 1941 Plymouth comes in 13 body styles, including seven passenger and station wagon models. There are two lines, the Plymouth, which offers standard equipment, and the Plymouth Special de luxe. The over all length, including bumpers, is 194¾ inches.

STOCKS FALTER UNDER LOAD OF PROFIT SELLING

Accounts Lightened for Week-End.

New York, Sept. 6 (AP).—The stock market stumbled today for the first time in 10 consecutive sessions as profit selling on the lengthy advance became more insistent.

Despite intensification of the battle of England, traders generally were optimistic. In addition, business prospects, high lighted by the huge defense spending program, continued as a bolstering influence. The urge to lighten accounts in preparation for unexpected eventualities abroad over the week-end, however, could not be ignored by some, and a downward drift ruled from the opening on.

Some Losses Are Pared.

Losses, running to a point or so for recent leaders, were shaded here and there at the close, but there was no real comeback. A few coppers, mail orders, utilities, and aviations were resistant.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, after being unchanged to higher from Aug. 24 to Thursday, finished with a net decline of 0.4 of a point at 45.

Dealings slackened appreciably on the reaction. Transfers totaled 709,320 shares, against 1,247,320 yesterday, which was the largest turnover since June 12.

Steels Among Losers.

Prominent stocks on the losing side were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Lockheed, American Smelting, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Loft, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, and Western Union.

Norfolk and Western, on meager transactions, was up 6½ points at 223½. Minor gains were held by Anaconda, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, United States Rubber, J. C. Penney, Boeing, and Eastern Air Lines.

CHICAGO TRENDS MIXED.

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange leveled off somewhat yesterday after Thursday's spurt carried volume to 35,000 shares and prices upward. Transactions declined to 26,000 shares. The 36 issues which advanced were balanced by 36 which declined. The 31 others were unchanged. Middle West, the volume leader, rose ⅛ point to 6¼.

RAILROADS MOVE LARGEST FREIGHT VOLUME OF YEAR

Railroads in the United States loaded 768,821 cars of revenue freight last week—a new peak level for the year and the highest since the week ended Nov. 18, 1939, when 771,404 cars were handled, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

The volume represented an increase of 7,819 cars, or 1 per cent, over the preceding week; a gain of 52,424, or 7.3 per cent over the same week last year, and an increase of 120,792 or 18.6 per cent, compared with 1938.

The decline in grain shipments was larger than usual for the week before Labor day, while the rise in miscellaneous freight was smaller than normally expected. The gain in total loadings was less than seasonal.

PRESIDENT ASKS 2½ MILLIONS TO COMPLETE DAM

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—President Roosevelt forwarded to congress today a request that a deficiency appropriation bill expected to be introduced in the house next week contain $2,500,000 for completing construction of Marshall Ford dam on the Colorado river in Texas.

With that amount the dam would be finished at a cost of $23,871,000, said Representative Lyndon Johnson [D., Tex.]. This would be $1,120,000 below the original estimate. The dam will tower 265 feet and produce hydroelectric power for distribution to a central Texas area, as well as Houston, Fort Worth, and San Antonio.

The President also requested a $400,000 appropriation to complete by Dec. 1 the Vallecito dam, a part of the Pine River project in Colorado.

U. S. Engineer Office, 816 U. S. Court House & Custom House, St. Louis, Mo. Sealed bids received until September 24, 1940, for constructing 2,760 feet of structural I-beam track (for stream gaging car) suspended from Thebes railroad bridge over Mississippi River, Thebes, Illinois, 43 miles upstream from Cairo, Ill. RISE IN NORMAL TAX VOTED BY SENATE GROUP

Puts Special Levy on Defense Profits.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—The senate finance committee decided on a sweeping revision of the pending excess profits tax bill today, including a 3.1 per cent boost in the normal tax rate for all corporations and imposition of a 10 per cent special tax on profits flowing from American or foreign defense orders.

Chairman Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] announced the committee's action which he described as "tentative" and subject to further change before the job of rewriting the bill has been finished. He expressed hope the bill would be ready for senate consideration by Monday.

Boosts in Normal Taxes.

The increase in the normal income tax, it was explained, would raise the levy in the top bracket—corporations with more than $25,000 net income—from 20.9 to 24 per cent. Similar increases were made in other brackets. The rate would be 17.95 per cent for corporations earning $5,000 or less.

Among other things, the committee agreed to eliminate the 4.1 per cent "penalty tax" which the bill, as it passed the house, would have applied to corporations basing their determination of excess profits on average earnings for the four-year period 1936-'39. At the same time, the committee fixed at 25 to 50 per cent the rate schedule to be applied to all excess profits.

House Bill Provision.

Under the house bill, this rate would have applied to corporations computing excess profits on the basis of average earnings, but a schedule ranging from 20 to 45 per cent would have applied if the taxpayer used the relation of his return on invested capital to the return in the base period as the method for computing excess profits.

The committee also voted:

1. To permit filing of consolidated returns for corporations having subsidiaries.

2. To give the commissioner of internal revenue authority to grant relief for special situations, with appeal to the board of tax appeals from the commissioner's rulings.

3. To move back to Jan. 1, 1940, the effective date of liberalized amortization requirements on defense industries. Under the house bill it would have been necessary to have completed construction of a defense facility subsequent to July 10 to be eligible for the amortization benefit.

Explains Rate Change.

The flat increase in normal corporation taxes, members said, was written into the bill partly to offset the loss from elimination of the 4.1 per cent "penalty." The boost, they said, would yield an estimated $225,000,000 in additional revenue, with a net gain of $180,000,000 for the bill. This would make the bill's prospective yield on 1940 income about $480,000,000.

The special 10 per cent tax on defense profits would be applied to that part of excess profits which came from defense contracts with the United States or foreign governments. Subcontractors who furnished materials to a contractor for such orders would be included.

WORK ON SURVEY OF 75 INDUSTRIES IN DEFENSE STEP

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6 (AP).—Census Director William L. Austin announced today that he is surveying 75 industries for information wanted by the national defense commission.

The data will be obtained from the "census of manufactures" which was held early this year along with the population census.

First of the defense reports completed covered rubber tires and tubes. This report showed that 1939 production of 8,178,568 tires for trucks and buses—the types most adaptable for mechanized army units—was about 500,000 more than the number turned out in 1937. Tires for passenger automobiles totaled 49,166,077 in 1939, compared with 45,668,599 in 1937. Airplane tires, however, declined from 32,710 in 1937 to 30,405 in 1939.

FEE PETITIONS IN UTILITY CASE ARE WITHDRAWN

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday allowed counsel for the Associated Utilities corporation and Associated Investment corporation to withdraw a petition for fees and expenses totaling more than $500,000. The fees and expenses were requested in connection with the reorganization of the Utilities Power and Light corporation, in which both had blocks of stock.

Both are subsidiaries of the Associated Gas and Electric corporation, reorganization of which began recently in New York. Clarence Ross, the attorney, said that the managements believe that court costs for further litigation here would not be warranted.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 6 (AP).—Some sections of the bond market felt the weight of selling today, altho the list as a whole remained fairly close to the top levels of this week's advance.

In volume and action of the leaders the market had its best week in several months and approached the finish on a cheerful note.

Rising optimism on Great Britain's war position was reflected in a new crop of sharp gains in British empire bonds. Leaders today were Sydney 5½s of '55, up 12⅞ points; Brisbane 5s of '57, up 4; New South Wales 5s of '57, up 3¼, and Australia 5s of '57, up 2.

A number of domestic rails were targets for profit taking because of the wide gains scored earlier in the week.

In the group which continued on to new highs for the movement were International Telephone 5s at 32⅝, Goodrich 4¼s at 104⅝, Michigan Central 3½s of '52 at 92⅞, Studebaker 6s at 103⅝, and Standard Oil of New Jersey 2¾s at 105⅝.

Bank Stocks.

Continental Illinois and First National shares declined a point each yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Other leading issues were unchanged.

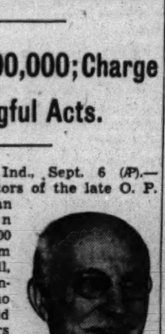
VAN SWERINGEN CREDITORS SUE GEORGE A. BALL

Seek $6,000,000; Charge Wrongful Acts.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 6 (AP).—Cleveland creditors of the late O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen sought $6,000,000 today from George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., industrialist who gave financial aid to the brothers in 1935 when they were losing control of their railroad realm.



George A. Ball.

Ohio's banking department, as liquidating agent for the Union Trust company of Cleveland, filed the suit in Federal court here. It charged Ball wrongfully acquired and sold 55 per cent of the common stock of Midamerica corporation, which had been assigned the Van Sweringens under certain conditions, and said the stock should have gone to the creditors.

Deal Is Recalled.

Ball and George A. Tomlinson, Great Lakes ship operator, set up Midamerica to acquire controling Van Sweringen stocks when New York bankers auctioned them five years ago to help satisfy defaulted loans.

Expressing desire for the brothers' "active participation" in the new corporation, Ball and Tomlinson at that time deposited 8,250 of Midamerica's 15,000 issued common shares in escrow for them. The agreement allowed the rail empire builders a 10-year option to purchase the shares.

Repudiation Charged.

The suit alleged Ball repudiated the agreement after the brothers died, causing creditors damage of $6,021,448 plus interest, instead of permitting them to purchase the shares at the nominal sum of $8,500.

The suit declared the provision that the Van Sweringens could exercise the option only after satisfying claims "was contrary to law."

Ball later sold most of Midamerica's assets to a syndicate headed by Robert R. Young, now chairman of Alleghany corporation, and A. P. Kirby, Alleghany's president.

CALL PRICE.

Why are the 3¼ per cent debentures of the American Telephone and Telegraph company selling higher than the 5½s? I shoud think the opposite would be true because the 3¼s have a longer maturity and lower interest rate.—C. B.

Answer: The principal factor which depresses the price of American Telephone and Telegraph 5½ per cent debentures of 1943 below that of the 3¼ per cent debentures of 1961 and 1966 is that the company has the right to [and probably will] redeem the 5½s next May 2 at 100.

The current price of the 5½s anticipates their redemption at par, which means that a purchaser who paid a premium for them will get only 100 when they are called by the company. The loss of the premium reduces the yield on the debentures.

It is likely that the company will call the 5½s because it can borrow to refund them at lower interest rates. The company, however, cannot redeem the 3¼s at par until Oct. 1, 1957, for those maturing in 1961, and until June 1, 1961, for those maturing in 1966.

Should the company desire to call the 3¼s in the next year it would have to pay 107½.

WOODWARD GOVERNOR.

I noticed recently that the Woodward Governor company paid a .25 cents dividend. I don't think I have seen this company mentioned in the stock tables. What does it make? Is it privately owned?—S. B.

Answer: The Woodward Governor company manufactures governors for water wheels, steam engines, motors, and for variable pitch airplane propellers. Privately held until recently, the company's stock was offered in part to the public last month. Of the 62,000 shares offered the public 52,000 represented old shares formerly held by stockholders, and 10,000 were new shares offered by the company.

Capitalization of the company now consists of 190,000 shares of $1 par common stock, not listed on an exchange. An initial dividend of 25 cents a share was paid Sept. 4.

In 1939, the company reported, net sales were $1,395,550 and net income $301,021. This compared with net sales of $791,384 and net income of $127,979 in 1938. In the first quarter this year, net sales were $481,746 and net income $127,023.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The market for hogs broke yesterday as demand narrowed, reflecting consumer resistance to pork prices in the last few days. Packers reported a slower movement of fresh cuts of pork into retail channels, resulting in some carryover, despite the continued light receipts of hogs at all points.

Medium and heavy hogs, including "lard hogs," showed the least weakness, selling off mostly 10 to 15 cents. Butchers under 230 pounds were off mostly 15 to 25 cents. Lights under 190 pounds lost fully 25 cents and in some instances more.

The scant supply of corn-fed steers in the run brought mostly steady prices. Grassfed and medium quality cattle comprised the bulk of offerings and these were slow and weak.
